Welles Says He Acts for Roosevelt in Cuban Strife

American Ambassador's Statement Opposes Machado's.

Arranges Parley Of Enemy Factions

Surprised State Aids Here Say Negotiations Are Personal.

Havana, July 27 (AP).—Sumner Welles, United States Ambassador, this evening told representatives of the government and opposition factions, meeting in friendly deliberations for the first time in more than two years, that he is acting, not alone for himself, but for President Roosevelt and the United States in attempting to mediate Cuban political differences.

President Gerardo Machado yesterday told Congress in two speeches that Welles' mediation was only the friendly act of an individual and did not "represent any foreign government."

Twelve delegates—six representing the opposition, two the Conservative party, two the Popular and two the Liberals, the latter also acting for the administration—met in the American Embassy in the first of the rond-table conferences, out of which Welles hopes will emerge constitutional reforms in the Cuban political situation.

Quotes Roosevelt.

In opening the discussions, the American envoy, who served as chairman, repeated part of President Roosevelt's recent message to the Cuban people in which he declared "the restoration of political peace is a necessary and essential preliminary step on the way to Cuba's economic recovery."

Communist demonstrations took place today at Santiago and Antilla, Oriente Province, and at Marianao, near Havana. Havana police were held in reserve tonight against the possibility of disorders.

(Associated Press.)

Dispatches from Havana quoting Sumner Welles, the American Ambassador to Cuba, as saying he is acting for President Roosevelt in attempting to mediate Cuban affairs created surprise in official circles in Washington.

The position of the State Department, as repeatedly announced since Welles began friendly efforts to settle the differences between President Machado and his enemies, has been that the ambassador's negotiations are purely in his personal capacity, and not as an American official.

It was said last night in official circles that this policy has not been changed.

The United States Government, however, was represented as eager to have the political situation in Cuba quieted and economic conditions bettered.

The ambassador was said to have the best wishes of this Government for the success of his unofficial negotiations.

3-Day World Flight Is Planned by Pair

Detroit, July 27 (AP).—Bennett H. Griffin, Oklahoma City, air pilot who last year flew the Atlantic with James J. Mattern, unsuccessful round-the-world solo flier, today said he and Mattern are planning a nonstop attempt to circle the globe in three days.

Griffin, here for an air show, said they plan to make the flight next February or March, if Mattern is able.

"The third time is the charm," said Griffin. "Jimmy and I tried it together last year and cracked up in Russia. Now he has tried it alone and had bad luck. Next year we will try it together again, if this last trip hasn't done him up. We will go nonstop by refueling in flight at three points along the route."

Diplomat Sees Welding Of Both the Americas

Atlanta, July 27 (AP).—Ramon Arias, Panama statesman, in an address here today expressed the belief President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull are going to bring together the peoples of North and South America in a real pact of pan-Americanism.

Senor Arias, a banker in the Panama republic, with Senora Arias, are making their home here while their two sons are in college. He has just returned from Chicago, where he represented the republic at the World's Fair. He has held many diplomatic posts.

Public Works Advisor Locates in Baltimore

Baltimore, July 27 (AP).—George L. Radcliffe, regional advisor of public works for the Tenth District, tonight announced the regional headquarters of the Federal Public Works Administrtaion would be located in Baltimore instead of Richmond, Va., as originally planned.

THE WASHINGTON POST takes pleasure in announcing that Carlisle Bargeron will rejoin The Post staff in about two weeks. Mr. Bargeron's keenly analytical articles were known and followed by every Post reader in the days when he first achieved his outstanding reputation, and old readers and new alike are invited to look for the first of his new series, to appear on or about August 14.

Pistol Battle Shots Wound 2; Both May Die

Ninth Street Gamblers' Ring Is Suspected in Gun Affray.

Two men were probably fatally wounded early today in a gun battle in front of 1835 K street northwest, which was the outgrowth of an altercation between seven or eight men.

The wounded are: John Mitchell, of 1835 K street, and Lewis Tapponier, of 473 H street northwest. Mitchell was treated at Emergency Hospital for a wound in his chest and abdomen. Lapponier was taken to Garfield, where he was found to have been shot in both legs. Both men were aparently wounded with a small revolver.

Policemen at the Third Precinct, less than two blocks away, heard a series of shots fired and rushed to the scene, finding the two wounded and bleeding, upon the sidewalk amid a crowd hastily gathered by the bombarding.

Residents in the section reported that a number of unusual circumstances had been noted at the apartment where Mitchell lived. For several nights they reported that slow-cruising automobiles had been seen. Lights have burned throughout the night in the apartment believed to be occupied by Mitchell.

Shortly after the shooting a lookout was broadcast for a black coupe bearing license tags issued to a man living in the 1700 block of Lanier place northwest.

Police expressed belief that the shooting resulted from a flare-up among socalled Ninth street gambling fraternity.

Two men were booked for investigation at the Third Precinct. They were, Andy Adelizzi, 28, 228 First street northwest, and Stanley Petrone, 20, 90 K street northeast.

After the Shooting, the man believed to have done the shooting was reported seen hiding in an areaway by the apartment house, an dthe gun which he probably used was found in the areawayfl It was a 22-caliber automatic.

Child Stolen?

Mother of Congressman Says Granddaughter Came to Her.

Seattle, July 27 (AP).—With her son, Representative Marion Zioncheck (Democrat), of Washington, as her attorney, Mrs. Marion Zioncheck surrendered in justice court today on kidnaping charges, pleaded not guilty and was released on $500 bail. Hearing was set for August 2.

Mrs. Zioncheck is accused of kidnaping her granddaughter, Dorothy Kneeland, 12, in a complaint sworn to by the child's father, C. F. Kneeland. The child is now in the custody of Mason County authorities. Mrs. Zioncheck said the child came to her of her own volition last Saturday.

Lithuanians' Crash Ruled Accidental

Kovno, Lithuania, July 27 (U.P.).—A committee named to investigate the cause of the crash of the transatlantic airplane in which Capt. Stephen Darius and Stanley Girenas were killed in Germany, reported today that the tragedy was purely accidental.

Soviet Recognition Soon by U.S. Talked

Paris, July 27 (U.P.).—Indications that the United States would soon recognize Soviet Russia were strongly seen today with the arrival of Bernard Baruch, who will proceed Friday to Vichy, near where Maxim Litvinoff, the Soviet foreign commissar, is vacationing.

Litvinoff arrived at Royat, near Vichy, yesterday, stopping incognito at the resort. It was pointed out that it would be an easy matter for him to confer secretly in the Auvergne Mountains with Baruch, who recently has been close to the American State Department. Baruch continued to maintain that he was not on an official mission.

Woman Driver Sought Here in Fatal Accident

Mrs. Lena Anderson, Wife of State Senator, Dies After Being Struck.

Mrs. Lena Anderson, 78, widow of State Senator Hugh C. Anderson, of Tennessee, was fatally injured last night by a woman motorist who later vanished from Emergency Hospital after riding there with the injured woman.

The woman drove away from the hospital after giving attaches the excuse she was going to park her auto properly. Police later located the purported accident machine parked in front of the Park Lane Apartments, Twenty-first street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

The accident happened near the Carlton Hotel during the rush hour just after 6 o'clock. Mrs. Anderson died at 7:35 p. m.

Auto Driver Hunted.

Mrs. Anderson lived in a rooming house at 1028 Seventeenth street northwest. A daughter, once secretary to a United States senator, is said to be ill in a nearby sanitarium. Mrs. Anderson's 5-year-old grandchild was said to be living with friends in Wesley Heights.

Late last night detectives were searching the city for the driver of the car. It was a small sedan with Florida tags. A lookout was broadcast in connection with the action for "Mr. and Mrs. Millard Caldwell." The lookout directed police to inquire at hotels and boarding houses for the couple and, if found, bring them to headquarters for questioning.

A son, who is a State judge in Tennessee, was telegraphed last night of the death of his mother. The body was expected to be held at the District Morgue pending word from him.

Accident Reports Vary.

Reconstructing the accident, police learned the motorist was making a left turn from K street to go north on Sixteenth street. Mrs. Anderson was said by witnesses to be in the middle of the crosswalk when struck.

Reports as to whether the driver of the auto was accompanied were varied. Some said she was alone, others said another woman was with her.

A man, whose name police withheld, drove the machine to the hospital. He told the investigators the woman driver was highly agitated by the accident.

John Ringling Seeks Divorce in Florida

Sarasota, Fla., July 27 (AP).—John Ringling filed suit today for divorce from his wife, Mrs. Emily Haag Buck Ringling.

Turner to Stage Wrestling Show as Firemen's Benefit

Proceeds Will Be Used to Defray Expenses of Labor Day Parade.

Joe Turner, sports promoter, will stage the most spectacular wrestling card of his career at Griffith Stadium on the night of August 31 to help firemen here and everywhere make their parade this year the biggest in its history.

Announcement came from Turner's headquarters yesterday that he was already busy engaging talent for a gigantic mat show, which will be for the benefit of the eleventh annual fire fighter's Labor Day event.

Plans are now going forward to secure enough big stars of the game to bring out every wrestling fan in the District, as well as from nearby Virginia and Maryland. In addition, he hopes to have in the audience hundreds who have never seen a match, but who wish to assist with the parade.

Arrangements will be made to seat 15,000 persons, and with firemen in Washington and volunteers nearby talking up the event he thinks that it's possible to play to that sort of attendance.

Turner was disappointed when it was announced a month ago that the colorful firemen's parade was not to be held this year. Likewise, he was overjoyed when he learned that it had a sponsor.

"Now," he said, "I'm going to do my part toward making it the most successful one in its 11 years."

The parade committee hailed Turner's announcement with deep appreciation, and Sergt. A. J. Bargagni, parade marshal, quickly dispatched a letter of thanks to him.

With developments every day, plans for the parade are speeding up, despite the fact that the event is more than a month away. Meetings are being held, and firemen in the District department, as well as in Virginia and Maryland are busy at various details.

Of considerable interest is the announcement from the Pennsylvania Railroad that special excursions to the firemen's parade will

White House Aids Seek to Fill D. C. Jobs

President's Secretaries Attempt to Influence Appointments.

Melvin Hazen Opposed as Commissioner of District.

By J. Bernard McDonnell.

President Roosevelt is reported ready to draw a long breath, shut his eyes and swing the sword which shall cut through the Gordian knot of local political appointments.

Appointment of District Commissioners has been the subject of discussions between the President and Postmaster General James A. Farley, Senator William H. King (Democrat), chairman of the Senate District Committee; Frederic A. Delano, uncle of the President, and various others in the last few days.

Various interests have sought to reach the President to persuade the appointment of their favorites.

Of much greater significance, however, is the fact that members of the President's official family have undertaken to determine the President's decision.

Break Understanding.

When the President, with the advice of Louis McHenry Howe, selected his additional secretaries—Stephen S. Early and Marvin H. McIntyre—decision was made with the understadning that the secretaries would keep out of the political picture.

They have not done so. Pressure of friends of the genial secretaries has been so great they have undertaken to push friends or friends of friends for this or that local job.

Meanwhile the local Democratic leaders who are responsible for holding together some semblance of a party organization throughout the long years of Republican domination are on the outside looking in.

Count on Assurances.

Local Democratic leaders have been given assurances by the President and Farley. They are still counting on the assurances of the President. Meantime they are being shunted aside on patronage, the while various jobs are being filled at the behest of the President's secretaries, who are supposed to keep out of political patronage.

Senator King has joined in the battle and he isn't on the secretaries' side. Senator King is reported to have let the President know that he would be disposed to disapprove the nomination of one or two persons whose candidacies have been actively advanced. As chairman of the Senate District Committee he would have much to do with senatorial approval of the nominations, even though they were made in the absence of Congress.

There is a growing whispering campaign about the city about the reasons the President held off selecting the District officials. Recognition is given to the pressure of national business, but there is a growing insistence the President has other things in the back of his mind.

Doubt Women to Get Posts.

There has developed a determined drive against Melvin C. Hazen, District surveyor, who has been considered as likely to be named District Commissioner. Ernest G. Walker, Malcolm S. McConihe, and two or three others have been considered as among those who may be named.

Talk of selection of two women for the posts is not taken seriously by those who place any credence in the confidential statements of the President.

Convinced the municipal government should be reorganized, the President is reported to have sought authority to change the form of government under one or another of the extraordinary pieces of legislation passed by Congress at its last session. There is no authority for the President to do what he wants to do. He is expected to name today or soon thereafter new civilian District Commisioners, and submit to the next session of Congress in December a different program.

Doctor Using Plane Reaches Dog's Side

Washington Veterinarian Flies 700 Miles on Maine Emergency Call.

Haven, Me., July 27 (AP).—Summoned here by long distance telephone, Dr. Irving Cashell, Washington veterinarian, completed a hurried 700-mile flight from the Nation's Capital tonight to treat one of his canine patients, Balkash, prize-winning Samoyed.

Sidney C. Graves, distant cousin of President Roosevelt and owner of the animal, requested the veterinarian to rush by airplane to the Graves summer home here.

Dr. Cashell left the Washington-Hoover Airport at 6 a. m., changed planes at Newark, Boston and Rockland, and arrived here in an amphibian plane at 4 p. m. (Eastern standard time).

Mrs. Graves' husband, a prominent Washington real estate operator, said the animal was held in great affection by the family.

Mr. Graves said Dr. Cashell would remain here until the dog was out of danger, "possibly three or four days."

"Little Economic Conference" May Meet in Capital in Fall; Parley at London Recesses

Men in Navy Yards Want 32-Hour Plan

International Association of Machinists to Go to President.

Seeks Same Conditions Established by Code for Private Works.

By Robert C. Albright.

The battle of organized Federal employees to obtain recognition under the national recovery program broke out yesterday on a new front.

Government navy yard parity with 32-hour work-week conditions established for private industry in the shipbuilding code just signed by the President was sought by the International Association of Machinists.

Nelson P. Alifas, president of District 44, of the International Association, planned an appeal to the President to bring navy yards into line with the short-week code without any reductions in pay.

The machinist official recently waged a successful fight against a five-day week in Government navy yards, when it became clear the Navy Secretary's recent short-week order entailed a proportionate scaling down in salaries.

How It Could Be Done.

Officials of the association feel convinced that the President could issue an order proclaiming that so many hours a day constitute a day's work in Government navy yards.

As a precedent, they cite the action of President Theodore Roosevelt more than a score of years ago, who proclaimed four hours on Saturdays the equivalent of a day's work in the Government.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt will be asked to emulate the action of his illustrious kinsman, according to Mr. Alifas.

The head of the local International Machinists' District said the equivalent of a 32-hour work week could be had by the simple expedient of proclaiming that 5 hours constitute a day's work on two days a week, 6 hours on three days a week, and 4 hours on Saturday.

Churches Make Appeal.

A picture of unemployment in Washington resulting from the Federal retrenchment program, yesterday was presented to President Roosevelt in a letter from President William O. Tufts, of the Washington Federation of Churches.

The President was called on to instruct heads of new agencies to give every possible preference to competent employes "who have given their lives to the service and who have now been separated or indefinitely furloughed." Appreciation was expressed for those reinstatements which already have taken place.

"The intimate knowledge of Washington life possessed by the pastors and religious workers of the city has led us to the conclusion that greater stress and anxiety now exist among our population than at any other time during the past 50 years," the President was informed.

Mysterious Signal Light Sighted Off Puerto Rico

New York, July 27 (U.P.).—The steamship Castor reported by radio tonight that it had sighted a mysterious light at sea near Puerto Rico "supposed to be a signal firework."

Mackey Radio reported the Castor's message as follows:

"At 11:50 G. M. T. have seen light supposed to be signal firework position 28:20 north, 52:25 west. Have steered for it for one hour. Have seen no more. If airplane expected in this track please advise. S. S. Castor."

Tropical Gale May Hit Florida Coast Tonight

Miami, Fla., July 27 (AP).—The Florida peninsula may feel first effects of the Turks Island tropical disturbance as early as Friday night if the storm continues its present northwest course and progress of 15 miles an hour, the Miami Weather Bureau reported at 3 p. m. The center would reach the mainland about Friday midnight, the report added.

What, No Rain July 27? Seattle Holds Record

Seattle, July 27 (AP).—It didn't rain in Seattle today. That wouldn't be so remarkable, except it generally does rain here at least 150 days out of the 365, and on the others it's fairly foggy at times.

It happens no rain has fallen in Seattle on July 27 in the 43-year history of the United States Weather Bureau.

Post Retains Comics Under Court's Order

New York Supreme Court Holds Contract Is Assignable.

Four comic features well-known to Washingtonians—"The Gumps," "Winnie Winkle," "Gasoline Alley" and "Dick Tracy"—will continue to appear in The Washington Post as the result of a decision handed down by the Supreme Court of the State of New York yesterday.

This decision was rendered upon the petition of The Washington Post Publishing Co. The petition stated that the Chicago Tribune Co. and the Chicago Tribune Syndicate and Press Service had sold these comics and certain other features to the Washington Times Co., notwithstanding a contract with The Post, made in February, 1932, which still had come years to run. The Washington Times Co. publishes the Washington Herald and the Washington Times.

Justice Peter Schmuck, before whom an application for a preliminary injunction came, decided in favor of The Post and against the Chicago Tribune and its syndicate company. He held that the contract was assignable, that it had been acquired by The Washington Post Publishing Co., and that The Post was entitled to performance of it.

The Washington Herald has been printing the four comics since July 16, and an action is pending in the Supreme Court of the District, by which The Post seeks to restrain the Washington Times Co. and its newspapers from publishing them.

Kidnap Racket Gets Blow by Death Verdict

Attorney General Cummings Hails Conviction in McElroy Girl's Case.

Kansas City, July 27 (AP).—A smash at the kidnaping racket—the first death verdict—was delivered here today by a Missouri jury which convicted Walter McGee, confessed leader in the $30,000 ransom kidnaping of Miss Mary McElroy.

The 25-year-old victim, daughter of City Manager H. F. McElroy, her father, and Attorney General Cummings, in Washington, and other officials, engaged in the Nation-wide crusade to stamp out kidnaping and racketeering, hailed the verdict as one that would put a check on abductions.

"I hope this will help to prevent future kidnapings," said Miss McElroy, who had identified McGee from the witness stand.

"This is the first verdict in the United States of death in a kidnaping case," County Prosecutor T. A. J. Mastin commented. "It will be a wonderful benefit, not only to Jackson County, but to every State in the Union that is made a prey of kidnapers.

"The influence as a deterrent to criminals and as an aid to public protection of one hanging verdict in a kidnaping case is greater than the influence of penitentiary terms to 20 kidnapers."

Attorney General Cummings, who assigned a special assistant, Joseph B. Keenan, to assist in the prosecution, expressed satisfaction.

"That indicates how people feel

Senator Long Facing Threat To Domination of Louisiana

Insurgent on Spot as Enemies Are Given Political Plums.

By Raymond Clapper.

(Copyright, 1933.)

The administration has put the irrepressible Senator Huey Long on the patronage spot.

At the rate President Roosevelt is recognizing Long's political enemies back home with desirable appointments, the curly-haired young insurgent soon may be faced with a threat to his domination of Louisiana.

He came to Washington this week to find out what these warning signs in the form of hostile appointments meant. The answer, within 24 hours after he saw President Roosevelt, was appointment of another political opponent.

Long, however, displayed no sign of worry about the situation last night. He issued a statement saying, "The President and I are never going to fall out because of patronage."

He defended his vigorous opposition to veterans' cuts at the last session of Congress and added that President Roosevelt still agrees "in principle" on the need of redistribution of wealth, one of the Louisiana senator's chief hopes.

"I understand the rules of war in politics," the statement said. "I will not complain if, in their application, I am not given all I might have had and if I could have believed otherwise on some public issues."

"My chances of accomplishing good are much better with the help of the President, even though I could not and may not in the future go the full route with him on some matters," Long declared.

He accompanied a New Orleans delegation to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation offices yesterday to see about more funds for a Louisiana bridge. He also is trying to bring about reinstatement of more than 500 men who have been Gathering May Be Held During Negotiations on War Debts.

Hull Will Press Tariff-Cut Plan

Message From Roosevelt Hailed as Delegates Leave Britain.

London, July 27 (U.P.).—A "little world economic conference" is expected to meet in Washington early this autumn, it was understood tonight, after the London World Conference had recessed—Perhaps never to reconvene—amid a last burst of oratory and a message of encouragement from President Roosevelt.

It was said in authoritative quarters that the so-called little conference might be concurrent with the forthcoming debt negotiations at Washington and possibly would obviate necessity for convening the cumberson World Conference in London.

At the Washington meeting Secretary Cordell Hull would be expected to initiate his far-reaching tariff reduction negotiations with all countries willing to enter agreements, such as the Pan-American Customs Union, which is known to be in the back of Mr. Roosevelt's mind.

Will Press Tariff Cuts.

Hull said he intends to press the tariff reduction negotiations to the utmost, referring to the proposals as "the basis of a world-wide economic peace treaty."

Before proceeding to Southampton en route home with other American delegates, Hull said that he was confident negotiations would soon be resumed because "everybody is now convinced" that cooperation is necessary. He said the London sessions had been of tremendous value and would bear fruit.

London, July 27 (AP).—The World Economic Conference adjourned for an indefinite period today as a message from President Roosevelt dispelled prevailing pessimism.

"Results are not always measured in terms of formal agreements," the American President said in a communication which pledged his country's continued efforts for world recovery. "They can come equally from a free presentation of each nation's difficulties and each nation's methods to meet its individual needs."

Following this note of confidence and hope from the head of the American Government, Ramsay MacDonald, British prime minister and conference chairman, and Secretary of State Cordell Hull terminated the six weeks of efforts to defeat hard times by international action on a high note of idealism.

Spirit of Good Will.

They joined in a fervid plea that the efforts to remedy world ailments be carried on tirelessly in a spirit of good will and mutual understanding.

MacDonald insisted the dispersion of delegates today was not a final adjournment, but a recess in which work would be carried on in preparation for resumption of the plenary assembly.

The session was closed after five hours of speechmaking, the chairman recalling that the question of reconvening was left in the hands of a small executive committee. This body, it was believed tonight, would not meet before mid-September.

The most tangible result of the conference was an agreement between the United States and other silver holding and producing countries designed to improve the silver market.

Negotiations for a wheat restriction accord were adjourned today until August 21.

N.I.R.A. Office Is Flooded With Signed Pledges

Employers Fall Into Line Promising to Boost Pay and Reduce Hours.

(Associated Press.)

In thick ranks, employers by the thousand were falling into line last night beneath the blue-eagled banner of the National Recovery Administration, pledged to raise pay and shorten working hours.

Messages that came in bundles from postmasters over the land related to the administration the story of willingness to cooperate with President Roosevelt that employers had written at the bottom of contracts yesterday.

They told of a hurry to sign and to return the agreements that names might be placed quickly on the roll of honor that will go up in the postoffices; of lines of business men waiting impatiently at postoffice windows to sign; of other employers typewriting the agreements from published texts because their copies had not arrived.

Johnson Flies to Detroit.

Even while this response to the emergency reemployment effort of his administration was being heard, Hugh S. Johnson, the administrator, winged away on a sudden flight to Detroit in an Army plane to confer with automobile manufacturers.

There he hoped to spur the drafting of a code by the group which Wednesday announced an increased wage for all workers, but left still in doubt the time of submission of a formal code for the industry.

Leaving shortly after noon the administrator planned to return during the night or early today. Behind him he left his legal staff working out interpretations of President Roosevelt's blanket agreement to brush away obstacles which might prevent some employers from signing.

Agreement Being Clarified.

Yesterday Donald R. Richberg, the chief counsel, and Thomas S. Hammond, the code interpreter, sought to clarify the agreement so that all might know exactly what they were signing.

Officials forecast a response to the appeal that would provide millions of jobs before Labor Day for those now walking the streets in idleness.

To drive the intent of the campaign home to every person, the publicity section of the administration was beginning to distribute 70,000,000 pieces of printed matter, each bearing the blue eagle insignia, and more than 13,000 organizations over the country were planning the most intensive campaign for public support since the Liberty loan drives of the World War. Directing this movement was Charles F. Horner, of Kansas City, the key man of the war appeals.

Work on Codes Continues.

The job of bringing each industry under a code providing for minimum wages and maximum hours of work was springing ahead.

Off-stage, the administration itself was fashioning a code dealing with the most controversial phases of the oil business which it will ask the industry to accept next week.

President Roosevelt blanketed thousands of workers under the provisions of the cotton textile code with an executive order yesterday extending its scope to include manufacturers of cordage and twine, hosiery and garments.

Coal Code Presented.

Adding to the 400 or more codes already submitted by various industries, the National Retail Coal Merchants Association presented a code representative of 40 per cent of the coal merchants and 75 per cent of the total volume of business.

The administration has been urged to clarify whether employees of labor now under contract would be expected to reduce working time while maintaining the current rate of pay, and whether workers of all kinds paid on an hourly rate must receive as much wage on the new hour schedule as they now get.

Into the hearing on a code for the men's clothing manufacturers was injected the demand of labor for a 35-hour week, instead of 40, as proposed, and minimum wages of 50 cents an hour instead of 35 cents in the North and 32½ cents in the South.

Rayon Hearing Completed.

A hearing was quickly completed on a code for the rayon and synthetic yarn producing industry. It provided for a 40-hour week, the same as the cotton textile code, but called for a $13 minimum wage in the North and South, and compared with a $12 wage provided in the South for cotton.

Hearing dates were set by the administration for four new codes: Cotton garments, August 2; wallpaper, Agust 7; corsets and brassieres, August 7; dress manufacturers, August 10.

Late in the day a tobacco manufacturer's code calling for minimum pay ranging from $13 to $15 for a 40-hour work week was filed with the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

The code represented manufacturers of cigarettes, smoking tobacco and snuff and was said to have been agreed to by 90 per cent of the industry.

Companies Pledge Support.

Other telegrams promising support were received from Alexander Legge, president of the International Harvester Co.; Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, Inc.; F. B. Davis, jr., president of the United States Rubber Co.; P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Rubber Co.; Thomas A. Buckner, New York Life Insurance Co.; F. H. Ecker, president of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.; J. D. Tew, president B. F. Goodrich Co.; Clarence E. Fisher, president Fisher-Cadillac Co.; Erwin C. Uhlein, president Schlitz Brewing Co., and Ernest V. Moncrieff, president Swan-Finch Oil Corporation.

Killed by Suicide's Poison

Miserly Woman, With $45,000 in Bank, Dies as She Eats Part of Roll Saturated With Deadly Acid Left by Man Who Took Own Life in New York.

New York, July 27 (U.P.).—A New York woman who, with $45,000 in the bank, spent her days in sorry poverty rather than touch her savings, was dead today because she unwittingly snatched up a crust of bread which already had served a despondent man as a means to end his life.

There are many women in New York like Lillian Rosenfield, who inhabit dirty cellar rooms, miserly and mysterious in their every movement, but with fat bank books hidden in their lodgings.

Most of them are older than Lillian Rosenfield. She was only 43. But this story properly begins with Jenry Jellinek.

Business Was Bad.

Jellinek was 50, an automobile mechanic in business for himself. Of late business had been bad and his health was poor. Yesterday he decided to kill himself.

He went to an automat restaurant on upper Broadway, where patrons serve themselves. Jellinek carried a poison with him. He obtained bread and went to a balcony in the restaurant.

Pouring the poison on the bread, he ate part of it, walked stoically from the table to a washroom, knowing that he would be dead in a few minutes.

Lillian Rosenfield, ill-dressed and haggard, was hovering nearby. She spied the remainder of the bread, sat down at the table and wolfed it. As she rose to go the agony struck her. She fell to the floor, and died an hour later in Knickerbocker Hospital. Jellinek already was dead in the washroom.

Same Poison in Stomachs.

Police and the medical examiner found the same poison in each of the stomachs. On learning that the eccentric woman held all men in contempt, they reached the conclusion today that her death had been accidental, while Jellinek had killed himself intentionally.

The bank books, showing Lillian Rosenfield to have been a wealthy woman, were found in the cellar room she occupied.

Primary Holds Virginia's Fate On Patronage

August Klecka, Baltimore, Named U. S. Marshal for Maryland.

While Maryland received another slice of patronage, it was learned yesterday from an authoritative source that Virginia appointments are being held up because State leaders are withholding their recommendations until after the primary elections next month.

August Klecka, of Baltimore, was appointed United States marshal for Maryland. It was learned that President Roosevelt probably will release another list of patronage before he leaves for Hyde Park tonight.

Virginia appointees will not be recommended until State leaders show their strength in the primary, it was said. The success of Senator Byrd's candidate in the gubernatorial race will have much to do with the recommendations Byrd makes.

Appointments to be announced today probably will include the First Assistant Secretary of Labor.

Nearly all the collectors of internal revenue and collectors of customs will be named today, it is expected. A few United States marshals also will be on the list. The United States attorneys are being held up while the Department of Justice considers the recommendations.

Presidential appointments yesterday, in addition to Mr. Klecka, were:

To be collectors of customs: Adrian Pool, for El Paso, Tex.; William Bartley, for Great Falls, Mont., and James Travers, for Duluth, Minn.; and to be comptroller of customs, Samuel T. Ladd, for Boston.

Henry Morgenthau, jr., governor of the Farm Credit Administration, appointed John A. Schoonover as executive vice president and general manager of the Regional Agricultural Credit Corporation at Spokane, Wash.

Chinese Army Ordered To Bar British at Mine

Canton, China, July 27 (AP).—The Canton council protested today to the government of Nanking against the reported granting of a concession to the British Arnholds Co. for mining in Kiangsi.

The council also instructed the army to prevent mining operations by the company on the ground that 10,000 Chinese already are working in the mines with much Chinese capital invested.

Spain Grants Recognition to Soviet Russia

Trotzky, Still an Exile, Is Mentioned as First Ambassador.

Madrid, July 27 (AP).—Recognition of the government of Soviet Russia was decided upon today by the Spanish cabinet and president of the republic.

At the same time newspapers published reports from France saying that Leon Trotzky, exiled Communist leader, might become reconciled with Moscow and be named first Ambassador to Madrid.

The decision to establish normal relations with the Soviet state was taken at a meeting of the cabinet with President Niceto Alcala Zamora, at which harmony prevailed. Previously it had been predicted that internal dissensions in the cabinet might bring on a government crisis.

The newspaper reports which advanced the name of Trotzky as a possible diplomatic agent of the Moscow government said that the exile, who now is in France, might later be made first Ambassador to Washington if the United States recognizes the present Russian regime.

The dispatches asserted that Trotzky, who recently came from his exile home on Prinkipo Island in the Near East, has already conferred with Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet foreign commissar, in a meeting at Royat, France.

Fernando de Los Rios, Spanish foreign minister, ordered that a note be sent tomorrow to Moscow with a view to arranging the necessary preliminaries for recognition.

Marcelina Pascua, formerly director of public health, was being mentioned tonight as a leading candidate for Ambassador to Moscow, and normal diplomatic relations.

"Uncle Benny" Hyde, Explorer, Dies at 61

Santa Fe, N. Mex., July 27 (AP).—B. T. B. ("Uncle Benny") Hyde, 61, explorer and archaeologist, died today of injuries suffered in a motor car accident Sunday.

Hyde was born in New York City. He was graduated from Harvard in 1901. He was widely known throughout the East for his boys' work, particularly for the Roosevelt forest camps organized in 1924.

He had, of late, been giving Scout instructions to the Indians at the Federal industrial school here. His widow survives.

Alarm on Flower Nets Garden Thief

Wichita, Kans., July 27 (AP).—Thomas H. Hurst got tired of planting flowers in his yard for persons to pull up, so he wired one of the plants to a "burglar alarm."

He tied a string to one flower plant and attached it to the chain of an electric light socket, fitted with bulb.

Hurst said the set-up worked and when the light flashed he ran into the yard in time, he said, to see a woman, clad only in night clothes, yanking away at his shrubbery. Hurst told Judge Helsel in police court that the woman he saw was Miss Nancy Brunkoeber, 19.

She was fined $5 for destroying private property.

Text of Roosevelt Message Defending Economic Parley

London, July 27 (AP).—The following is the text of a message sent by President Roosevelt to Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, chairman of the World Economic Conference, today:

Before the recess of the conference I want you to know my sincere admiration and respect for your courage and your patience as its (the conference's) presiding officer.

I feel that because of it the nations of the world can continue to discuss mutual problems with frankness and without rancor.

Results are not always measured in terms of formal agreements. They can come equally from a free presentation of each nation's difficulties and each nation's methods to meet its individual needs. We in the United States understand the problems of other nations better today than before the conference met, and we trust that other nations will in the same spirit of good will view our American policies which are aimed to overcome our unprecedented economic situation at home.

Such an interchange, especially if it results in full discussion of all problems and not a few only, makes progress more and not less possible in the future.

That is why I do not regard the economic conference as a failure. Largely because of your tact and perseverence the larger and more prominent problems will continue to be analyzed and discussed.

You recognize with me that new adjustments are necessary to meet world and national conditions which have never existed before in history. You can count on our continued efforts toward world rehabilitation because we are convinced that continuation of the world economic conference will result in practical good in many fields of joint endeavor.

$500,000 Renovize Business Is Reported

The Renovize Washington Exposition, which will end tonight at 1435-37 K street northwest, has resulted in $500,000 worth of renovizing in the past three weeks, Arthur B. Heaton, general chairman of the campaign, said last night.

Mr. Heaton based this estimate on statistics at the office of the District building inspector, and on reports filed with the renovize committee. Repair permits at the building inspector's office have reached as many as 1,000 in a single day since the campaign began, Mr. Heaton said.

El Salvador's Recognition by Pan Union Seen

Nations' Assembly Changes Its View, Contradicting That Held by U. S.

By Harold J. T. Heran.

Virtual recognition of the government and President of El Salvador has been made by the Pan-American Union in contradiction to the attitude of the United States, it was learned yesterday.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull is chairman ex-officio of the Union. The United States has refused to recognize the government of President Martinez in San Salvador since the coup d'etat of December 4, 1931. Nevertheless, the official bulletin of the Union yesterday contained a full-page photograph of President Martinez, with the heading: "His Excellency, Gen. Maximilian Hernandez Martinez, constitutional President of the Republic of El Salvador."

What added even greater emphasis to the Union's publication was the fact that the photograph and heading are evidently a correction of the same photograph and another heading that appeared in the previous month's bulletin. In the July number appeared a photograph that could not be called flattering to the Central American dictator. He was referred to as "His Excellency Gen. Maximilian Hernandez Martinez, provisional president of the republic of El Salvador."

Official Status Unchanged.

The status of El Salvador has not changed in the eyes of the Department of State since last month. If anything, the attitude of the department might be said to have stiffened in regard to El Salvador and its president since the appointment of Jefferson Caffrey as Assistant Secretary of State. Mr. Caffrey was the "trouble-shooter" of the department in the field. He was designated to go to Salvador at the time of the December revolution and it was largely on his recommendation that American recognition was withdrawn. The present minister, Charles Curtis, has been on diplomatic furlough without pay, but he is still designated as American Minister to El Salvador.

The change in the appellation of the chief executive of Salvador was made on the energetic protest to the union authorities by Roberto Melendez, "special delegate" of the republic to the Pan American Union, but who insists on being known as the Charge d'Affaires of El Salvador. In the absence of Dr. Leo S. Rowe, secretary general, last night it was impossible to haye an explanation from the Pan-American Union authorities. Dr. Melendez declined to make any statement at this time, but affirmed that he had made some "demarche" to union authorities over the picture of Gen. Martinez.

The correction of the office of the president of the republic also contains the following explanation:

"His Excellency Gen. Martinez, constitutional president of the republic, was declared by the national Constitutional Assembly in possession of the presidency of the republic in his character as vice president. He was elected by popular vote and confirmed in his function as president the necessary time to complete his four-year term from 1931 to 1935."

Has Had Troubled Past.

Salvador has had a troubled past in its history, both political and diplomatic, here in Washington. First, the Central America republic fell under the ban of the Treaty of Peace and Amity, created by Sumner Welles, present Ambassador to Cuba. The treaty has been denounced by Costa Rica and will probably have to be revised before the Montevideo conference this year.

Then, erstwhile Minister Dr. Carlos Leiva was held up in his house, and after being robbed of some 40 cases of diplomatic liquor, was severely beaten by hijackers. Then, Dr. Leiva and Dr. Melendez split—Dr. Leiva insisting he was the representative of El Salvador, although the then president of El Salvador was in flight and out of the country. Dr. Melendez with a sang froid unusual in one so youthful, held his ground and succeeded in having himself accepted by the Pan-American Union as "special delegate."

The government of President Martinez has not been recognized by the United States. Most of the European countries have recognized the regime. Several countries of Latin America likewise maintain diplomatic relations with the new government. El Salvador was invited to the preparatory discussions of the London Economic Conference. President Roosevelt failed to include her in the list of countries to whom he had addressed his appeal for cooperation prior to the conference.

Film Strikers Gird For Fight to Finish

Producers' Representative Spurns Arbitration With 5,000.

Los Angeles, July 27 (A.P.).—A mass meeting of 5,000 striking International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes to consolidate forces for a "finish fight" in their controversy with major motion picture studios was called tonight after producers refused to enter into arbitration.

Richard J. Green, international representative of the I. A. T. S. E., called the closed meeting for tonight after a conference with Pat Casey, producers' representative, who reported he refused to enter into arbitration of the dispute.

The meeting between Green and Casey was to have been the first of a series of preliminary discussions looking toward a termination of the strike, which started about five days ago at the Columbia Film Studios, where sound technicians walked out first. Allied trades called sympathetic strikes.

Home Loan Worker

PAUL FRIZZELL, who has been named assistant manager of the Washington office of the Home Owners Loan Corporation.

Home Owners Loan Office Location Set

Shoreham Building at 15th and H Streets Donates Necessary Space.

Washington offices of the Home Owners Loan Corporation will be on the ground floor of the northeast corner of the Shoreham Building, Fifteenth and H streets northwest, it was announced yesterday by the management of the building.

The office, facing Fifteenth street, was formerly occupied by the Washington branch of the New York Title & Mortgage Co. The management of the Shoreham donated the space "as a patriotic duty."

Charles A. Jones, manager of the office, said it will not open for business until next Monday. He asks that home owners refrain from communicating with him until that time. Workmen are now putting the offices in shape.

Paul Frizzell, vice president and general manager of Shannon & Luchs, was named assistant manager of the office yesterday. Mr Frizzell is chairman of the zoning committee of the Washington Real Estate Board and serves on a special committee of the mortgage and finance divisions of the board. A native of Washington, Mr. Frizzell has been a member of the firm of Shannon & Luchs for the past 15 years. He served in the Naval Air Service during the World War.

Experiment, Says Couzens of Parley

Republican Senator Disappointed But Unwilling to Concede Its Failure.

New York, July 27 (AP).—Senator James Couzens returned from London today and said the World Economic Conference was "obviously an experiment and only the future will be able to determine what, if any, of the work will be of world benefit."

"When I left," said the only Republican member of the American delegation, "I made the statement that if nothing came out of the conference I would return a rabid isolationist.

"While I am disappointed at the outcome, I am not willing to admit that the conference was a total failure, and therefore I am willing to contribute my efforts to a better international cooperation."

Mattern and Party Land at Edmonton

Edmonton, Alberta, July 27 (AP).—James Mattern, whose solo round-the-world flight was interrupted by a crash in Siberia, landed here late today from Prince George, B. C.

Accompanied by members of the William Alexander relief party, he was welcomed at the Blatchford Field Airport by civic officials and his brother, L. Mattern, of Calgary. Approximately 3,000 persons were at the airport.

Mattern planned to remain here overnight.

about the problem," the Attorney General said of the jury's action.

City Manager McElroy, who paid the $30,000 ransom, some of which has been recovered, expressed the belief that "justice has been done."

"Other criminals with kidnaping tendencies undoubtedly will hesitate in the face of this verdict," he said.

Mr. Keenan gave this warning:

"Gangsters and kidnapers throughout the Nation may expect the full force of the Government, in vigorously, persistently and relentlessly prosecuting the violation of every Federal law and in cooperating with State authorities, seeking the maximum penalty in each case."

McGee, a former convict from Oregon, heard the verdict without emotion. He was returned to jail to await action on a request for a new trial and formal sentencing by Judge Allen C. Southern.

Barbers to Consider Code.

Virginia Home Loan Manager Explains Setup

Mortgage Transfers to U. S. and Cash Assistance Are Provided.

Richmond, Va., July 27 (AP).—The home owners' loan act of 1933 provides for relief in four types of cases, it is explained by John J. Wicker, jr., Virginia State manager of the Home Owners Loan Corporation.

The first class comprises the refinancing of home mortgages which were in existence prior to the passage of the act, June 13, 1933. In this classification, the corporation is authorized to pay taxes in cash and to pay in cash for necessary repairs and maintenance and for the incidental expenses on the refinancing and to take up the existing mortgage notes by issuing to the holders of such mortgages and other liens the Home Owners Loan Corporation 4 per cent tax exempt bonds.

Note Holders' Consent Needed.

It is necessary for the holders of the liens to be willing to exchange their liens for the corporation bonds, Mr. Wicker explained.

In the second type of case, where the lien holder is unwilling to make the exchange and where the home owner can not obtain the necessary loan from ordinary lending agencies, the corporation is authorized to pay off existing loans in cash, provided the amount required, including all incidental expenses, does not exceed 40 per cent of the present day appraised value of the property.

Can Retrieve Homes.

In the third type of case, where the property has been foreclosed within two years prior to the refinancing by the corporation, the law authorizes the corporation to pay taxes and the cost of necessary repairs, maintenance and incidental expenses in cash and to issue bonds to redeem the home for the benefit of the former home owner with the proviso that the aggregate of the cash advanced and the bonds issued may not exceed 80 per cent of the present day appraised value, in no case to exceed $14,000.

The fourth type of case is where property is not encumbered by a mortgage, but where the owner needs relief for payment of taxes and necessary repairs and maintenance. In such cases the corporation is authorized to advance loans in cash up to 50 per cent of the present day appraised value and in no case exceeding $14,000.

Whose Child?

Winchester Police Trying to Identify 2-Year-Old Found on Street.

Winchester, Va., July 27 (AP).—Authorities here tonight appealed to Washington, Baltimore and West Virginia police to aid them in identifying a 2-year-old child found on the streets today.

Police arrested a man who said he was William A. Cloud, of 819 Dumbarton avenue, Baltimore, who residents of Winchester said was accompanying the child.

Cloud was quoted by police as denying knowledge of the child's identity.

The man was held while police communicated with Cloud's wife in Baltimore, who was quoted as saying that "all the children were at home." She said her husband had been missing since yesterday, when he told her he was going for a drive.

Police Sergt. Francis M. Funk, who found the child, is keeping it at his home. He described the child as being dark complexioned, and having light brown eyes. He said the child's clothes were "exceptionally good."

Washington police last night had no clew to the identity of the child held at Winchester.

Safe of S. S. Merida Arrives in Norfolk

Norfolk, Va., July 27 (AP).—The salvage steamer Salvor steamed into port this afternoon and turned over to local customs authorities a small iron safe recovered last week from the wreckage of the Ward Line steamer Merida, which has been in 200 feet of water 60 miles off the Virginia Capes for more than 20 years.

The safe, first real reward of the more than two years spent by Capt. H. L. Bowdoin in salvage operations, may contain a fortune or a mass of water-soaked junk. Its opening will await the arrival of Capt. Bowdoin, who is now in New York.

Roanoke Hotel Host To 'Hitler and Hoover'

Roanoke, Va., July 27 (AP).—Hitler and Hoover are registered at a local hotel. It happens to be Leon Hitler, however, and not Adolf, the Chancellor of Germany. In the case of Hoover, the identification was a little more difficult. The initials of the one at the hotel are H. C., but he is not Herbert Clark Hoover, former President.

Famous Outlaw Horse To Be Retired in West

Cheyenne, Wyo., July 27 (AP).—Midnight, king of outlaw horses, will come out of the bucking chute for the last time Saturday.

The magnificent black horse, now 17 years old, will be retired after the present frontier days show, to spend the rest of his days on a ranch near Chugwater, Wyo.

Macon May Go Abroad.

Seville, Spain, July 27 (AP).—The United States consul today requested data on a projected mooring mast at Tablada Airdrome in anticipation of a possible visit by the American naval airship Macon. The airdrome authorities said that work on the mast was planned to begin on January 1 next and be completed some time during 1934.

States to Give Facilities for Public Works

Cost of Administration to Be Kept at "Record Loss," Says Ickes.

(Associated Press.)

Assurance that administrative costs of the vast public works machinery will be kept to "a record low" was given yesterday by Secretary Ickes as he urged all State and other public bodies to make any facilities needed available without cost to the Government.

He said the 145 members of the 48 State advisory boards will be paid $10 a day, but only when they work. They will be allowed $5 a day for expenses when traveling on official business. The ten regional administrators will get $6,000 a year, the maximum fixed for the Public Works Administration.

"The administration feels that men of the caliber appointed will be willing to serve from a sense of public duty at these low rates," Ickes explained.

Writes to Governors.

The Interior Department Secretary wrote all governors asking them to supply quarters for the State advisory boards.

Ickes announced his organization policies after a meeting of the Public Works Advisory Board, which elevated Col. Henry Waite, deputy administrator, to board membership and received from Gen. Douglas MacArthur, chief of staff, a new Army housing program of $70,000,000, slightly more than half the first request for $135,000,000.

The board allotted the Army $6,000,000 for seacoast and harbor defense, giving the Panama Canal $4,000,000 and Hawaii $2,000,000. The work will include construction, renovation and modernization of defense work. Most of the money is expected to go to labor.

Awaits Board's Action.

Ickes said the Army's request for $50,000,000 for river and harbor work has not reached the full public works board for action.

The board directed Col. Waite to investigate the effect of changed wages and working hours on existing contracts for the Mississippi River Bridge at New Orleans. This project, financed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, has been tied up by a strike with contractors who contend higher wages would bankrupt them.

Daniel Landis, Kin Of Judge, Is Dead

Baseball Czar's Cousin, 70, Stricken at His Home Here.

Daniel Ross Landis, 70, cousin of Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball czar, died suddenly yesterday at his home, 808 E street northwest. His body was discovered by Mrs. Madella Brooks, his landlady, when she went to inquire why he had not gone to dinner.

Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said death was due to natural causes.

Mr. Landis had been in Washington about two years, having come here from Los Angeles. A niece, Mrs. James Juhl, lives at 713 E street northeast.

He is said to have spent much of his early life with Judge Landis in the Middle West.

He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Ada Herbert, and another niece, Mrs. Elizabeth Mae Boyle, of Chicago. The body will be taken to Casey, Ill., for burial.

Mrs. Kayser Gets Estate of $130,360

Will Giving All to Widow Is Filed in District Supreme Court.

All of the $130,360 estate left by Robert Lee Kayser, of the Hotel Shoreham, when he died in June, was willed to his widow, Mrs. Martha M. Kayser, it was indicated yesterday when the will was filed for probate in the District Supreme Court.

The estate consists of personal property valued at $111,880, and real estate in Clayton, Mo., valued at $18,480. The wife and the National Metropolitan Bank were named executors.

Close relatives, who were called upon to show cause why the will should not be admitted to probate, were Edwin A. Kayser, of St. Louis, a nephew; Mrs. Elsie V. E. Lackland and Lulu Von Ende, both nieces, of Berlin, Germany; Alexander G. Dixon, of Wilmington, Del., and Mrs. Jenkin William Jones, a niece, of Columbus, Ohio.

be run from Baltimore, Hagerstown, and Williamsport, Md., Altoona, Harrisburg, Shenandoah, Pottsville and York, Pa.

In addition to these firemen's specials, the Pennsylvania has instituted week-end fares from all points on its system to Washington for the Labor Day activities and the two days preceding it.

A week ago the Southern Railway announced excursion rates would prevail from every city it serves. In the past, the South has not been represented as well as it might have been, but this year, with the travel inducement, the parade committee hopes for a larger showing.

Yesterday the American Automotive Association presented the trophy committee with a cup to be given the fire company that comes the greatest distance in cars. It is one of the most handsome of the group that the firemen are securing.

The Hahn Shoe Co. was another local concern that yesterday joined the ranks of donors of trophies for the parade.

Bay Island Goes Wild West With "Annual Pony Penning"

Chincoteague, Va., Holds Colorful Round-Up Amid Plenty of Action From Horses, Carrying Out 271-Year-Old Tradition.

By Harold Stone
(Washington Post Roving Reporter).

In the early hours this morning, a sleek, black stallion gathered up the remnants of a herd of wild Chincoteague ponies and swam with them across the Assoteague Channel to the marshes—and freedom. It's an old Spanish custom with the ponies. Three centuries ago their forebears swam the same waters to safety after the Spanish bark on which they were cargo sank in the channel, the legends say.

For Chincoteague, Va., the ponies' exodus marked the ending of another annual "pony penning day." Before sunup yesterday morning 200 ponies were herded into the town and placed in the temporary pens. Those which were freed were left after a day of intensive selling. It will be another year before they again face the menace of ropes and bridles.

Carnival Adds to Show.

Almost everyone on the island turns out for "pony penning day." Then about 2,000 outsiders, including hundreds of prospective buyers, swarm in upon the townsfolk and the fun begins. About 150 ponies changed hands yesterday.

Two men, Clarence Beebe and James T. Powell, own all the ponies. Each has his own pen. This year a carnival company set up a ferris wheel and a merry-go-round and a mechanical piano just outside the pens. The amusements lent little aid in soothing the ponies, some of which had seen a man for the first time just a few hours before.

The prices ranged from $15 to $35, depending upon the age and condition of the pony. The seller ropes the pony in the pen—the buyer pays the cash in hand and gets the other end of the rope. Lightning is slow motion compared to a Chincoteague pony being ushered past a mechanical piano toward a waiting truck or car.

"Look out!" someone shouted.

Roam During Year.

A small black and white streak darted past the crowd. On the other end of the long rope was John R. Schindel, jr., of Hagerstown, Md., in his quieter moments a hardware man, but for the day getting his first taste of horsemanship. There was a muddy spot in the center of the pen. The pony made it, but John didn't.

According to Beebe nothing is done for the ponies from one year to the next. They hunt for their food in herds of about 20, headed by a stallion. Then, as "pony penning day" rolls around, riders beat the brush and round up the herds. Only a Chincoteague pony can catch one of his kind, the pony men say, because they are the swiftest horse of their size in the world.

Perfect Batting Average.

It sometimes takes half an hour to throw a rope over one of the ponies and then he must be thrown and sat upon by three or four men while a rope halter is placed on his head. It is not uncommon to see three men at once picking themselves up while a pony rejoins the herd with the rope trailing behind him.

An entertainment feature of "pony penning day" is an exhibition of riding by someone who values his neck at less than $10, the prize for anyone who can stay aboard the hurricane deck of a wild stallion. The successive flights through the air of all contestants, yesterday, reminded one of an airplane tender catapulting ships off her deck. After at least a dozen attempts the stallion still maintained a 1.000 batting average.

According to available information "pony penning day" originated in 1662. That year a heavy tax was placed on horses and they were ordered kept penned up. As a result many owners turned their stock loose and disclaimed them. Years afterward, when the island became almost overrun, it was decided that those who wanted the ponies might catch and brand them once each year.

Col. Schauffler Funeral Is Set For Tomorrow

Doctor to Be Buried at Arlington With Full Military Honors.

Funeral services for Col. William Gray Schauffler, noted soldier and doctor, will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. at Arlington National Cemetery. Burial with full military honors will follow. Honors will be rendered from the Fort Myer gate.

William Schauffler was born of missionary parents in Constantinople, Turkey, October 28, 1863. He received his B. A. from Amherst in 1886 and his M. A. in 1903. He studied medicine and was graduated from Columbia in 1889.

He was a professor in the medical department of the American University in Bierut, Syria, from 1891 to 1896. In 1896 he returned to the United States and established himself in general practice in Lakewood and Spring Lake, N. J., until 1917.

In 1905 he became a member of the New Jersey National Guard. He was a lieutenant colonel of the Medical Corps and surgeon general of New Jersey from 1911 to 1917. He was a lieutenant colonel and sanitary inspector, Thirty-ninth Division, at Camp Beauregard, La., and in France was a colonel in the United States Army. In Germany, he served as information officer for the advance general headquarters and was attached to the Rhineland Commission.

He was past master of the Lakewood Lodge of the Masonic Order, and belonged to the Society of Colonial Wars, the Sons of the Revolution, the Society of the War of 1812, the American Legion, the Psi Upsilon Fraternity and Phi Beta Kappa. He was a member of the University and Amherst Club of New York, and the Nassau Club of Princeton.

Dr. Schauffler was married January 14, 1891, to Miss Eleanor H. Hawkes, of Springfield, Mass., who died later that year leaving a son, William Gray Schauffler. In 1894, Dr. Schauffler married Lillian Miner Boswell, of Hartford, Conn., who survives him, as do his son, two grandchildren and an adopted daughter.

William L. Murray Claimed by Death

Prominent Lodge Member Was Governmental Employee Since 1915.

William H. Murray, district deputy of the Knights of Columbus and long a prominent figure in official and fraternal circles in the District of Columbia, died at his home, 2423 First street northwest, last night. Born in New Bedford, Mass., October 23, 1885, he entered the Government service in April, 1915, and has been continuously employed therein since that date.

Mr. Murray was a past grand knight of Washington Council, No. 224, Knights of Columbus; a member of Washington Assembly, Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus, and was recently appointed district deputy of the order, the second highest office of the order in this jurisdiction. He was also a member of the Holy Name Society of St. Martin's Parish.

Mr. Murray is survived by his widow and one child, William, jr. The members of Washington Council will meet at his home at 8 p. m. today to pay their respects. Funeral will be from St. Martin's Church on Saturday at 9 a. m.

Moffett Escapes Hurts In Airplane Crackup

(United Press.)

Lieut. George Moffett, son of the late Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, who died in the Akron disaster, yesterday narrowly escaped a death similar to his father's.

The landing gear of the naval fighting plane Moffett flew here from Farmingdale, N. Y., went awry and the plane pancaked at Naval Air Station. Smiling grimly, Moffett stepped uninjured from his damaged craft. It was the first accident in which he has figured. Damage to the plane was believed confined to a badly bent propeller.

U. S. and State Police in War On Kidnapers

McElroy Death Sentence Spurs Authorities in Many Sections.

(Associated Press.)

A death sentence and determined action by State and Federal governments developed yesterday as deterrents to kidnapers.

A Kansas City jury decided that Walter McGee, former convict, should die for the leadership he confessed in the kidnaping of Mary McElroy for $30,000 ransom.

Federal authorities were making plans for a "superpolice force," requested by President Roosevelt, to combat the crime.

Representative of State action, Gov. Henry Horner of Illinois called a conference of all police authorities and prosecutors to draw up a line of defense.

Families of two still held by kidnapers—Charles F. Urschel, of Oklahoma City, and John J. O'Connell, jr., of Albany, N. Y.—still awaited word.

New Federal complaints charging Roger Touhy and three other Chicago gangsters with kidnaping William Hamm, jr., St. Paul brewer, were drawn in Milwaukee in case the four arrange bond on existing warrants.

George Peine, 30, son of a well-to-do Garnett (Kans.) farmer, told Federal authorities at Claremore, Okla., that he was kidnaped in Garnett on July 19, kept captive three days while a $3,000 ransom demand was made upon his father.

Sheppard to Stump Texas for Prohibition

(Associated Press.)

Senator Sheppard (Democrat), of Texas, left Washington yesterday for Texas to stump the State in a campaign against repeal of the eighteenth amendment, of which he was coauthor. He will attempt to make at least one speech in each of the 31 senatorial districts in the State before the people vote on August 26.

Expecting large crowds, the senator arranged for an amplifying unit through which he hopes to be heard by all in his audiences.

Monroe Doctrine Change Advocated by Professor

Abolition of the Monroe Doctrine or a change in its observance was advocated last night in a radio address by Dr. A. Curtis Wilgus, director of inter-American studies at George Washington University.

"The doctrine must be defined and enforced, not as an exclusive right of the United States but as a Pan-American policy," Dr. Wilgus said. He maintained that the growth of imperialism in this country is responsible for the disrepute into which the Monroe Doctrine has fallen.

Albert F. Fox Funeral Rites Set Tomorrow

Retired Capitalist Took Interest in Church and Lodge Work.

Albert F. Fox, who died early yesterday at his home, 927 Grant place northwest, will be buried in Oak Hill Cemetery following funeral services tomorrow morning in St. Paul's Lutheran Church, at Everett street and Connecticut avenue northwest.

Mr. Fox, 87, died after an illness of two years. He was born in York, Pa., and came here when 18. He was the oldest remaining director of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., a former president of the Columbia National Bank and president of the National Union Fire Insurance Co.

He was director and treasurer of the Luther Statue Association, member of the Board of Trade and the Oldest Inhabitants Association, past master and treasurer of the Lafayette Lodge, No. 19, F. A. A. M., past high priest and treasurer of Lafayette Chapter, R. A. M., No. 5; chairman of the board of trustees of the Grand Lodge for 24 years, chairman of the board of trustees of the Grand Chapter for 23 years, member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church and treasurer of its Sunday school for more than 60 years.

He is survived by his daughter, Margaret R. Fox; a son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edmond K. Fox, and two grandchildren, Grace Fox and Mrs. C. R. Whittlesey.

Funeral of Meyer To Be Held Today

Well Known Haberdasher to Be Buried in Hebrew Cemetery.

Funeral services for Jerome Meyer, the coproprietor with his brother, Robert, of the Meyers Men's Shop, Inc., 1331 F street, who was found dead in his apartment Wednesday night, will be held at his residence, the Westchester Apartments, at 2 p. m. today. Rabbi Volkman and Lee Baumgarten will officiate. Burial will be at the Washington Hebrew Congregation Cemetery.

Mr. Meyer had been engaged in the haberdashery business here for many years. He was a captain in the late war and received two decorations for distinguished service.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Pauline M. Meyer; four brothers, Robert, Ned, Sol and Frank, and one sister, Mrs. Juliet M. Levi, of Baltimore.

Private Funeral For Mrs. Abbott thrown out of work on flood-control work on the Mississippi River.

Friends of President Roosevelt expect that the treatment of Senator Long may discourage other Democrats from following his example.

The record of anti-Long appointments by the Roosevelt administration includes the following:

1. John J. Kennedy, Comptroller of Customs, New Orleans.
2. Paul B. Habans to be Louisiana manager for the Home Owners Loan Corporation.
3. Edward Rightor, who filed the complaint with the Senate here which caused the recent investigation of the election of Senator Overton, of Louisiana, named by President Roosevelt as a member of the Federal public works advisory committee for Louisiana.
4. James Smitherman, of Shreveport, La., to serve with Rightor.

Royal Scot

Britisher Pilots U. S. Train on 101-Mile Run in 105 Minutes.

Elkhart, Ind., July 27 (AP).—The British Jack and the Stars and Stripes whipped through the breeze side by side today as a famous English engineer, William Gilbertson, of Carlisle, shoved the Twentieth Century Limited from Chicago into Elkhart two minutes ahead of time.

Gilbertson and J. Jackson, his stoker on the Royal Scot of the London-Edinburgh run, took over the cab of the New York Central train on the first leg of their homeward trip from the Century of Progress, at Chicago. The engineer and his fireman had come to this country to display the crack British passenger train at the World's Fair.

The 101-mile run here was made in 105 minutes, including a 4-minute stop on the south side of Chicago. Members of the Century's engine crew stood by while Gibson took over the throttle.

"The experience," said Gilbertson as he crawled out of the cab, "was a delightful one."

Duke's Death In Hospital Is Called Accident

Commissioners Get Data From Coroner's Office and Police.

A verdict of accidental death was returned by a coroner's jury yesterday after hearing testimony regarding the death, at Gallinger Hospital, of Casco Lee Duke.

Meanwhile, the Police Department and the coroner's office gave the District Commissioners their versions of the circumstances leading to Duke's death.

The Commissioners are awaiting reports from Gallinger and Emergency hospitals before going further into the case, it was declared at the District Building.

Half a dozen witnesses testified that Duke had been drinking prior to the fall, in which he sustained a fractured skull. This injury brought about his death, Deputy Coroner C. J. Murphy testified.

Emergency Hospital physicians declared on the witness stand that the only diagnosis possible for a man in Duke's condition at the time he was brought in was one of acute alcoholism.

Because of this condition, they said, it was impossible to determine that the man's skull was injured. Gallinger Hospital attaches corroborated this diagnosis.

Duke was released from Emergency after treatment for alcoholism, taken to the Third Precinct station and later, at the behest of Capt. Edward J. Kelly, to Gallinger Hospital, where he died.

15,000 to Get Old Pay if U. S. Rehires Them

Comptroller Rules Leave Status Unchanged by Aug. 10 Shakeup.

Employees rehired in units succeeding those bureaus merged or abolished by the President's reorganization orders, must be taken back at the same pay grades and without impairment of their leave status.

This was the gist of ruling handed down yesterday by Comptroller General J. R. McCari, affecting approximately 15,000 Federal workers involved in the reorganization shake-up scheduled for August 10.

The decision came in response to a query from officials of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, the largest single unit hit by reorganization. Merged with the Bureau of Industrial Alcohol, the bureau will become the new Division of Internal Revenue.

Must Be Fired, Rehired.

The comptroller reiterated his recent decision that all employees of agencies merged or abolished first must be separated from the service and then reemployed as needed.

New force was given to the so-called married workers' clause of the economy act, when the comptroller ruled that employees who are single, or whose husbands or wives do not work for the Government, must be reemployed ahead of married workers whose mates also are in the service.

Yesterday's decision set at rest fears of employees in bureaus affected that they might lose their right to accumulated leave when taken back in reorganized agencies, or even revert to a lower pay status.

The Comptroller held the merging of the Bureaus of Internal Revenue and Industrial Alcohol would not entail abolition of offices in either of the bureaus.

Filled by President.

This was interpreted as meaning such offices in both bureaus as are filled by Presidential appointment would be subject to reappointment by the President.

Just how many workers would lose out permanently as a result of the August 10 shakeup could not be determined yesterday. It is known, however, that much of the slack already has been taken up in dismissals and furloughs ordered at the outset of the new fiscal year.

It was learned last night that about 1,000 employes of the cotton records unit of the Agriculture Adjustment Administration are likely to be "furloughed" on completion of crop reduction contract work at the close of this month. It was indicated they will be called back when contract work on wheat gets under way later on.

$2,300 a Month Asked By Kathryn Carver

Los Angeles, July 27 (AP).—In a petition and affidavit filed today, Kathryn Carver, former actress, sought a temporary allowance of $2,300 a month from Adolphe Menjou, film player, whom she sued yesterday for divorce.

In the affidavit she estimated her husband's income at $15,000 a month and said the maximum salary she received for screen work was in 1928 when she earned $500 a week.

County Seeks $172,000 for New Schools

Supervisors and Board of Education Frame Plea to N. I. R. A.

Fairfax County, Va., will ask $172,000 from the National Industrial Recovery Administration for the erection and repair of school buildings in the county, according to action taken yesterday at a joint meeting of the county school board and the county board of supervisors.

The projects listed by the school board were a centrally located high school in the vicinity of the town of Fairfax; a new school at Lorton, the new school now under construction at Groveton, modernization of the Clifton School and an addition at the Centerville School.

The proposed school at Fairfax would cost approximately $90,000 and would contain 12 rooms located in a playground of 12 acres. There was some discussion of the proposed location of the school and the site east of the Fairfax cut-off was the most favored.

The proposal at Lorton was for a building of six rooms and auditorium of brick, to cost $35,000. The Groveton center under construction is the same size and will cost $27,000. With $10,000 the board proposes to modernize the Clifton School and with another $10,000 it plans to erect a four-room addition at the Centerville School.

Government's Practicing of Medicine Is Hit

Milwaukee, July 27 (AP).—Dr. Chester D. Swope, of Washington, D. C., chairman of the public relations committee of the American Osteopathic Association, assailed competition by the Federal Government in the private practice of medicine in an address today before the organization's convention.

"There are many bright pages in Uncle Sam's medical diary," he said. "In the field of preventive medicine he writes an epoch-making page each day. But the pages which deal with competition with private practice and private hospitalization sully the whole book.

"But Uncle Sam's diary is gradually clearing itself of these stigmas. Gradually he is coming to agree with the commissioner of health of one of our metropolitan cities that one can not get health from a bottle, unless it is a bottle of milk or a bottle of cod liver oil."

IN MEMORIAM

WILLIAMS—In loving remembrance of my father, WILLIAM WILLIAMS, who departed this life one year ago today, July 28, 1932.
It was early in the morning,
Just one year ago today,
The angels came upon this earth
To bear my Dad away.

I saw him slowly leaving me
As helpless I stood by
And drained the cup of bitter grief
The day I saw him die.

The blow was hard, the shock severe,
I never thought his death so near;
Only those who have lost can tell
The pain of parting without farewell.
His loving daughter,
LOUISE GROLIG.

Forest Workers Hunt Wild Gooseberries—to Save Pine Trees.

The reforestation workers are going on a wild gooseberry chase.

Several thousand members of the Civilian Conservation Corps will be set to work shortly to eradicate wild gooseberry and wild currant bushes, which serve as hosts to the blister rust that destroys white pine forests. The rust spends part of its life on the bushes before it attacks the pines.

Conservation officials yesterday also issued a warning against a new "racket" being practiced in this corps area. The fraud includes a roughly dressed man who solicits funds in towns near reforestation camps. He claims to have been discharged from the camp and asks for money to reach his home. He also presents a letter supposedly signed by officers at the camp, asking for help for him. One man collected about $80 before he was investigated.

Officer Makes Theft Suspect Call Police Van

Pvt. W. M. Thomson, of the First Precinct, just naturally doesn't believe in taking any chances with his prisoners.

For several nights the policeman had been lying in wait for a burglar at a delicatessen at 248 First street northwest. Early yesterday his vigil was rewarded. The man walked in. Thomson didn't take any chances. With his gun trained on the man, he tossed a nickel on the floor and forced him to call the wagon. The man identified himself as Daniel E. Bowen, 22, 629 Massachusetts avenue northwest.

Oakmont Man Is Fined $50 on Liquor Charge

Charged with illegal possession of whisky, John Walker, Oakmont, Md., was fined $50 and costs yesterday in the Capitol Heights Police Court. He immediately noted an appeal.

Walker was arrested recently by Prince Georges County police, who said they found three quarts of whisky in an underground cache near his home.

Four Arrested As 'Bootlegger War' Is Opened

Four arrests were made yesterday at Woodyard, Md., as a result of hostilities described by Prince Georges County police as the opening of a "bootleggers' war."

Those arrested are Harvey Furgerson, against whom are two charges of assault and battery; Berry Wood, Tom Baxter, colored, both charged with assault and battery, and Horace Wood, charged with disorderly conduct.

The break occurred yesterday morning, police said, after Horace Wood charged that Russell J. Harris was responsible for the seizure, last Sunday, of Wood's still. The raid was made by Federal prohibition agents. Wood was charged with manufacture and possession of liquor and released on bond.

The Wood clan, police said, appeared near the Harris home armed with axes, pitchforks, and other farm tools. With the cry of "Run 'em back to West Virginia," the men opened their attack, the police assert.

Harris, with his brother, Fred W. Harris, and Louis S. Kiser, were then set upon and severely beaten, they charged. A hurried call was sent to county police at Upper Marlboro.

Policeman R. A. Naylor responded and succeeded in quelling the disturbance. Numerous warrants were sworn out before Justice of the Peace H. J. Taylor. More arrests are expected today.

Daniel Boone, Insurance President, Confers Here

Daniel Boone to most people may be the name that epitomizes the pioneering American, but to the officers and employees of 135 life insurance companies in this country and Canada it means the president of the American Life Convention, a trade association with headquarters in St. Louis.

This Daniel Boone was staying at the Washington Hotel last night. He is a direct descendant of George Boone, Daniel's brother, who went as far "West" as Kentucky. His home is in Kansas City, Mo., where he heads the Midland Life Insurance Co. He came to the Capital to confer with officials of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Gypsy Tribe Loses Gold in Hoarding Drive

15 Held in Arlington Also Suspected of $7,000 Norfolk Swindle.

Earrings for gypsy queens and princesses—although they were in the form of gold coins worth $1,200—were caught in the meshes of the antihoarding campaign yesterday and are bound back to Treasury coffers.

Fifteen gypsies—king, queen and cohorts—languished in durance at Arlington County Jail last night while Department of Justice agents counted gold.

It began on Wednesday, when police of Arlington received a lookout for two automobile loads of Romany folk, said to have swindled a Norfolk, Va., woman of $7,000 in $1,000 bills.

Police yesterday morning went to the camp of gypsies overlooking Arlington Cemetery and took the 15 into custody. They and belongings were taken to the jail.

There a careful search was made for the $1,000 bills. None was found. Rose Mitchell said there was some money in one of the cars.

She produced the gold. The United States Government was called into the case. Agents said the gypsies probably would be given currency for their gold.

Rose and her father, Philip Mitchell, protested vehemently, saying they used the gold for making jewelry and for wedding gifts.

Tribe members were booked on charges of investigation. They were Philip, Adam, Miller, Rose Percy and Edith Mitchell; Charles, John, and Rose Stappanelli with her children, Lulu, Lee, Lena, Bessie, Pony and a 3-month-old baby.

The arrests were made by State Sergt. Wayne Carr and County Officers Hugh Jones, Ernest Miller, Raymond Crack, Vernon Wilt and Ray Cobean.

Authorities await the arrival of the woman who is said to have been swindled.

Alexandria to Get 2 Roads Widened

Two roads in the city limits are to be improved and Hunting Creek bridge widened with $35,500 from Federal funds, City Manager Wallace Lawrence has been advised by the State highway commissioner. Work is to be started in the late autumn.

River road, from Raymond avenue to the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac overhead bridge, will be improved by widening from 18 to 28 feet, similar to the roadway recently completed by the city from Four Mile Run to Raymond avenue. It is planned to widen Patrick street to Hunting Creek bridge, from 24 feet to 30 feet.

The city will have to prepare the plans for approval of the State Highway Department and also the United States Bureau of Public Roads. The city manager expects to have the plans ready by August 15. The State awards the contract subject to the approval of the National roads municipal highway program.

Manager Forecasts Peery's Nomination

That Judge George C. Peery would be nominated for Governor of Virginia in the Democratic primary next month was predicted last night by H. Bruce Green, his campaign manager, at a meeting of the Peery-for-Governor Club at the home of County Commissioner Harry K. Green in Clarendon, Va.

Recovery Plan Gets Approval By Alexandria

Civic Organizations and Merchants Vote Their Support '100 Per Cent.'

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.,
Phone Alexandria 523.

Representatives of all civic organizations and numerous merchants and employers of all kinds of labor last night voted approval of the national recovery act "100 per cent."

The meeting was addressed by Dan S. Hollenga, business manager of the chamber of commerce, who explained the practical application of the various codes which will be adopted.

Councilman E. C. Davison, general secretary-treasurer of the International Association of Machinists, who has been attending the hearings in Washington, answered a number of questions proposed to him.

Questions were asked as to the application of the codes to the retail merchants, and Mr. Davison replied that these codes are now in the hearing stage, and probably will not be adopted for another week.

The Retail Merchants Association of Alexandria will hold a meeting tonight in the rooms of the chamber of commerce, when the proposed codes will be discussed.

Paramount to Reveal Choice for Film "Alice" Week of Aug. 7

Lucky Girl Will Be an Unknown Cohen Decides

'Voltaire' World Premiere for the Earle Here; June Champions.

By Nelson B. Bell.

Having created considerable pother here from time to time over the Nation-wide search being conducted by Paramount for a suitable young woman to assume the title role in the picturization of Lewis Carroll's "Alice in Wonderland," planned for Christmas release, it seems no more than fair to confide that, according to latest advices from the West Coast, Alice will be definitely chosen some time during the week beginning Monday, August 7.

August 5 is the deadlipe after which no entries or suggestions received by the studio will be considered.

The final selection will be announced by Emanuel Cohen, vice president in charge of production for Paramount. He already has indicated in these words, "The replies to this questionnaire, received from all parts of the United States, Canada and England are preponderantly in favor of an unknown young woman, preferably a blonde, around 16 to 18 years of age," that some unknown will be given the opportunity to star in "Alice." This far-flung public preference is reported to have been sustained throughout the later voting.

However, while the majority favor an unknown, many recommend the choice of some established player, with Helen Chandler, Joan Bennett, Janet Gaynor, Mary Pickford and Mitzi Green the leaders among those so nominated.

Miss Chandler, according to returns from the international poll compiled up to a few days ago, has some 250 admirers who are interested enough in her career to urge her for the part.

Joan Bennett's partisans recall having seen her as Alice in the Technicolor fantasy, "Puttin' on the Ritz," and liking her so well in the part that they want to see her play it again.

Janet Gaynor is "just the type" according to the expressed views of some 175 loyal fans, among them said to be many motion picture critics in leading cities. Mary Pickford is a close fourth and Mitzi Green has at least 25 boosters.

Other Hollywood actresses named for consideration to date are: Marion Davies, Marion Marsh, Miriam Hopkins, Alice White, Helen Twelvetrees, Dorothy Wilson, Patricia Ellis, Bette Davis, Fay Wray, Helen Hayes, Marian Nixon, Anita Louise, Sally Rand, Dorothy Jordan, Ruby Keeler, Mary Carlisle, Lilian Harvey and Mary Brian.

Just to keep the record straight, the numerous suggestions coming to this desk, as one of the agencies of Mr. Cohen's comprehensive canvass of the country, added up to a first choice for Alice of Helen Hayes, with Helen Chandler second, Janet Gaynor third and Ruby Keeler fourth.

There was a badly scattered fire, also, that at one time or another nicked practically all of the names listed in the last paragraph of the preceding item.

So now we shall see what we shall see.

At the preview of "The Affairs of Voltaire"—as I believe the original title of "Voltaire" has been revised—starring George Arliss, given by the Warner Brothers on Wednesday evening of this week in conjunction with a dinner tendered by the French Line aboard the Ile de France in New York harbor, the guests included former Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, Mayor O'Brien of New York City, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Thalberg (Norma Shearer), Mr. and Mrs. Robert Montgomery, Will H. Hays, Samuel L. Rothafel (Roxy), William Gillette, Harry M. Warner, Maj. Albert Warner and others of note.

"The Affairs of Voltaire," a biographical drama of the sort Arliss does so superbly and, incidentally, his last production for the Warner Brothers, will be given its world premiere presentation as chief feature of the screen program assembled for the week beginning Friday, August 4, at the Earle Theater in this city.

The vaudeville headliner for the same week will be Nick Lucas, Washington's favorite troubadour and guitar twanger.

That there can be no doubt of the ascendency of the screen musical is eloquently attested by the character of the six "Box Office Champions" for the month of June determined by key city reports of actual earning at the ticket wickets.

The two leaders are "Gold Diggers of 1933," the Warner Brothers spectacular musical comedy-drama, featuring Warren William, Joan Blondell, Dick Powell, Aline MacMahon, Guy Kibbee, Ruby Keeler, Ned Sparks, Ginger Rogers and goodness only knows how many others, and "Be Mine Tonight," Universal's unique romantic operetta that even dares to introduce grand opera in its closing sequences.

It was in "Be Mine Tonight," it will be recalled, that Jan Kiepura created so profoundly favorable an impression as to be placed under immediate contract for American productions on the West Coast. Even so, late reports have him supplanted by John Boles in the proposed picturization of "Blossom Time."

Tied for third place are Fox's "Adorable," with Janet Gaynor and Henry Garat, and "I Cover the Waterfront," United Artists release, starring Ben Lyon and Claudette Colbert and presenting the late Ernest Torrence in his last screen performance.

"Reunion in Vienna," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer film version of the Robert E. Sherwood play, with John Barrymore, Diana Wynyard, Henry Travers and Frank Morgan in the pivotal roles, and Paramount's "International House," the "nut" comedy interpreted by Peggy Hopkins Joyce and W. C. Fields, Burns & Allen, Stuart Erwin, Sari Maritza, Franklin Pangborn and scores more, set up another tie for fourth rating.

Two of these—the first two—were out-and-out musicals; the next two, "Adorable" and "I Cover the Waterfront," both contained songs, and even "Reunion" and "International House" were heavily embellished with light music—if you can do with a very elegant paradox.

So you can see for yourself!

Melvin D. Hildreth, Washington attorney and the Capital's leading authority on all matters pertaining to the world of the circus, once dubbed The Great DeRizkie "The man who sees the world upside down." This has since become the recognized trade-mark of the noted performer who opens a week's engagement as a special outdoor attraction at Seaside Park, down at Chesapeake Beach, tomorrow.

Not only can DeRizkie balance on his head on the bar of a flying trapeze, but he also is able to partake of food and drink in this inverted posture. For his big thrill this intrepid aerialist slides down a wire from a high pedestal while balanced on his head—one of the most difficult feats known to gymnasts and equilibrists.

The DeRizkie Troupe will appear twice daily at Seaside Park at no extra cost to visiting amusement seekers.

The management deems it worthy of note that in "Don't Bet on Love," opening today, RKO-Keith's is offering the first joint vehicle of two popular players who have never before been seen together. This would be Lew Ayres and Ginger Rogers—the former liable at any time to match his performance in "All Quiet on the Western Front;" Miss Rogers gaining fame by leaps and bounds by virtue of her unexpectedly fine performances in "42nd Street," "Gold Diggers of 1933" and "Professional Sweetheart."

It is one of the strange contradictions of the film business that Bing Crosby, the second time out, should achieve an immediate fame that did not cling to him at all following the occasion of his first important assignment before the cameras and microphones.

No one remembered that Bing Crosby was in Paul Whiteman's "King of Jazz," until that gorgeous Technicolor revue was reissued this season and his presence stressed by more conspicuous spotting in the production. Everybody, on the other hand, seemed to remember that he was in "The Big Broadcast" and "College Humor," both Paramount productions.

The net result is that after his two appearances for Paramount, the smooth-toned crooner with the tya-tya-da-das and the canary whistle is to be starred in his next release—a melodized little thing to be known as "Too Much Harmony," now in work. Please, Mr. Compositor, "harmony" not "hominy," although Mr. Crosby does look a little corn-fed, at that.

Jack Oakie, "Skeets" Gallagher, Judith Allen, Harry Green and Lilyan Tashman will be featured with Master Crosby in "Too Much Hominy"—pardon, "Harmony"—all, you will observe, graduates of musical comedy and revue. If that means anything.

Another precedent is being broken by the Metropolitan Theater.

It was deemed thoroughly unusual when the Met began presenting box-office hits for return engagements, regardless of the houses in which they had been presented for their downtown first-runs. Now it is going itself one better and bringing Mae West in "She Done Him Wrong" back for a second week's return engament, making the third F street run for this recrudescence of a shady side of life in those gay, but much maligned, Nineties. This comes off the week of August 4.

There will be no killing off that ubiquitous "come up and see me sometime" now. A thorn with every rose. Heigh-ho!

Reverting briefly to "Alice in Wonderland," it should be a source of reassurance to many who have feared for the film treatment of the Carroll classic that Marc Connelly, author of the Pulitzer prize winning play, "The Green Pastures," has had his contract renewed by Paramount and, at his own request, will work on the screen play of "Alice in Wonderland," with Joseph Mankiewicz and Director Norman McLeod.

And just one more bit of retrospect with regard to that rowdy "She Done Him Wrong," coming back to the Metropolitan the week of August 4.

After listening to Mae West's chatter as Lady Lou for awhile, it becomes evident that back in those Nineties there was no syntax.

And I don't care how you spell it.

Ayres Airs Philosophy of Love

At least that is the assumption when youthful Lew Ayres is announced to appear in a comedy-romance bearing the title, "Don't Bet on Love." It opens at RKO-Keith's today, with the spicy Miss Ginger Rogers the feminine star—assurance enough that it will be seasoned to the taste of a majority of film fans.

British Empire Pact on Stable Money Drawn

Neither Dollar or Franc to Be Favored as Canada's Inflation Plan Loses.

London, July 27 (U.P.).—The British Empire tonight announced a general agreement on a "sound" financial policy designed to facilitate stabilization of currency within the commonwealth and indicating a single monetary policy for the United Kingdom and all the dominions except the Irish Free State.

The twelve-page statement on economic and financial policy was a defeat for Canada's campaign for a policy similar to that inaugurated by President Roosevelt. It provided:

1—Ultimate return to "a satisfactory international gold standard."

2—Possible participation by the United States and other nations in a wider agreement to stabilize monetary exchanges.

3—No favoritism toward either the dollar or the franc.

No Commitments on Pound.

4—No commitments on future "management" of the pound sterling.

5—Furtherance of every effort to raise wholesale prices.

The statement disavowed any intention of following anything other than "a sound financial policy" and said this policy would favor neither the dollar nor the franc, which have been on opposite sides of the international monetary struggle since the United States abandoned the gold standard. France has led the nations maintaining the gold standard and has urged return of all nations to that standard.

Great Significance Seen.

Coming immediately after the recessing of the futile World Economic Conference, the statement was considered of great significance because the conference collapsed on the question of currency stabilization. Only the Irish Free State, which has been at economic war with the United Kingdom, failed to join in the statement.

Authoritatively, but unofficially, it was said that the policy was framed so that it might be widened to include other nations, thus permitting wide action on the vital currency question which has been an issue throughout the world since Great Britain and other powers abandoned the gold standard.

It was believed that the British hoped that the United States and other nations would enter into the currency understanding.

Oklahoma Professor Quits.

Norman, Okla., July 27 (AP).—The resignation of Prof. H. C. George, founder and director of the School of Petroleum Engineering at the University of Oklahoma, was announced today by President W. B. Bizzell. He will assume direction of the School of Petroleum and Mining Engineering at the University of Pittsburgh.

Pick-Up of Business Reported by Circus

Showmen See Better Times in Midwest and New England States.

Evidence of business recovery over wide areas of the country was reported yesterday by representatives of Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus, which comes to Washington August 2 for a two-day stand at Fifth street and Florida avenue northeast.

The circus, always a good barometer of the times, has had the best season in recent years and has found the East and the Midwest increasingly good since the show's tour opened in Chicago early in April. A year ago large sections of the Middle West were "suicide spots" for circuses and all the shows tried to avoid them as much as possible. This year, however, cities in Illinois, Indiana, Missouri, Ohio, West Virginia and Pennsylvania proved good circus territory. A recent swing into Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Maine and New York State indicated rapidly improving conditions, particularly in the New England factory centers, according to circus advance men.

The circus comes here from Baltimore, and after the Washington dates will fill a week in Virginia before turning again toward the Middle West.

Hunter, Okla., received a tank car of water by rail to help relieve the drinking water shortage.

The London Conference.

The London economic conference takes an indefinite recess. Its steering committee is empowered to reconvene the conference at some future date, but it may be taken for granted that no further sessions will be held until the principal governments have exchanged views and reached preliminary agreements.

In his message to Prime Minister MacDonald President Roosevelt takes comfort in the thought that the nations have discussed mutual problems with frankness and without rancor. He welcomes a further interchange of views.

On all sides it is admitted that the London conference should have been preceded by more thorough spadework in the shape of confidential exchanges of views between governments. The entire lack of agreement upon fundamental questions became painfully apparent under the fierce light of publicity at London, and the delegates soon perceived that agreement was impossible. Probably they are glad that the conference reached an end without open expressions of bad feeling.

Instead of indulging in the hope that the world might be lifted from depression to prosperity by a single concerted act, the nations now turn to their domestic problems. Both President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull intimate that the solution of domestic problems by each nation is a desirable if not indispensable precursor of a world agreement affecting tariffs and monetary adjustments.

The London conference has done good by disclosing actualities. It has deflated many false notions. Every government is better informed than it was before the conference was called. The discovery that the nations must face their respective problems instead of relying upon altruistic concessions by others may be regarded as a step forward.

Controlling the Mississippi.

Since the disastrous floods of 1927 along the Mississippi River active prevention work at the most vital points and comprehensive scientific study of the whole problem of handling flood waters have proceeded on an unprecedented scale. The Father of Waters presents tremendous difficulties in the way of regulation, unequaled by those of any other water course in the world.

Not only is the fall in the lower reaches of the river slight, but the volume of water during flood may be twenty times as great as at low water. That is, a flow of 100,000 cubic feet per second may grow rapidly to more than 2,000,000 cubic feet per second. This rise, coupled with t' 'ght difference in elevation between Ca.., Ill., and the mouth of the river at New Orleans, results in overflows of enormous extent. As the engineers say, the river is not an efficient hydraulic conduit.

To make it more efficient has been the object of intensive study by the Mississippi River Commission and the Army engineers. Prominent in this work has been the establishment at Vicksburg of a hydraulic laboratory on a scale never before attempted. A working model of the sections of the river presenting the greatest problems was constructed, and the effects of water passing through this carefully reproduced miniature were studied under widely varying conditions. The knowledge secured, when applied to the river itself, has been found accurate.

One of the traditions which apparently has been shattered is that the bends and loops of the river must be maintained in order to provide greater length of reservoir. Model tests repeated in practical demonstrations show that the increased rate of the current secured by cutting across the neck of a loop more than compensates for the lost storage space. Already five great river loops have been marked for elimination, following the gratifying results obtained from the cut-off at Yucatan Bend below Vicksburg.

The making of even a 500-foot model of a section of the Mississippi is a task requiring engineering skill and precision. Errors in scale when magnified to actual proportions result in important differences. In the river there are three distinct currents—surface current, middle current and ground current. Just as these factors and the amount and character of silt carried were difficult to reproduce, so also the effects of friction, gravity, barometric pressure and surface tension can not be represented in miniature, necessitating compensating allowances. All these delicate adjustments have been worked out at Vicksburg, and the knowledge gained will be of value in Army engineering at many other points in addition to Mississippi flood control.

Merit vs. Patronage.

Civil service protection has been removed from 250 employees in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce by what is known as an "unblanketing" order. These employees revert to their status prior to the time they were "blanketed" into the civil service by President Hoover. Hence, they are subject to dismissal at the discretion of the Secretary of Commerce.

It remains to be seen how many of these Government workers will lose their jobs and how the vacant places will be filled. Secretary Roper says that the employees will be reexamined, and their qualifications for the work they are doing may have some influence on their future status. But the requirements of the merit system have been removed, and if these positions do not fall into the hands of spoilsmen it will be due to the mercy of the Secretary rather than to provisions of law.

The practice of covering employees into the civil service is not satisfactory. Competitive examinations ought to be the rule wherever the merit system is established. Yet to withdraw civil service protection when it has once been granted gives rise to grave injustice and paves the way for reversion to the spoils system. Some of the positions "uncovered" by the President's order have been under civil service for six years. Although the original employees did not obtain their positions by competitive examination, all vacancies since the "blanketing in" orders were issued have been filled in that manner. Consequently, a considerable number of employees who entered the Government service in good faith under strict competitive examinations now find their jobs exposed to the patronage hunters.

No one questions the desirability of having these positions under the merit system. The unfortunate thing about the President's order is that, while seeking to remove from civil service protection employees with non-competitive status, it removes 250 jobs entirely from under the merit system. Some provision may be made to retain all employees who are well qualified for their work, but that is not sufficient. The "uncovering" order will be a backward move unless steps are taken to bring these positions permanently under civil service regulations.

Protecting Witnesses.

Assistant Attorney General Keenan, in special charge of the Government's campaign against racketeers and kidnapers, has given assurance that the plans for this important effort are both comprehensive and practical. He explains the necessity of reporting every case of kidnaping to the Department of Justice in Washington if effective service is to be rendered.

In urging the importance of witnesses coming forward to testify against criminals, once they are apprehended, Mr. Keenan said that every protection would be afforded witnesses, both before and after giving their testimony, to guard them from reprisals. Too much emphasis can not be placed on this point if prosecution is to become effective.

It is not without reason that many citizens have become fearful of appearing to testify against organized crime. Swift and deadly retaliation has been witnessed in such numerous instances that prospective witnesses can not look upon threats and warnings with indifference. Even if volunteering as a witness in State or Federal cases does not actually place a citizen in physical jeopardy, the time lost appearing in court day after day until he is called to the stand not only causes a direct loss, but may result in loss of position through the enforced neglect of duty, or pressure brought to bear upon the employer. Prosecutors of crime undoubtedly realize that citizens must be given convincing assurance of the ability of the authorities to provide bodily protection, and also that their time will not be wasted unnecessarily and their means of livelihood endangered.

New Inventions.

New industries are much sought after in the dark days of depression. Every establishment makes an effort to develop something that will appeal to public taste in spite of the psychological tendency toward economy and conservatism. The necessity for improved business becomes the mother of new inventions and the stepmother of numerous old ones.

It would be impossible to survey the whole field of industry for developments of this kind in a brief space. But some notable examples may be pointed out. People living in warm climates are beginning to think that it is about as important to be comfortable in the summer as in the winter. Science is eager to come to their aid. Air-cooling and air-conditioning equipment has been developed to a state of practical efficiency and is being installed in numerous public buildings, theaters, restaurants, office buildings, homes and in railway trains. Within a few years cooling systems may be as common as heating plants. An extensive new industry contributing to the comfort of life may thus help to absorb part of the army of unemployed.

An industrial development of the other type—improvement of existing methods of supplying fundamental needs—may be found in heating equipment. Experimenters have discovered that an enormous amount of heat is wasted under the present system of warming the air inside of houses and buildings. A new way of avoiding discomfort in winter is to warm the walls of the room occupied and let the air remain cool. Experiments in Pittsburgh show that people may work comfortably in light summer clothing with the thermometer down to 55 degrees. The body makes its own heat and does not need artificial assistance unless it is surrounded by cold objects that absorb its heat. Engineers explain that energy or heat always moves from warm to cold objects until an equilibrium is established. Thus the body in an ordinary room gives up its heat to the cold walls, ceiling and furniture. If the walls are warmed the body will retain its own heat and be comfortable at a low temperature.

This discovery may lead to a revolution in heating plants. The new method is to imbed pipes for heating in the walls of a house to conserve the natural warmth of the body. It is said that better results also are being obtained by applying this principle of thermo-dynamics to locomotives, power plants, &c.

As the country pulls out of the depression many new industries may be expected to take their places in the economic system. The application of science to industry is only in its infancy. As means of saving labor are installed on one hand new enterprises calling for more workers and providing more conveniences and comforts to the masses will be developed.

The Twenty-first Amendment.

Several threats have been made to fight the proposed twenty-first amendment to the Constitution in the courts. None of them have been taken very seriously. All these threats have been based on minor technicalities that appear insignificant in comparison with the overwhelming votes against the existing system of prohibition. The current threat to attack the constitutionality of the repeal conventions in several States is no exception.

It is argued that in some States part of the delegates to repeal conventions have been selected at large, whereas they should have been chosen from local districts. The Constitution makes no such requirements. It merely provides that amendments shall be valid "when ratified by the legislatures of three-fourth of the several States, or by conventions in three-fourths thereof, as the one or the other mode of ratification may be proposed by the Congress." Discretion as to how such conventions shall be constituted seems to be left to the States.

Even if some of the conventions should be adjudged illegal, other conventions probably would soon be assembled, and the result would be merely to prolong the period of transition from Federal to State control. It is absurd to suppose that the sweep of the repeal movement can be halted by recourse to legal quibbling.

The Gran Chaco Dispute.

Once more it is announced that Paraguay and Bolivia have changed their minds about submitting their belligerent difficulties to peace negotiations. Lengthy negotiations in Washington looking to an adjustment of differences came to naught, and various groups of neighboring nations were equally unsuccessful in reconciling long-standing differences.

Finally efforts at mediation by American states was abandoned and the case taken to Geneva. Following repeated conferences the ancient antagonists consented to the selection of a committee by the League of Nations to conduct an investigation of the Gran Chaco dispute and adjust differences on the ground. Now, after two members of the committee appointed by the league are en route to take up their mission, it is announced that Bolivia and Paraguay will revert to the former proposal of Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Peru to act as intermediaries.

The president of the league council has been advised by a Paraguayan spokesman that the governments of Paraguay and Bolivia are in accord in proposing that the council confer upon the four nations mentioned a peremptory mandate to negotiate with the belligerent nations in an endeavor to suggest "a formula calculated to establish and guarantee between them a lasting and just peace."

The nations now appealed to probably will make an effort to effect a settlement, hoping that the belligerents will not again change their minds before the hearing can be started.

The geological congress is told that an earthquake has been active for six months in the Far West, without anybody knowing anything about it. Probably it's the Old Guard reorganizing.

American participation in the London conference was not a total failure. The delegates are bringing back their shirts.

The sawed-off shotgun is running the eagle a close race for choice as the national emblem.

A Hazardous Business.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

Foster Lewis, Evansville business man, is in difficulties with the might and power of the United States. He is not accused of hornswoggling his income taxes, counterfeiting, misusing the mails to defraud, peddling narcotics, rum-running, nor any of the more usual run-of-court offenses. His is a rarer cause of arrest. He has been harboring a redbird.

This he admits. Mr. Lewis is a bird lover. He explains that he found the redbird with a broken wing and has been caring for it ever since. Though he has given it opportunity to return to its previous habitat, the Kentucky cardinal has enjoyed the regular and sufficient food of his host, and refused to take off. Naturally this was a matter of pride and delight to Mr. Lewis, who, far from concealing the matter, may even have boasted about it, as nature lovers will.

In the interim, before opportunity is given him to stop the annual slaughter of the waterfowl which settle thickly on the Ohio every fall in the Evansville-Henderson neighborhood, a deputy game warden took the nature lover into custody, and the cardinal as well.

Mr. Lewis can explain the matter further to the Federal grand jury. As for the specimen of "cardinalis cardinalis," it was not liberated by the deputy, but is held perhaps as exhibit A in the case, until a place is arranged for his eminence in the local zoo, from which he can not escape.

Advice to Mr. Lewis: Next time kidnap a citizen of the United States. There is less chance of apprehension.

Only Spinach for Johnnie.

Post Haste.

Not finding the economic conference the stand-by expected, it retires to Geneva under the League's motherly wing to stand by indefinitely.

There is no reason why every employer of labor should not sign the pledge and do what he can. No one will demand any more, and every one can do something.

This is not war time, and neighbors are not going to crucify little John Grocer because he doesn't add two clerks if he can only afford one, or employs another whether he can afford it or not to help the big experiment.

Also there is no excuse for alarmist talk about this being America's last chance. Nations don't commit suicide because one plan doesn't work.

"Roosevelt's radio plea hailed in London." And some of the hail in Paris was as large as tennis balls.

"Dancing masters to frame code." Will it include the side-steppers and buck and wing passers?

Expectation that cheap dollars will result in greatly increased buying by Europe overlooks the promptness with which nations have learned to increase quotas and tariffs.

Tammany has been mad at governors before, but nothing has quite enraged the Tiger like the Lehman decision that New York City must raise its own emergency taxes.

President Machado says the efficient Sumner Welles as mediator acts merely in a personal capacity. Experience teaches him to keep Uncle Sam and the Platt amendment well out of sight.

Uncle Sam is strengthening his kidnaper capturers in good time before the gin boys join the beer runners in their new game.

The London conference could have adjourned three weeks ago except for the preparation of the alibis.

The selling end is beginning to wonder why not codes for consumers—a minimum of two eggs for breakfast, three haircuts a month, four hats a year.

The League of Nations committee to arbitrate the Gran Chaco dispute was about to arrive, so Paraguay and Bolivia resume manana procrastinations with their neighbors.

Just Folks.

By Edgar A. Guest.

At a House of Sorrow.

I know not what to say
Beside death's door.
I must in the old way
Speak old words o'er.

How very vain they seem!
"Be brave! Be strong!"
This is the common theme
We've used so long!

Would I could find a word,
Or just one phrase,
Which, spoken, being heard,
Would light the ways.

Would I could surely know
That I could leave
Comfort for those in woe
Who long must grieve.

Lord, unto me give speech,
Consoling, true,
These sorrowing hearts to reach
And faith renew.

A Thousand Paste Jewels May Equal a Diamond's Value, But They Still Look Cheap

By Robert Quillen

IN a recent newspaper article a popular writer praises a prolific fellow scribe who produces an average of four thousand words a day.

Considered only as a two-fingered manipulation of typewriter keys, the writing of that many words may be an achievement deserving praise. But the merit of literature is not measured with a yardstick, and increase of words does not indicate increase of labor.

Long articles, like long sermons, indicate laziness rather than industry.

To express a thought without waste of words requires genius or hard work. Wherefore the ordinary speaker or writer adopts the easier method and experiments with his vocabulary, trying words in various combinations, until he hits upon arrangement that vaguely expresses his meaning. It is a shotgun method that splatters over considerable territory but never quite rings the bell.

The practice of using many words to do the work of a few has made us a generation of poor listeners and careless readers. Experience has taught us that we can listen with half an ear or skip most of a paragraph without missing anything.

Most of the popular novels are merely short stories generously padded, and with few exceptions the "nonfiction" books that win renown could be boiled down to 50 pages without sacrificing a thought or a shade of meaning.

It isn't man's nature to do his utmost at the first attempt if he knows he will have many opportunities to do better. Being free to add many sentences if the first fails to express his meaning, he develops the habit of using words carelessly.

Even State papers and laws are so carelessly worded that no two men can agree concerning their exact meaning.

Only the scientist uses words as delicate measures of meaning and carefully selects the ones that will express the truth and nothing more.

On the witness stand and in the writing of telegrams the ordinary individual may select his words with care, but at other times he seems incapable of a literal and exact statement of fact.

The ability to speak fluently is nothing to boast about if the speech must be divided by six to reveal its kernel of truth.

Political Comment

Child Labor, America and England.

Kansas City Star.

In dealing with child labor, America promises to do in a few months what England has been trying to do for a century, observes Margaret Bondfield, former British minister of labor, now on a visit to this country. Miss Bondfield had reference to the industrial code provisions against the employment of persons under 16 years of age. It was in this situation that she saw the chance of a quick solution of a problem long troublesome.

If, however, success shortly is attained over here, it will not be without previous protracted agitation. If America's concern with child labor has not extended through a century, it is because the industrialization of this country developed at a later date than that of England. As the evil became known, consciences were aroused in the one country as in the other. Repeated obstacles, legal and other, were encountered in both. Now, from an unexpected source, from industry itself, has come the prospect of success in America.

What Repeal Will Do.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

Without doubt, the victorious drive toward repeal in this country has owed some of its success to the tax situation. The Government has missed no opportunity to inform the public that revenue from the sale of alcoholic beverages, when legalized by the adoption of the twenty-first amendment, will allow the cancellation of the special taxes imposed by the industrial recovery act, perhaps before those taxes ever go into effect at the beginning of 1934. The Nation, as a whole, is convinced that the liquor taxes can be substituted for the emergency schedules, which include a 5 per cent tax on dividends, $1 per $1,000 tax on corporation capital stock, and an additional half-cent tax on gasoline.

Some Revenue, Anyway.

Jacksonville Times-Union.

It is estimated that the beer revenue will be about one-half of what was expected. But one-half in the hands of the State is better than the whole in the hands of the bootlegger.

Not So Certain.

Ohio State Journal.

Louisiana was considered a bargain from the French until Huey Long happened along to cast a shadow of doubt over it.

False Hopes—A Danger.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

The gravest danger now attaching to the national recovery program is probably the tendency of men and women everywhere to wait for a miracle. Steeped in the reckless promises of idealistic economists, or pseudo-economists, countless persons are watching confidently for the birth of a utopia. They imagine that through some alchemy of legislation we are going to create in this country a new industrial system in which they will work a half day for two days' pay. They expect unemployment to evaporate when exorcised by slogans of optimism.

To expect such a result is to build false hopes which will serve as boomerangs. When those hopes are not realized the consequent disillusion is certain to operate as a destructive force, just as the false hopes of quick profits in the markets led to a disastrous reaction only last week. We will serve our common cause far better if we adopt a realistic attitude and, while cooperating, recognize that progress must of necessity be slow.

The Essential Difference.

Daily Oklahoman.

This is not the first time in American history that a President has tried to boost commodity prices. Every administration has made some effort—a slight effort in most cases—to stimulate price movements by a judiciously spoken word or some congressional action. Every tariff levy is an open attempt to advance prices or to insure their stability. The Roosevelt administration is merely doing on an enlarged scale what preceding administrations have done on a limited scale.

But this wide effort to boost prices differs from other efforts of the past in that the administration is trying to increase employment and wages in order that the purchasing power of the people may keep pace with the advance in commodity prices. Only this wage-boosting phase is entirely new.

The Once Over.

By H. I. Phillips.

"W. D. O. P.!"

"Get hot under a blanket code!" is the slogan of the recovery program.

• • • •

President Roosevelt dealt the new deal over a national network the other night, everybody sending in applause cards except the chiselers.

• • • •

It was the President's third big radio hour. Mr. Roosevelt knows the power of the outside aerial. The big team in the war on depression is the team of Frank and "Mike."

• • • •

The President explained every move in the big war so even a child could understand it, and made it pretty plain that no American employer will be excused from cooperating on a plea there was too much static.

• • • •

The code address for all codes is W. D. O. P. ("We Do Our Part"). This is a complete change from the old slogan, "We Do Our Public."

• • • •

Every employer of labor in the United States is asked to display this badge prominently. And anybody who displays the badge, but doesn't lend a hand to the recovery drive will be given a summons for impersonating a patriot.

• • • •

It will be a great thing for the country, always providing that business doesn't go from badge to worse.

• • • •

The new W. D. O. P. badge is already in shipment. Its emblem is called "The Blue Hawk" by Gen. Johnson, which would seem to indicate one of two things: Either the general is a poor ornithologist or we have stopped calling eagles by their right name.

• • • •

However, it is an encouraging thing to see the country getting away from peacocks, Hartz Mountain canaries and love birds.

• • • •

Every business man in the country, big and small (and including midgets), is expected to put on at least one more workman, abide by the blanket code and stand behind the President. And not so far behind him that he is just an echo in the valley.

• • • •

His name will also be carried on a roll in his local postoffice and for the first time in history the people will be asked to use their postoffice as shopping guides.

• • • •

It brings back memories of war days. Once again we are in a draft. But this time there will be no exemptions for flat feet and bad hearing.

ATTENTION OF GEN. JOHNSON.

Has anything been done yet about a flagpole sitters' code?

Administration slogan: A wolf trap for every door!

H. Scharf suggests as a theme song for the repeal drive: "Coming Thru With Rye."

"Now I come to the links which will build a more lasting prosperity."—From the President's radio address. Speaking as a devastated golfer, we think it was time wasted on the links that brought on the depression.

The emblem on the We Do Our Part badges is called a Blue Hawk. Okay as long as it isn't a Redbird.

Letters to the Editor.

Alert Citizens Can Put a Stop to Banditry—Public Mood Changing.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It takes a long time to arouse the American people into a fighting mood, but once they have reached this stage they become invincible. The gangsters have had their own way for a long time, bulldozing the public. A change is in the wind. We see in the news almost every day reports of frustrations of hold-ups by citizens who are prepared for just such emergencies.

Two bandits recently held up a filling station, commandeered a farmer's car and wounded another farmer near Winfield, Kans. Two farmers happened to witness the shooting. The farmers were armed and were good marksmen. When they shot it out with the bandits the latter succumbed and were captured in a corn field.

Three men who robbed a bank at Yorksville, Ill., were met by a group of vigilantes who were acting under the direction of a sheriff. One robber was killed and the other two captured.

Another instance of an alert public is that of the Brooklyn woman who received threats of kidnaping and demands for $5,000. She telephoned the police in time to have four men captured who were posing as ice men in front of her house.

It is such instances as these that will bring an end to the regime of crime in this country. Cooperation between the law-abiding citizens and the police is essential in the capture of criminals.

C. A. JAMES.

Get in Line, Uncle Sam, for Your W. D. O. P. Badge as an Employer of Labor.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I presume you know that Uncle Sam is an employer of labor. Restoration of the Federal employe's basic pay would put him in good standing and in line for an NRA honor badge. Don't you think that one of these badges would look good on him? PHILIP EBERT.

LINCOLN AND LIQUOR.

In one of their famous debates, according to Lund's Topics, Douglas made a point against Lincoln by telling the crowd that when he first knew Abe he was a grocery clerk and sold whisky, cigars, &c.

"Mr. Lincoln," he said, "was a very good bartender." This brought the laugh on Lincoln, whose reply soon came:

"What Mr. Doulas has said, gentlemen, is true enough. I did keep a grocery and I did sell cotton, candles, cigars and sometimes whisky, and I remember that Mr. Douglas was one of my best customers. I can also say this: That I have since left my side of the counter—while Mr. Douglas sticks to his."

News of Washington Boy Scout Troops and Camps

40 Registrants Needed at Last Period of Camp

August 16 to Be Big Day With Boys in Charge at Roosevelt.

Scout Calendar.

Friday, July 28—Scouts admitted to the ball park, in uniform only. Ten-cent Government tax.

Saturday, July 29—7:30 p. m., courts of review and honor at Camp Wilson, Burnt Mills.

Sunday, July 30—More campers will arrive at Camp Roosevelt, starting sixth week of the season.

Wednesday, August 2—5 p. m., Scouts swim at Y. M. C. A.

Thursday, August 3—7:30 p. m., physical examinations for Scouts who are soon to go to Camp Roosevelt at Scout headquarters, 1103 Vermont avenue.

Friday, August 4—Scouts admitted to the ball park in uniform only. Ten-cent Government tax.

Sunday, August 6—Seventh week at Camp Roosevelt opens. (Register now.)

Wednesday, August 9—Scout Day at Airport pool.

Wednesday, August 16—Scout participation in the juvenile night at Sylvan Theater.

Wednesday, August 23—Scout Day at McKinley Tech pool.

New Camp Period Planned.

Additional Scouts are registering for Camp Roosevelt daily. If 40 or more Scouts register for the fourth period, camp can continue from August 7 to 21.

Scouts and parents are urged to decide at once, and any who have delayed registrations are asked to file at once so that they may be counted.

Many of the big events of the camp year are scheduled for the last period. These include the Scouts banquet, intercamp Scoutcraft meet, water pageant and regatta, as well as the farmers' picnic, which is planned for August 10.

Scout Day August 16.

"We'll run 'em ragged," Scouts at Camp Roosevelt are saying as they count the days until August 16, which is to be "Scout Day." A group of campers will be selected to run the camp that day. The leaders will serve as waiters in the mess hall. All are looking forward to this "fun day" with great eagerness, predicting that when "Taps" sounds that night there will be some very tired waiters—or "rangers," as they are called at this camp named after "Teddy" Roosevelt.

The evening meal is to be a regular banquet, cooked "emu" style, consisting of roast chicken, sweet potatoes, corn on the cob, &c., with orangeade and watermelon.

Every day at Camp Roosevelt is a big day—but just wait till Scout Day, August 16!

Camp Newspaper Popular.

The Roosevelt Rough Rider, weekly newspaper at Camp Roosevelt, is a popular feature of camp life, of interest alike to campers and parents.

The editorial staff consists of Jack Splain, Bryant Tuckerman, Bob McConnaughy, Stewart Pool and Bob Roberts.

Scout Advancements.

At the court of review and court of honor at Camp Roosevelt, on Chesapeake Bay, last Saturday night the following advancements took place:

Advanced to second class—Theodore Schnable, Troop 20; Carlo Rota, Troop 25; Robert Morrison, 57, and Norman Billingsley, 620.

Advanced to first class—Talcott Barclay, Troop 3; Charles Piozet, 43; Merrill Brown, Troop 46; Frederik Lemly, 72; Harris Sacks, 73; James E. Bowes, 95; Charles Gomp, 126.

Qualified for merit badges:

Troop 3, Talcott Barclay, swimming, life saving; Troop 5, Houston Buchanan, photography, canoeing; Troop 5, Leroy Collins, first aid to animals, cooking, athletics, reptile study; William Farley, firemanship; John Hatch, camping, canoeing; Mac Hatch, bird study, canoeing; Tom Kessing, cooking, canoeing; Edward Witsell, athletics, first aid to animals.

Of the above 97 merit badges, 74 went to Troop 82, sponsored by the Brookland Methodist Church, Harry W. Scott scoutmaster.

Sea Scouts to Meet.

Last call for the Sea Scout course! More men are registering daily. Officials at Boy Scout headquarters are predicting that more than 60 men will attend the conference on sea scouting and older boy leadership at Camp Roosevelt tomorrow and Sunday. All Scout leaders and other men interested in the leadership of boys are invited to enroll. No fee is being charged for the course—the only expense being $1 charged for three meals.

The sessions will be under direction of Thomas J. Keane, National Sea Scout director and author of "Lubbers Afloat."

The Sea Scout branch has grown 40 per cent in membership during the last year.

Additional information in regard to the course may be secured by phoning Boy Scout headquarters, National 7963.

Scouts Photographing Trees.

Many Washington Scouts already are entering the American Forestry Association contest. Cash prizes totaling $450 will be given for the most beautiful photographs of trees.

The competition, which will close on October 31, affords an unusual opportunity to Scouts and others in the vicinity of Washington because of the many beautiful trees here.

Scouts entering the contest will be working off some of their requirements for merit badges in forestry, conservation and photography.

Awards at Glen Echo.

Scout Robert Woods was awarded the sportsmanship prize at the Boy Scout day at Glen Echo last week.

Other awards were:

Sea Scout to Get Badge.

The quartermaster badge, highest rank in Sea Scouting, will be awarded to Sea Scout Stewart Reynolds, of 1812 Kenyon street northwest, in connection with the training course for Sea Scout leaders, at Camp Roosevelt, tomorrow and Sunday.

Reynolds has the distinction of being the first Washington boy ever to have qualified for the quartermaster rank. He first qualified as an apprentice Sea Scout, then advanced to the rank of an ordinary Sea Scout, then became an able Sea Scout, and passed his examination a few days ago which qualifies him for quartermaster rank.

The badge will be presented by the national director of Sea Scouting, Thomas J. Keane.

Troop 221 Has Picnic.

Troop 221, conducted by the Riverdale Presbyterian Church, held a Scout family picnic last Saturday afternoon in Rock Creek Park with all its members present, as well as ten families of the Scouts. The afternoon program consisted of scouting contests, a horseshoe tournament, a pie-eating contest and all sorts of eats.

William Rimmer, Harry Rimmer and Robert Baldwin advanced to second class rank last week and six other Scouts of the troop will present themselves at the court tomorrow night.

Last Friday night the troop held a Scout swim at the McKinley pool, with every member present and every member a swimmer.

Troop 56 to Take Vacation.

Troop 56, conducted by the Peck Memorial Chapel, celebrated with a watermelon feed last Friday evening. Tonight the troop will hold the last meeting before adjourning on a short vacation during August. Will be back again in full swing early in September.

Every Friday

What is new in your troop? Lots of things, of course, but why keep them secret? Write up the news of your troop and mail it at once to Merit B. Scout, Boy Scout Headquarters, 1103 Vermont avenue. It will then appear in this column every Friday morning.

Thief Opens Safe.

A haul of $208 was obtained by a crackmans last night who broke into a gasoline filling station at Twenty-first street northwest and worked the combination on the safe.

West Virginia Will Have New National Park

To Be Established in Southeast Part of State Near Virginia Line.

Establishment of a new national forest in West Virginia is being considered, it was learned Wednesday as President Roosevelt signed an Executive order consolidating the George Washington and Natural Bridge National Forests in Virginia.

The new West Virginia forest would be located in the southeastern part of the State, in the mountains near the Virginia line. Land for the new forest would be bought with a part of the $20,000,000 of public works funds set aside for national forest purchases. Officials of the Forest Service hope to reach a decision about the projected West Virginia forest early in August.

The two Virginia forests were consolidated in the interests of better administration and economy. One supervisor will handle both areas, with a saving of about $10,000 per year. A single set of road equipment and similar machinery will also serve both forests, which will be known as the George Washington National Forest.

Two Girls Burn to Death As Can of Oil Explodes

Oakland, Calif., July 27 (AP). Two baby girls were burned to death in their family motor car here when their father lit a match to peer into the back seat before daylight today to "see if they were all right" and an open can of gasoline exploded. They were Esther Smith, 18 months' old, and Emily Marie Smith, 2½ years old. The car was destroyed.

The father, Merlin Smith, jr., Hayward mechanic, suffered severe burns on the head and arms from his desperate attempts to rescue the children.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt Will Go to Hyde Park Home Today to Spend August

Ambassador of Argentina Marries Mrs. Courtney Letts Borden.

THE PRESIDENT AND MRS. ROOSEVELT will leave today for their home at Hyde Park, N. Y., to spend August.

Their daughter, Mrs. Curtis Dall, will also leave today for Rye Beach, N. Y., to join her children, "Sistie" and "Buzzie," and with them will motor to the Polo Camp, where Mr. John Roosevelt is a counselor. Mr. John Roosevelt will take five days' vacation to motor with Mrs. Dall to Hyde Park, where the former and her children will remain several weeks.

Mrs. Roosevelt will return to the Capital August 9 and will motor to White Top Mountain for the musical festival which will be held August 11 and 12 near Abington, Va. Mrs. Roosevelt will spend the two nights of her visit in one of the rustic mountain cabins.

Mr. and Mrs. James Roosevelt will be frequent guests at Hyde Park during the summer.

The wedding of Mrs. Courtney Letts Borden, daughter of Mrs. Frank C. Letts, and the Ambassador of Argentina, Senor Felipe A. Espil, took place yesterday at noon at the home of Justice Jennings Bailey, of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia, who performed the ceremony in the presence of the members of the bride's family and members of the embassy staff.

Mrs. George McLaughlin, jr., sister of the bride, was her only attendant, and the Ambassador of Spain, Senor don Juan Francisco de Cardenas, acted as best man. Immediately after the ceremony the ambassador and his bride left for a ten-day motor trip.

Although the wedding is a surprise to Capital society, a rumor of its probability was mentioned in the Diplomatic Pouch of The Post recently.

Senora de Espil, as Courtney Letts, made her debut in Washington during the winter of 1918-19, when she first met Senor Espil, then Secretary of the Argentine Embassy. Later Miss Letts was married to Mr. A. Stilwell, of Chicago, and subsequently to Mr. John Borden, a Chicago sportsman, with whom she made a trip to Africa for big game shooting. Senor Espil, after being promoted to the rank of Counselor of Embassy in Washington, which post he held for several years, was appointed, later, Argentine Minister to The Netherlands. During a political revolution in the Argentine, Senor Espil resigned from the diplomatic service, and entered the Argentine banking firm of Tornquist & Co., as their New York representative. When his party regained power he was appointed Ambassador to Washington.

Senora de Espil is well known in the literary world as the author of "The Cruise of the Northern Lights" and "Adventures in a Man's World," as well as frequent articles in newspapers and magazines, including a recent short story "Plantation House Party," written on her plantation in Mississippi.

British Ambassador Sails Home Tomorrow.

The Ambassador of Great Britain, Sir Ronald Lindsay, today will go to New York, whence he will sail tomorrow aboard the Aquitania for England. He will join Lady Lindsay, who has been at their home there since the latter part of June. They will return to the embassy on Massachusetts avenue in the fall.

The Ambassador of Brazil, Senhor R. de Lima e Silva, spent yesterday in Washington from his summer home in Manchester-by-the-Sea, Mass. The Ambassador entertained at luncheon at the Mayflower yesterday for Mr. Joao Alberto, chief of the Brazilian Commission to the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago. Among the luncheon guests were members of the Embassy staff and Mrs. Rosalina Miller, famous Brazilian poetess, who is a member of the commission to the exposition.

The visitors left late yesterday afternoon for Chicago, and the Ambassador returned to Manchester last evening.

Dr. Alberto Pani, who was head of the Mexican delegation to the economic conferences in Washington, was host at luncheon yesterday at the Mayflower. Among the guests was the Charge d'Affaires of the Mexican Embassy, Senor Dr. Don Luis Padilla Nervo. After luncheon Dr. Pani called on the Undersecretary of State, Mr. William Phillips, before leaving the Capital for Mexico.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Cordell Hull sailed yesterday for this country.

The Minister of Guatemala, Senor Dr. Don Adrian Recinos, arrived yesterday in New York aboard the S. S. Washington from Europe, where he represented his country at the Economic Conference in London. He will come directly to the Capital to join Senora de Recinos, who has remained here through the summer.

The Minister of Ecuador, Senor Don Gonzalez Zaldumbide, has been transferred from Washington to Europe, where he will be Minister to Switzerland and Italy and delegate for his coutnry to the League of Nations. The minister plans to leave Washington the end of August and will go to Paris first to join Senora de Zaldumbide, who has been there for several weeks.

The Minister and Senora de Zaldumbide have been in Washington for two years, and as popular members of the Diplomatic Corps their departure will be much regretted. Senor Zaldumbide served his country as chief of mission in Washington for a brief period several years ago; so his return in 1931 was to a familiar city and a host of friends.

Senor Don Bolon Eloy Alfaro, Minister of Ecuador to Panama, has been appointed to succeed Senor Zaldumbide and will come to Washington about September 1.

The Minister to Canada and Mrs. Warren Delano Robbins left the Capital yesterday to be the weekend guests of Mrs. Vincent Astor at Rhinebeck - on - the - Hudson. The minister will proceed to Ottawa to assume his duties, while Mrs. Robbins will go to the family homestead at Fairhaven, Mass., to remain for two or three weeks. Miss Helen Robbins, who has been in New York, will join her mother at Fairhaven and together they will go to Ottawa.

Senator and Mrs. Couzens Will Arrive This Week.

Senator and Mrs. James Couzens will arrive in New York this week from London on the S. S. Washington, of the United States Lines. Senator Couzens has been serving as a delegate to the World Economic Conference, which formally recessed today. Senator Couzens will come direct to Washington for a brief stay before going to Waubeek, their summer home at Pontiac, Mich.

Senator Key Pittman and Representative Sam D. McReynolds, with his daughter, Miss Margaret McReynolds, members of the American contingent at the London parley, sailed yesterday for this country.

Maj. Gen. Blanton Winship, United States High Commissioner to Liberia, sailed on the United States liner President Roosevelt Wednesday to resume his duties. Gen. Winship returned two weeks ago from Geneva, where his plan for financial reconstruction of the Liberian government was discussed.

The retiring attache of the Danish Legation, Mr. Erik Fischer, sailed yesterday aboard the City of LeHavre from Baltimore to take up his new duties at the foreign office in Copenhagen.

Commander Frecio Moneal, Naval Attache to the Spanish Embassy, has taken an apartment at the Westchester.

Mr. Richard Washburn Childs, former American Ambassador to Italy, and Mrs. Childs are at the Carlton for a brief stay, having arrived from Newport, R. I.

The former Ambassador to Spain and Mrs. Ogden H. Hammond left yesterday for Newport, where they will occupy the Drury house in Bellevue avenue for the rest of the season. They will be accompanied by Mrs. Hammond's son, McClure Meredith Howland.

Former Senator Peter Goelet Gerry, of Rhode Island, is at the Pierre, where he has been joined by Mrs. Gerry, who returned on the Bremen. They will go to Newport later.

Hon. Phyllis Astor Bride Of Lord Willoughby de Eresby.

The wedding yesterday of the Hon. Phyllis Astor, daughter of Lord and Lady Astor, of England, and Lord Willoughby de Eresby, is of more than usual interest in Washington, where Lady Astor has visited many times and has many friends. The wedding took place at Taplow, England, and was attended by many persons prominent on both sides of the Atlantic. Lady Astor, formerly Miss Nancy Langhorne, of Virginia, was the first woman member of the British Parliament, where she still has a seat. The bridegroom also is descended from Americans, his mother having been Miss Eloise Laurence Breese, daughter of the late Mr. William Laurence Breese, of New York.

The guests included Princess Ingrid, of Sweden, and Lady Patricia Ramsay. The Bishop of Exeter performed the ceremony and was assisted by the Vicar of Taplow, the Rev. R. S. Demaus.

The bride waited several minutes at the churchyard gate and directed operations, while her father and two or three women from the crowd arranged her gown with its long double train of satin.

They walked up the path on her father's arm to meet the bishop at the church door. She entered amid the cheers of the village folk.

Lady Astor, who arrived a few minutes before her daughter, wore a gown of dove gray chiffon, with green sash, a wide-brimmed green hat and green shoes.

More than a thousand persons were gathered outside the church, some of them standing on a farm cart, others climbing the church railing or standing on an adjacent wall.

Mr. and Mrs. Victor A. I. Llewelyn entertained at a supper party last evening to bid farewell to their friends before leaving Tuesday for Montreal, whence they will sail for their home in England. Among the guests were the Minister of Ecuador, Senor Don Gonzalo Zaldumbide; the Charge d'Affaires of Chile, Senor Benjamin Cohen; Representative and Mrs. Fred A. Britten, the Secretary of the Italian Embassy, Signor Giuseppe Tommasi; the Secretary of the Italian Embassy, Signor Andrea Ferrero; the Second Secretary of the Argentine Embassy, Senor Don Eduardo L. Vivot; the Commercial Secretary of the Chilean Embassy, Senor Don Carlos de la Barra; Mr. and Mrs. John Caswell, jr., M. and Mme. Jean de Lattre-Seguy, Commander and Mrs. Arthur Wallace Dunn, Mr. and Mrs. James Moran, Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Snow, jr., Mrs. Campbell Prichett, Mrs. Blaine Mallan, Mrs. Charlotte Warfield, Mrs. Susan Smith, Mrs. Alice Smoot, Mme. Maria Arias, Miss Dorothea Lane, Miss Emily Searles, Miss Emily Maddox and Mr. and Mrs. Emmons Smith; also Mr. Norbert Horan, Commander Howard Kingman, Mr. William W. Rapley, M. Antonio Alfaro, Mr. Calvert Bowie, Mr. Graves, Lieut. Richard M. Cutts, Mr. Monroe Mayhoff, Commander P. P. Powell, M. Quiros, M. Villa and Mr. J. Hall McKenney 3d.

Mrs. Joseph Leiter arrived yesterday at the Ambassador, in New York, from Watch Hill, R. I.

Mrs. Adler and Her Son Back From Atlantic City.

Mrs. Victor E. Adler and her son, Mr. Claude A. Adler, have returned from Atlantic City where they were the guests of the fromer's sister, Mrs. Charles Livingston, at her cottage on South Ridgeway avenue.

Lieut. and Mrs. Elliott B. Strauss, the former on duty at the torpedo station at the Naval War College in Newport, R. I., have reserved a table for the buffet dinner dance at the Clambake Club, which will close the National Air Pageant Saturday. Others from Washington who have made reservations are Mr. and Mrs. C. Matthews Dick.

Of particular interest in Washington is the announcement of the engagement of Miss Violet Elizabeth McDougall, daughter of Mrs. Ellen McDougall, of Winnipeg, Canada, to Gov. John Garland Pollard, of Virginia. No date has been set for the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Lee Boatwright, jr., the latter the daughter of Gov. Pollard, make their home in Washington.

Mrs. M. P. Tyler, of Seattle, Wash., is at Wardman Park Hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stokes have recently moved to the Westchester. Mr. Stokes is one of new officials at the Treasury.

Miss Sara Louise Snell, daughter of Representative Bertrand H. Snell, minority leader of the House, and Mrs. Snell, has gone to Lenox, Mass., where she is staying at Heaton Hall.

Mrs. Maurice Brown, of Dubuque, Iowa, arrived here yesterday, accompanied by Miss Mary Nelson, and during their stay in Washington they are at Wardman Park Hotel.

Lieut. Comdr. John Roper and Mrs. Roper will be at home to their friends August 1 at their new apartment in the Westchester. They are at present with Commander Roper's father, Mr. Daniel C. Roper.

Mrs. Sidney Heller entertained at dinner Wednesday night in honor of her son, Mr. Lawrence J. Heller, prior to his departure on Saturday on the Italian liner Vulcania for a five-week tour of northern Italy, Switzerland and France.

Mrs. Thomas J. Mangan, Jr., Proceeds to New York.

Mrs. Thomas J. Mangan, jr., accompanied by her children, Barbara and Thomas 3d, who are spending the summer at Ventnor, N. J., have gone to New York to meet Mrs. Mangan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John I. Haas, who returns from Europe Friday on the Aquitania. Mr. and Mrs. Haas will spend a few days with the Mangan family at Ventnor before returning to Washington.

Mrs. James Lawson Karrick has as guests for a week at Southmayd, Stockbridge, Mass., Mr. Wellington Wells, of Boston, and Miss Virginia Wells, who has just returned from Paris, where she studied at the Sorbonne.

Mrs. Lillian Goolsby, of New York City, is at the Carlton for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Greenleaf are making their home at the Westchester. Mr. Greenleaf has recently been appointed counsel for the Alien Property Custodian's Office.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Adkins have leased Mr. and Mrs. Chester Lockwood's residence at 2422 Tracy place for the remainder of the summer. They propose to return in October to Florida.

Mrs. John Marvin Wright, of Washington, is visiting her brother-in-law and sister, Col. and Mrs. James P. Robinson, at South Egremont, Mass.

Dr. A. W. Grabeau, eminent geologist, has arrived in Washington from Peking, China, and during his sojourn in Washington he is at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Miss Janet Shares, of Washington, who is spending the summer at Stockbridge, Mass., gave a dinner and theater party at the Berkshire Playhouse.

Capt. and Mrs. T. P. Ballenger, of Philadelphia, have taken an apartment at the Westchester.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Wilson, of New York City, have engaged an apartment at Wardman Park Hotel.

Woman, 75, Sees Her First Movie

Attending Graduation of Grandson Also First Public Entertainment.

Rockville, Conn. (U.P.).—Although Mrs. Sarah Wilson, 75, enjoyed a motion picture, and had a good time at the graduating exercises of the grammar school, she has no intention of letting such amusements become a habit with her. It was the first movie and first public entertainment she had ever attended.

"I enjoyed the evening very much," Mrs. Wilson told friends, "but I prefer merely to attend church and lead a quiet life."

Graduation of her grandson drew Mrs. Wilson to the school auditorium.

Farm Women Model Five-Cent Dresses

Raleigh, N. C., July 27 (AP).—Five-cent afternoon frocks were shown here today by North Carolina farm women attending the annual convention of the State Federation of Home Demonstration Clubs.

Mrs. W. B. Lamb, of Garland, modeled a dress made from a lace curtain 30 years old, while Mrs. J. P. Owens, of Wallace, showed a dress made from her husband's 1926 suit. Mrs. Glenn Caudle, of Rockingham County, showed a corn shuck hat, dress and purse to match which cost 30 cents to make, and Mrs. D. L. Neal, of Morrisville, knitted a dress from tobacco twine at a cost of less than 30 cents.

Weather Postpones Concert Till Tonight

The concert of the United States Navy Band—the seventh of the Community Center Department's summer music festivals—was postponed last evening due to uncertainty of the weather.

This evening at 8 o'clock the program as previously announced will be presented at the Sylvan Theater.

Spin Your Own.

In addition to knitting and crocheting your own sweaters, caps, afghans and what not, you may now spin your own yarn if you're so inclined. Stores are showing real spinning wheels, which are not only very decorative in a room but are built for practical use.

How to Get Well

The Doctor and the Patient.

BEFORE the writer lies a letter in which there is a long list of complaints of services by physicians. The author of the letter has had a variety of diseases and has been under the care of more than one physician, and records one or more complaints against each of the medical servants. This phase of the question, multiplicity of diseases and variety of physicians, taken with the assorted symptoms reported, has a bearing on the question.

The first point to be made in a discussion of this kind of letter and the type of persons who write them is that the relation of physician and patient is not understood. Few people understand it. When a sick person calls a physician he proposes a partnership. The physician who responds accepts the proposal. In the partnership then entered into the patient is the senior partner, the head of the firm. He makes all the important decisions and, in all decisions, may say the final word. The physician is the junior partner.

Physician Is Counselor.

A better way to put it is that he is the counselor and adviser. It is his duty in the partnership to study the case, to get all the light he can from every available source, to mature an opinion, and then to lay that opinion, together with his advice as to what should be done, before the senior partner. The latter then makes his decision as to what he will do.

The action taken is joint, a continuation of the partnership. Assuming that the advice has been accepted and the junior partner undertakes treatment based on the advice on the one hand, and the decision on the other, the senior partner continues to have certain duties. In fact, his duties may be more important than those of the junior partner. He must carry out directions faithfully. In so far as he can he must cooperate spiritually, mentally, and physically. His duties under the partnership arrangement are not quite as definite as those of the doctor, and they are not so well understood, but they are very real, both legally and as far as results are concerned.

Partnership Important.

If any one is disposed to doubt the correctness of this statement, let him consult his lawyer. If the doubt is of another kind, the outcome of the illness supplies some part of the answer.

An old, time-honored medical teacher was accustomed to finish his lecture on each disease he covered by this summary: Gentlemen, some of your cases will die, some will get well, and some will go on to the chronic form of the disorder. And this pretty nearly covered all the possibilities.

Not all illness is curable. In spite of the best that the partnership can do, some cases will terminate fatally and others will go into the chronic stage. If either contingency results it does not follow that either partner failed to do his part of the job.

There are other conditions under which nature works the thing out without much help from either party.

Then there is a third group where the outcome will depend on just how well the partnership functions.

When one partner grouches about the other the chances are that he himself did not carry out his part of the job. The whiner mental type does not make a good partner.

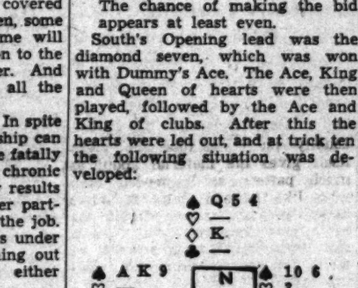
Quick Tricks vs. Slick Tricks.

IN developing skill in playing the hand, many Bridge players have learned that there are frequent tricks available which are not apparent in either the length of suits, the honors or the ruffing possibilities. The test of a good player of the cards is his ability to recognize situations where squeezes or Forced lead plays may be developed to produce tricks that would otherwise be lost.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Floyd, of Senatobia, Miss., have made a careful study of the most approved methods of play as well as of modern methods of bidding, if one may judge by their bidding and Mr. Floyd's play of the hand below:

West, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.



The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs).

West	North	East	South
1♠	Pass	3♡(1)	Pass
3NT(2)	Pass	4NT(3)	Pass
5NT(4)	Pass	7♡(5)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—The Forcing Takeout, although there is no fit with partner's suit, is more than justified by the length and strength of the heart suit and the 4 honor-tricks in the hand.

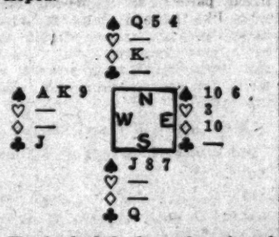
2—West, at this point, can not bid further. The hand is a minimum vulnerable Opening.

3—Even with a minimum, East still sees the practical certainty of a Slam. In any event, a contract of five hearts is safe.

4—The Conventional response.

5—Perhaps a slight overbid in view of West's disavowal of any additional strength. However, West might easily hold the club Queen, upon which a losing diamond could be discarded, or conceivably a spade might be established in the Dummy, upon which a discard might be found. The chance of making the bid appears at least even.

South's Opening lead was the diamond seven, which was won with Dummy's Ace. The Ace, King and Queen of hearts were then played, followed by the Ace and King of clubs. After this the hearts were led out, and at trick ten the following situation was developed:

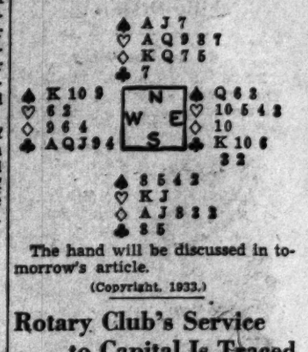


The lead of the heart three forced South to discard a spade. The club Knave was then discarded from Dummy, and North was compelled also to discard a spade, permitting the winning of the last three tricks with the Ace, King and nine in Dummy.

Tomorrow's Hand.

Can North and South logically reach a contract of six diamonds on the hand below? What should be the steps in the bidding?

North, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The hand will be discussed in tomorrow's article.

Rotary Club's Service to Capital Is Traced

Dr. Harrison Howe, president of the Washington Rotary Club, traced the history of the club's service to the community in a radio address yesterday over Station WMAL.

From the time of its founding in 1912, the Washington branch of Rotary International has donated thousands of dollars to community betterment, Howe said.

Among the many benefactions of the organization was a gift of $10,000 to Children's Hospital.

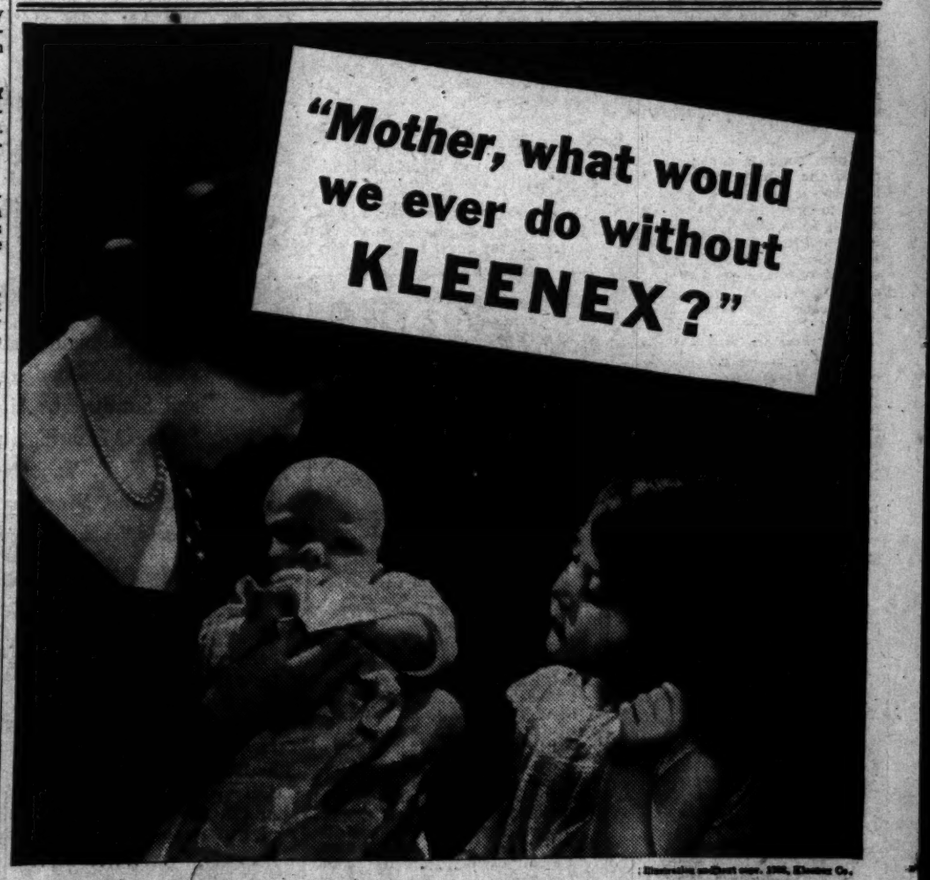
"Mother, what would we ever do without KLEENEX?"



Mothers find Kleenex brings new comfort to children, saves washing, stops the expense of lost handkerchiefs, assures cleanliness!

SOFT, gentle Kleenex for tender little noses! Kleenex, strong and absorbent, to take up every drop of cod liver oil, orange juice or milk that overflows from baby mouths—a clean and tidy bib that never has to be washed!

Kleenex for bandages and minor wounds. Kleenex for applying salves and ointments. Kleenex, downy-soft and gentle, for Baby's toilet tissues. Kleenex for drying chafed little limbs. Kleenex for dusting on that soothing powder.

No wonder children in the millions of homes where it is in constant use—ask: "Mother, what would we ever do without Kleenex?" And children need this safeguard against germ-carrying, cold-spreading handkerchiefs. From the very first sniffle, remember: the only safe handkerchiefs are those you can use and destroy at once—Kleenex disposable tissues.

And no handkerchief washing to do or pay for!

Kleenex is made under the most hygienic conditions. It is kept clean, hygienic, while in use by the patented, self-dispensing, pull-out box. Hands never enter to contaminate or mess up the other sheets, or to take out more than is required—an assurance of economy!

Try large-size Kleenex

Recommended for cosmetic use is large-size Kleenex, three times regular size; also useful as guest towels, dust cloths, etc. Both sizes at all drug, dry goods and department stores.

Beach Board Halts Perpetual Card Chasing

Polka Dot Designs on Decks Furnish Something Different.

By the Meanderer.

Bridge on the beach. What fun! The soft breeze steals up on you and scatters your cards along the shore, feeding some to the water, some to the sands. That's the old story.

The new one is more to our liking. Man has taken another step toward conquering the elements. He has devised a bridge board which sets the playful capers of the breeze at naught. Its fabricoid-covered surface arranged with handy rubber bands to hold the cards, is both waterproof and windproof. At an F street store for $1.00.

Polka dots are not only popular on dresses this season, but on playing cards as well. The Meanderer saw some very pretty ones in blue and orange with white dots, price 58 cents for two packs.

A jet black bird was perched on the bar in the middle of his cage. The Meanderer eyed him curiously. Over the cage was a sign "Mynah Bird, $1,000."

"Hello, Mynah, can you talk?" the Meanderer asked.

"No!" replied Mynah.

There was a silence. Suddenly, "Where's the dog?" asked Mynah.

"Who wants to know?" he continued. "Mynah!" he finished screaming.

He eyed the Meanderer quizzically. Putting his head on one side he whistled. The Meanderer turned to leave. "Good-by Bill" called Mynah.

Business Stationery.

Business notes written on daintily bordered tinted paper are not in keeping. Milady should have some business stationery. She may buy 200 single sheets, 100 white envelopes, in white or ivory, with her name and address printed across the top. Price, $1.

An appropriate dish for light summer meals is the meat loaf. An F street bakery prepares one as pleasing to the eye as to the palate. The loaf contains ground beef, ground pork (fresh), green peppers, dry onions, chopped fine; stale bread, dried and rolled fine; tomatoes, butter, black pepper, salt, celery, fresh eggs and sage. Price, 29 cents.

One million strikes and still going strong. That's the latest thing in matches. In rain, snow, sleet or shine its tenacious little flame may be depended on.

Looking very much like a cigarette lighter, it comes in chromium or bakelite cases, lined with fuel-soaked felt. The match itself screws into the case. It lights by striking against the side of its container. Pocket styles, 50 cents and $1. It is also designed to fasten on to the dashboard of your car. The latter is priced $1.

A boucle suit is an excellent solution to the "what-to-wear" problem. It's always ready for service. No need to press it—shake it out and hang it up. A downtown store is going to sell these suits tomorrow at a 40 per cent discount. There will be a wide selection of whites, pastel and dark colors, all prices, all sizes. Come early, stay late!

Foil The Burglar.

It's going to be a hard year for burglars if you take advantage of the newest window-locking device to be for sale at a downtown store next week. Burglars are protesting loudly. They say that no matter how skilled they are, this window lock defeats them. It is designed so that you may leave your window up a few inches for ventilation, fasten the lock at the top of it, and rest in confidence that no one can intrude. Price, 50 cents.

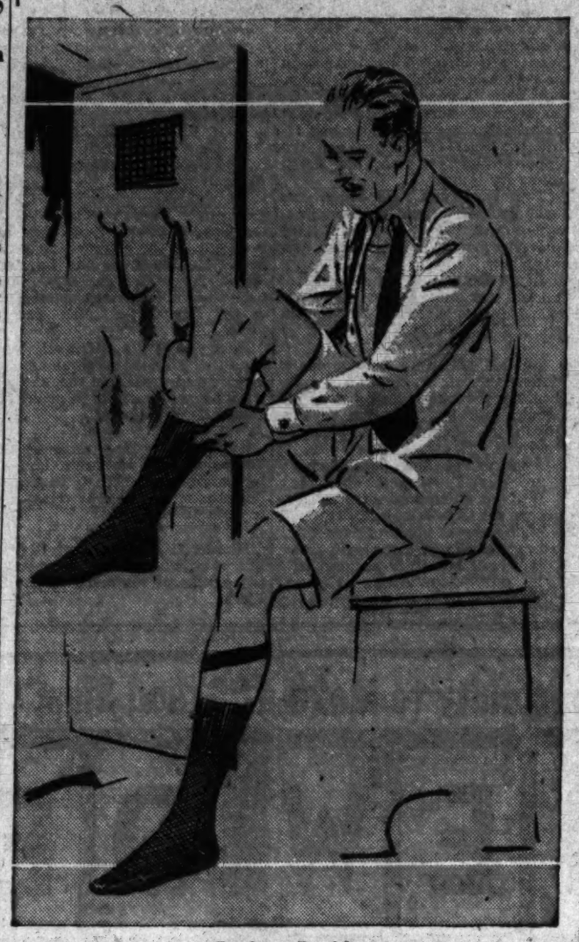
What's in Fashion?

Men Hunting for Coolness Find It in Mesh Articles



By Amos Parrish.

New York, July 27.—The open door policy, under discussion for decades, has at last been acted upon, at least so far as men's clothes for summer are concerned. And mesh weaves have brought it all about. Because mesh, which allows free entry for any cool breeze that's stirring, also allows free exit for every bit of body heat.

The simple result of all this has been thousands of mesh-wearing men . . . more sensibly dressing men. The mesh-wearers you see today are, generally speaking, in a cooler state of mind and body.

Their shirts, socks and underwear—even their bathing suit tops and neckties—have gone in for the lightness and porousness of mesh.

Mesh Shirts Collar-Attached.

Especially shirts, which lend themselves perfectly to the more open type of weave. They're of the collar-attached type. And usually plain, because the mesh itself gives the material about as much pattern as it needs. Men who like novelty can of course have theirs in stripes. Or in the new mottled weave, which gets that way by taking strands of white and colored yarns and twisting them.

Mesh Socks in Pastel Shades.

Mesh weaves do big things for foot comfort, too. You wear your mesh socks white, blue, gray, tan, green or canary . . . any of which go well with your summer flannels or linen suits. Mesh type grenadine ties are doing just as much for their contry, and for the necktie wardrobes of Ireland's John McCormack or Poland's Ignace Paderewski. Plain colored ties, or for that matter, small all-over effects and spaced figures, all look well in this porous type of fabric.

Mesh Bathing Tops Light.

Finally, mesh marches to the beaches. Especially where the law scowls on bare-chested bathers, mesh bathing shirts let you get yourself a degree of sun-tan without taking your shirt off. In addition to which, the lightness of your shirt helps the swiftness of your swimming.

The closer it gets to your skin, of course, the bigger the job mesh does for you. Lets the air get right through to you.

So if you really want to try a new standard of coolness for the balance of the summer, you might amend Horace Greeley rather drastically and go mesh, young man!

Box Office Censor Of Films Urged

Ohio University Also to Have Courses in Movie Appreciation.

Columbus, Ohio (U.P.).—A new form of motion picture censorship, emanating from Ohio State University, may be inaugurated in the United States soon.

The new idea in cinema supervision puts censorship in the box office, rather than any attempt to legislate good motion pictures.

Courses in "motion picture appreciation" for high school and university students are being prepared under the direction of W. W. Charles, head of the Ohio State University board of education research, to be introduced in schools and colleges this fall.

The result, educators think will be that coming generations will support good motion pictures and eschew distasteful ones. That will place the burden of producing good pictures directly on the box office.

Jellied Dishes Appeal To Jaded Appetites

Of all the hot weather foods, those most tempting to the eye and appetite are the jellied dishes. Their transparency suggests ice, and their cool, pale colors make them look most palatable.

With gelatin as a base, a jellied dish for every course may be made. Fruit appetizers will freshen a wilted spirit, fruit soup is sure to slip down easily. The latter is made of tart fruit juice with enough gelatin to thicken it slightly, and is served icy cold. Juices left over in canning or bits of fresh or canned fruit may be used. For the main course, a jellied meat or fish loaf may be glorified with chopped hard boiled eggs mixed in it.

Vegetables are more palatable in hot weather when made into a gelatin loaf. Every housewife has her favorite jellied dessert. The "sponge" is made by whipping up the jelly and adding a beaten egg white. Try these cooling dishes, they are not only appetizing when the mercury is soaring, but more healthful than hot foods.

America Is Fully Awakened, Says Mrs. Roosevelt on Return

Found People in Canada Alive to Plans for U. S. Recovery.

By Vyla Poe Wilson.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt motored 4,000 miles in her blue roadster in three weeks through Northeastern United States and Quebec, Canada, and came back to report at her White House press conference yesterday that she found an America awakened, an America anxious to cooperate in recovery plans, women with a new realization of responsibility as well as power and a desire to aid prosperity as much as possible.

She found people in Canada keenly alive to recovery plans in this country with the fervent hope that "good fortune to this country might bring good fortune to Canada."

Mrs. Roosevelt expressed great satisfaction over the reception of her husband's radio speech on Monday night. She heard it in a small New York village while seated in her roadster with townspeople around her.

"Radio gives us more sense of possession of our Government," she said in commenting on the ease with which a present-day President may tell all the people what he is doing and trying to do.

Willing to Cooperate.

"American people are grand," Mrs. Roosevelt continued. "They do not expect everything to just fall in their laps. They are willing to cooperate.

"Women throughout the sections that I visited are taking much interest in public affairs. They are interested in the women who hold important positions. They have come to realize their power and also their responsibility."

The value of the aid of women who possess buying power, in the plans for prosperity, was stressed by the wife of the President.

"Long before we suffered in the East," she explained, "the Western farmers were having hard times and their needs must be considered first. When they have buying power in the West it will bring prosperity to the East, for Western prosperity means Eastern prosperity."

Mrs. Roosevelt, who appeared sunburned and "rested up," told many amusing and entertaining incidents of her trip. She drove her own car for the 4,000 miles without a hat, with her hair confined by a blue ribbon bandeau. Through some sections dust was so thick she had to brush clouds of it from her hair each night.

Ran Away From Police.

When she wanted to explore the country alone she literally ran away from the State police and escort cars. In New Hampshire she drove her car up Mount Mansfield, although she was warned that no woman had ever attempted such a feat.

Mrs. Roosevelt ate with simple fisher folk at Gaspe Peninsula, New Brunswick, although she could not essay their favorite dish of a loaf of hot bread hollowed out and filled with pork over which molasses was spread. Although she told her name in one Canadian village they did not know her real identity.

Mrs. Roosevelt enlarged on her address on religion at Chautauqua, July 24. She stressed the point that there must be a revival of real religion that means a new social order and viewpoint.

Yesterday she wore a becoming dress of blue flowered voile finished with plaited frills of plain blue and white material.

Ham Is Found Summer Boon By Housewife

Can Be Served in Many Ways, So Family Does Not Tire of It.

The preparation of the meat for summer meals often is a perplexing problem. The week's menus are usually planned so that a minimum amount of time is spent in the kitchen, and in order to accomplish this end we cook sufficient food at one time for several meals.

Nothing gives one such a feeling of luxury and ease as having a baked ham in the family larder. It can be served in so many tempting ways that the family need never tire of it. Serve it hot for the first dinner and keep the remainder in the refrigerator for future dinners, suppers and lunches. It need not all be used in a day or two, as the ham will keep several days.

If you haven't as yet tried baking a ham for the entire cooking period you have a treat in store. The following is a favorite recipe:

Spiced Baked Ham.

12-lb. ham
1 teaspoon mustard
½ teaspoon paprika
½ cup vinegar or pineapple juice
½ cup brown sugar

Wash and dry ham. Place in roaster, fat side up, cover bottom of pan with hot water, about 1 quart. Cover roaster, put in a slow oven, 300 regrees F., allowing about 21 minutes to the pound. When half done, remove rind. Sprinkle fat surface with mustard and paprika. Add vinegar to the liquid in the pan and continue cooking. Baste frequently. About one hour before serving sprinkle fat surface with brown sugar, dot with whole cloves and continue baking without basting.

In the preparation of ham the homemaker certainly can express her individuality. Ham combines especially well with fruit juices and if you have been confining yourself to pineapple juice, I would like to suggest that you substitute apple cider, grape juice, apricoot juice, peach juice, cherry juice or some time try basting the ham with a pint of ginger ale. In fact, any fruit may be successfully cooked and served with ham.

Since the usual way to use left-over ham is to serve it as a cold meat plate, or in sandwiches, the following suggestions are offered:

Ham Hash With Poached Eggs.

2 cups left over ham, chopped.
2 cups chopped cooked potatoes
½ green pepper, minced
½ medium onion, minced
2 tablespoons ham drippings
½ cup diced celery
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon salt

Melt the drippings and saute the green pepper, onion and celery. Mix with the chopped ham and potatoes, then add the seasoning. Add a little hot water if too dry. Shape into individual molds about 1 inch thick. Saute in drippings until thoroughly heated and slightly browned. Serve with poached egg on each mold. Serves six.

Use Appetizers To Supply Zest For Plain Meals

Tomato and Pineapple Juices Make Perfect Drink.

Almost every home maker thinks of warm weather and slumping appetites as synonymous. The business of tempting the family to eat heartily is destined to be a difficult task in summer. But the intelligent use of "appetizers" preceding the meal can accomplish wonders in giving an appeal to the foods that are to follow.

Appetizers are divided into two classes by Nell B. Nichols, household editor of Woman's Home Companion, in a new study of the subject. The first class includes fruit juices and other beverages that may be served delightfully and easily in the living room, on the porch or terrace, or even in the garden immediately before the meal. The second class includes those that are on the table when dinner or luncheon is served. Table appetizers, which require the use of silver, may be salads, jellied bouillon, melon, sherbets, ices or fruit cups.

Simplest to prepare are the appetizers that come in cans or bottles. All you have to do is chill the container, pour the contents into glasses and add a dash of lemon juice and other seasonings if desired. Popular appetizers of this sort are tomato juice, pineapple juice, grapefruit juice, apple juice, grape juice and ginger ale. Of course, various combinations may be made. The expert insists that tomato and pineapple juices make the perfect drink. Sunshine appetizer (a mixture of grapefruit, pineapple and lemon juice) is growing in popularity.

In selecting an accompaniment for the appetizer, crispness is the first essential. Crackers, available in an amazing variety of shapes and flavors, may be served just as they come from the box or spread with delectable mixtures. Stuffed celery and potato chips are also much in demand.

Child May Take Advantage if Given Chance

Some are Quick to Seize Opportunity to Build Own Importance.

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

I think that ever since child culture as a study came into vogue there has been a tendency to overstress childhood to such an extent that the children naturally enough have gained an exaggerated sense of their own importance.

They are very quick to take advantage of the situation. The other day I overheard one small girl say to her sorely tired mother, "You know you are repressing me, and if you don't take care I shall grow up with inhibitions."

The mother sat still for a moment, caught her breath, and thought very hard and fast before she answered. Then she spoke very slowly, weighing each word carefully: "Have you ever thought of the possibility of developing inhibitions in mothers, Sally? It is possible.

"I know that I seem very old to you, but just the same I have a lot of years to live still, and am going to be much older. My future, too, depends on my present. Age is only comparative, and to your grandmother I seem as young as you seem to me.

"I am developing and growing just as you are, and what you do to me or make me do to you leaves a mark on me that may change my whole life, and give me a warped and discontented old age."

It was a new and startling point of view to Sally and impressed her deeply. For the first time she thought of her mother, not as a powerful and antagonistic outside force but as a human being, somewhat older than herself, but deserving of understanding and consideration; a human being, moreover, limited in her action and in her self-expression by outside forces, one of them the little daughter herself.

It was a declaration of independence for the mother, but I think it tightened the bond of love and respect between her and the child.

Slump Makes People More Art Conscious

New Orleans, (U.P.).—People have become "art conscious" during the business depression because they have had more time to think about art, according to Miss Angela Gregory, sculptress. Before the depression, they were too busy thinking about other things, she said.

Miss Gregory believes the American people have a strong urge for beautiful architecture, while architects, she said, are realizing more and more the need of sculpture in buildings.

What Today Means

By Mary Blake.

"Leo."

If July 28 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 6:45 a. m. to 8 a. m., from 5:15 p. m. to 6:20 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11 p. m.. The danger periods are from 9:50 a. m. to 10:35 a. m., from 3:30 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 8 p. m. to 8:40 p. m.

It is possible that information will come into your possession on this July 28 that is not meant for you. Do not seek to use it to your advantage, for the chances are that the results will prove disastrous. You will probably find that directness and absolute frankness in your dealings with those of the opposite sex will prove most effective. Avoid quarrels with loved ones.

The child born on this July 28 will quite likely make unreasonable demands upon his parents. Do not let this little one have his own way too much and take care not to coddle him. You will most likely have to be most tactful in your manner of correcting him. Inclined to be resentful.

If July 28 is the date of your birth, it is more than likely that you are a person who uses good, common sense in all matters. You are no one to become upset or to get rattled when things go a bit wrong or the tide turns strongly against you. Adversity stimulates you and spurs you on to greater endeavors. Luck will play a minor part in your life, and Lady Luck will but rarely smile or frown at you. Things will just work out for you all along the way, due to your industry, sound judgment and perspicacity. Your life will be a gradual unfoldment and development, with bigger and better things coming more and more your way. You will not care overly for fame and notoriety, but you will probably have to stand for a goodly amount of publicity and you will have to come into the public eye more than you will care for.

Born on July 28, you will probably appeal strongly to those of the opposite sex. Others will not be attracted because of your physical self, but because of the goodness and kindness and love that seems to flow from you. Your calm and spiritual presence brings rest and comfort to the sick and otherwise afflicted who come within the radius of your attentions. You love with your heart and also with your mind. No one will appeal to you as a mate who can not meet you on your own mental plane. You will choose wisely and your married days should be unusually happy and fruitful ones.

Successful people born on July 28:
Charles Stewart, naval officer.
William Mathews, author.
John H. Brown, inventor.
Ballington Booth, philanthropist.
Mary Anderson, actress.

Summer Wash Problem Met By Machines

Family Easily Kept Spic and Span by Use of Modern Device.

Delicate luncheon cloths, sheer summer curtains, children's frocks and suits, golf trousers and tennis clothes—all these may be a summer washing problem for any household, but they are not if modern cleansing methods have taken the drudgery out of this weekly task. In the modernly equipped home its easily manipulated washing machine provides the means by which the cleansing may be done quickly and without great effort.

The old days of rubbing articles on a washboard have been banished forever. Putting the articles into rich suds in the washer, giving them the brief washing period which is all that is needed, excepting in extreme cases, running the clothes into two or three clear rinses, all can be done in much less time than under the old processes, and thus through the use of a washer make it possible for any housewife to keep her home immaculate and her family spick and span through the hottest days.

Many colored linens and cottons are guaranteed fadeproof. Testing any fabric by squeezing a corner of it in clear, lukewarm water for a few moments will reveal whether it will stand washing. If there is any risk of the color running, the article should be washed by itself, rinsed alone and dried in the shade.

Last Look at the Fair

By Mary Brook Lucas

(All rights protected by the George Matthew Adams Service. Trade Mark Registered U. S. Patent Office.)

This week in Chicago has been much too short for the family to see everything. There are loads of things Mother feels she has missed, yet every minute has been busy. She has spent many a quiet hour in the Federal Building, enjoying Indiana's murals, Michigan's waterfall, and Florida's tropical garden.

Judy, like thousands of others, has thrilled to the Transport Building, with its many improved modes of travel. This last day at the Fair she wears a pale-blue sheer crepe dress, simply trimmed with rows of fine tucking. Her black rough straw hat harmonizes nicely with the silver fox scarf.

This sleeveless jacket suit combines black semisheer crepe with a blouse of white silk voile embroidered in red. The crepe hat is one of the latest skyscraper models. Tunics promise to play a big part in American fashions this fall. This suit of gray sheer crepe contrasts velvet bows with a linen collar.

Although fall clothes are seen now and then throughout the Fair grounds, cottons and large sun-shade hats still have the preference. Dotted swiss, that good summer standby, fashions a cool frock in red and white. The black velvet used for the bow and belt is worked into the hat trimming.

-:- The Federal Diary -:- By George D. Riley -:-

ONE recently additionally-pay-cut Commerce employe, who is supposed to be shouting for joy because he didn't lose his job July 15, has been figuring figures.

By the time he has paid the inescapable cost of payments on his house, and he is immorally reluctant to give it up, and paid a $30-a-month grocery bill that is rapidly becoming altogether too inadequate in view of the artificially inflated and previously barely deflated grocery prices, he will have left monthly $20.92 with which to pay:

Personal expenses, self and wife; run the Ford at $8 per month, or pay carfare at $9; buy clothing for the two of them, buy toilet articles, dogfood, amusements, pay doctor bills, make campaign contributions, pay $6 monthly for personal insurance and accumulate about $30 a year for fire insurance required by the holders of trusts on his house.

What is left over he can use to buy kitchen soap or something foolish, unless he expects to give somebody a Christmas present.

JOHN H. HOHN, 1400 Twenty-eighth street southeast, chief, Division of Statistics, Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, will be retired July 31 after 32 years with the Federal Government. Born and educated in Germany, Mr. Hohn was appointed to the Federal service from Dallas, Tex., in 1901.

John H. Hohn.

Originally entering the service as a clerk, Treasury Department, he was rapidly promoted through various grades until reaching the position from which he is retiring.

Mr. Hohn was transferred from Statistics, Treasury, to Commerce and Labor when that unit was organized July 1, 1903, by consolidation of certain existing Federal offices.

When Commerce and Labor was separated in 1913 to become two separate entities, he was transferred to the Department of Commerce.

Named to be chief of the compiling and revising section, Division of Statistics, F. and D. C., in February, 1914, with instructions to reorganize work of that section, the manner in which he completed this assignment won for him the recognition which resulted in his promotion in September, 1914, to be assistant chief of statistics. In June, 1919, he was promoted to be division chief.

During his service with F. and D. C. Mr. Hohn has engaged in collection and compilation of statistics pertaining to America's foreign trade.

Recognized as one of the country's first ranking statisticians, Mr. Hohn frequently has represented F. and D. C. at conferences concerned with compilation of statistics. He has served as member of several committes of the bureau concerned with personnel and other administrative problems.

Reared in the agricultural section of Germany, Mr. Hohn has told many friends he will retire to a nearby country estate.

Mr. Hohn resides at 1400 Twenty-eighth street southeast.

A Bit of Sun Rays.

Comptroller McCarl's ruling yesterday handed out on inquiry from Internal Revenue, provides that employees hired back into successor agencies of bureaus affected by the August 10 reorganization shake-up (possibly 15,000) must be taken back in same pay grades and without impairment of leave status.

"Dear Daddy——"

ON the occasion of his thirty-fourth birthday recently, David E. Lilienthal, director of the Tennessee Valley Authority, was greeted by two letters scrawled in childish hand from among the some 1,500 pieces of mail received by the T. V. A. as a fair day's average. These missives read:

"Dear Daddy: My vaccination scab came off. I have a sore finger.—David."

"Dear Daddy: I hope you come home soon. I have the chickenpox now.—Nancy."

Why should I hold a hearing on any code submitted by organized Federal workers?—Gen. Johnson.

THE code-ax committee will not hold its hearing!

1. The maximum rate of pay for employees in classified civil service shall be fixed according to the cost of living in the cheapest place in the United States, and shall be further cut while the cost of living shall be advanced as rapidly as possible.

2. Whatever the rate of pay may be it shall be slashed as often as anybody can think of it.

3. No supervising officer shall require any civil service employee to work more than 168 hours weekly. If more work is required, employees will be required to speed up to make up the difference, and a number dismissed to serve as an example.

4. Any person who took an active part in the 1932 campaign on the right side who is selected for a position not under civil service shall be paid at any agreed rate, provided it shall not be less than something more than the historical maximum paid to civil service employees for the same grade of work, and shall be at least twice that of the borrowed civil service employees who show them what to do and how to do it and finally in disgust do it themselves in order to get it done.

5. Any person who thinks or considers on any subject involving the possibility of reducing by any amount, however small, the stipend to noncivil service employes, shall be guilty of treason, criminal syndicalism, and overtime parking, and punished as such.

6. Civil service employees may be summarily dismissed for any of the following causes: Loyalty, disloyalty, longevity, fitness, merit, or attention to the job. Noncivil service employees are to be urged to avoid the latter.

7. Civil service propaganda shall be punished by pay cuts all around. For the purposes of this paragraph propaganda consists of any utterance that may be made by a person having civil service status, irrespective of tenor, unless it is flattering to "they."

8. To make sure there has been no mistake, an additional method of cutting the pay of civil service employees shall be devised monthly, and to this end a prize shall be offered to anyone who may present the most novel method of performing this operation, the decision to rest on: (a) The maximum amount that may be so taken (b) the novelty of the method, and (c) the arguments that may be announced as the reason for applying the additional cut.

9. Any protective laws, regulations or rules applying to civil service are determined to be opposed to the welfare of the walruses in the Seattle Zoo, and are therefore declared null and void.

10. The fellow who said "might makes right" was the "berries."

11. No person shall be entitled to any consideration in any connection for any purpose unless indorsed by ward heeler, county chairman, State committeemen, both senators and congressman. Nobody else is to have any rights.

12 This code has been effective for so long it's useless to set any effective date. Its termination shall be postponed as long as possible.

13. To preclude its use by employees in winter for their own aid and comfort, this code shall not be construed in any blanket sense.

14. No employee, past, present, or future, missed or dismissed, shall refer to this code as the "Raw Deal," on pain of dismissal, pay-cut, extra hours, and ineligibility for relief by any charitable organization. If any of these disabilities exists to such degree that such sentence is incapable of giving excruciating pain to the guilty employee, then "they" shall substitute therefor such other punishments, such as boiling in oil, the rack, the boot, or wooden pegs driven under the toenails, as they may see fit.

15. Civil service status of persons having qualified through competitive examinations and having worked up into blanket jobs shall be ignored except in such matters as such status makes them eligible for pay cuts, deductions and other punishments.

16. No opportunity to cause employees to forget the lack of outside jobs, and to impel them to resign and live in indigence in preference to working for the Government and living in indigence, shall be overlooked.

It is understood that the personnel of the Georgia State Road Commission, from former commissioners down to present laborers, are well represented in applications for work filed with new Government departments.

The New Deal.

UNDER the heading "The New Deal" in your issue of July 26, you mentioned the name of an official in the U. S. General Land Office, and referred to an incident that arose in connection with that official's office.

That matter was insignificant in comparison with the dismissal of John (Judge) McPhaul, who died of the shock. Judge McPhaul had always been an outstanding Democrat and was the only high salaried lawyer in the Land Office who was dismissed. He had served 30 years and more, but it is also true that there are four or five lawyers in the higher salaried lists who are Republicans and have also 30 years of service.

A. D. Hathaway, a Republican member of the "Law Board" was dismissed, but he elected to go rather than his wife, who is an employe of the same bureau. Of the thirty-one or thirty-three dismissed in the Land Office, it seems strange that they were all small salaried employes, excepting the persons above mentioned. Did the "powers that be" in that office take care of themselves as they did when the Reclassification Act of 1923 was put into effect?

Street Scene.

MOTORCYCLE policemen . . . line of long black cars . . . parked outside K street entrance at Department of Justice . . . chauffeurs standing in groups talking in low voices . . . messengers wide-eyed with wonder . . . something's in the air . . . "Did you see the one from Germany? Doesn't he look important?" . . . "I heard them talking French on the third floor!" . . . (all of this would hardly be noticed at the State Department). . . . "They'll be back down in a minute" . . . an occasional wisecrack about the august assembly having plenty of protection. . . . "Here they come . . . stand back!" Groups of serious-visaged gentlemen begin to pour out of the building . . . one or two in frock coats . . . one wears handle-bar mustaches . . . the messengers almost dance with happiness. . . . A youth from the supply division rushes out asking: "What's up? I heard Carnera had been kidnaped." Maybe . . . but that's no reason for such a great convocation of international chiefs of police. (We understand that bicycle thefts give them more worry than the kidnaping of millionaires. Guess that is because there are few millionaires left in Europe!) However, the well-protected company were carefully placed in the long, black automobiles and things got back to normal with the eyes of the messengers finally assuming their natural appearance.

Definition of "They": One of a group of fear-ridden individuals, generally a supervisor or a head of a division, who daily spends hours plotting the downfall of the more intelligent and educated of the employes who must suffer his petty, czaristic rule. The efficiency rating chart is one method. Another is plain nastiness—it will eventually break down the morale of a more sensitive, educated and cultured man—force him to speak his mind.

William F. O'Donnell, better known as Mac, the big 200-pound guard of Uncle Sam's money wagon at Bureau of Engraving and Printing, left with his wife last Sunday for the mountains of Harpers Ferry to seek relief from the heat.

The trip was both a failure and a success. Up until Sunday the intensity of the heat was almost unbearable, but at night, while resting in the Hill Top House Hotel, 400 feet above sea level, and overlooking the Potomac and Shenandoah, the cool breezes and stiff winds from the mountains produced such a chilly feeling that heavy bed covering was the only protection against a bad cold.

Commercial Attache George C. Peck, just returned from Commerce's office at Guatemala.

I AM sure all Government employes will appreciate your comments on the efficiency rating system which, together with a diagram of the system used, appeared in a recent issue of the Federal Diary.

It seems to one that "puerile" seems to be the most descriptive adjective to use in connection with that system. It is certainly very difficult to believe that any body of men supposed to be intelligent, would think of foisting such an abominable system upon Government employes. One could certainly not expect much from a person or persons responsible for it. There has been nothing but disappointment and discouragement ever since its adoption, not to speak of its misuse by those so inclined and the opportunities are many for doing that very thing.

There are doubtless some who have derived a great deal of pleasure out of the system, but their pleasure means some one else's unhappiness.

Again expressing appreciation of myself and other Government employes for your comments, I am—A GOVERNMENT EMPLOYE.

At last effect of governmental "economy" is seeping into the interior. Thought is being given to results and less attention to saving mere dollars a la balanced budget:

"Many of the departments are working with lessened effectiveness because of the recent cut in salaries and because of the threat hanging over the heads of so many employes that they will be either reduced or let out."—Ann Arbor (Mich.) Tribune.

"They—" Powers that be—

PERHAPS you would be interested in the views of a former clerk on the subject of the elusive, intangible "They." Believe that one who is out of the service can give a more dispassionate view.

"They" are, of course, the "powers that be," subjected, however, to conditions that they can not, or, do not want to control, as follows:

1. The whim and caprice of some beautiful, personable femme in their employ. (You know the fate of John the Baptist.)

2. Their own future as regards their job, a desire to do the pleasing thing, rather than the right thing.

3. Honest mistakes, due to limitation of ability.

Mrs. Antoinette Funk, newly appointed Assistant Commissioner of the General Land Office, was noticed among the employes at noontime. Hailing from the Sunshine State, New Mexico, Mrs. Funk brings to the National Capital much of the democratic spirit of the West.

From the easy and friendly manner in which she moved about, it is a confirmed prediction that she will leave office a graduate in popularity among her associates.

Racket Inquiry Launched With 24 Indictments

Chicago Probes Bombings; 'Just Small Beginning,' Says Prosecutor.

Chicago, July 27 (AP).—Reputable attorneys and industrial arbiters, labor union bosses, plain hodlums and Al Capone himself were named alike in a blanket indictment today, charging 24 men with bombing, acid throwing and restraint of legitimate trade through terrorism.

Eminent among the defendants were:

Aaron Sapiro, New York attorney, a pioneer organizer of the cooperative marketing movement in the United States, named because he was counsel for nearly a year of the Chicago Laundry Owners Association. He quit June 2. He was later arrested in New York.

Alderman Included.

Dr. Benjamin M. Squires, University of Chicago lecturer on economics, Federal labor mediator, who was appointed head of the Master Cleaners and Dyers Institute of Chicago for the announced purpose of eradicating the gangster element in that industry and end a war of price cutting, bombing and acid hurling.

Alderman Oscar Nelson, Republican leader of the city council, attorney for the Dye House Drivers Union.

"Scarface Al" Capone, who might still be the czar of Chicago's outlaw labor rackets ruling by gun had the Government not put him in prison on an income tax evasion conviction.

Capone Successor Indicted.

Murray Humphreys, heir to Capone as Public Enemy, No. 1, business boss of the syndicate, a fugitive now from Federal indictments charging that he, like Capone, dodged the Government's income tax bill.

The State struck swiftly, surprisingly. During a three-month investigation, two prosecutors had presented 500 witnesses before successive Cook County grand juries. One of the witnesses was Dr. Squires, who at Reading, Pa., today, where he is engaged in arbitration of a hosiery workers' strike, expressed astonishment that a jury could have indicted him after his own testimony without signing a waiver of immunity.

State's Attorney Thomas J. Courtney dispatched deputies to round up the defendants as soon as the indictment, which had been suppressed since Friday, was made public.

May Try Capone.

He said he would ask the Government to lend Capone, now in prison, at Atlanta, to be tried with the rest so that an Illinois prison cell could be reserved for him when his term in Federal Penitentiary was over.

Prosecutor Courtney said this was "but a small beginning." Other legitimate industries, the dairy business, the teamster traffic, linen supply trade, have been under investigation at various times and several of those indicted today have been linked with them. While the State has quietly pursued its inquiry, the Federal Government, too, has taken a hand. Senator Louis Murphy, of Iowa, discussed the situation only last week with authorities here.

A. Stein Goes to Court In Virginia Beer Case

Roanoke, Va., July 27 (AP).—Police seized 22 cases of 3.2 beer today in a raid on the Triple X Thirst Station. A. Stein was summoned to court for a hearing on August 22. He is the proprietor. Virginia has not legalized 3.2 beer.

Sister of Marrying Mdivanis Visits Capital With Husband

PRINCESS NINA, of the marrying Mdivanis, who with her American husband, is stopping in Washington en route to Hollywood, where the matrimonial affairs of her brothers, David and Serge, princes of Georgia, have reached another crisis.

Princess Nana, on Her Way to Hollywood, Says She Loves America.

When Gen. Zakhari Mdivani went to Paris 10 years ago, a refugee from the revolution that had scattered the glory of the czar and his followers in helpless groups over Europe, Asia and America, his possessions were three sons and two daughters, all very charming.

When he died last spring, two sons, Prince David, his eldest, and Prince Serge, his handsomest, left California oil—Pacific Shore Co.—and Hollywood wives—Actress Mae Murray and Opera Singer Mary McCormick—and dashed to Paris.

Another son, Prince Alexis, his richest, already was there putting final matrimonial touches to a romance—his second—divorce from Louise Astor van Alen, great-granddaughter of the late Mrs. William Astor having ended the first—with Barbara Hutton, Woolworth five-and-ten heiress.

En Route to Coast.

Another crisis in the affairs of the marrying progeny of Gen. Mdivani is near; and his younger daughter, Princess Nina, en route to Hollywood from The Hague, stopped off at Washington's fashionable May-Adams House yesterday with a husband, one C. H. Huberich, international lawyer and a native of San Antonio.

For while Brother David and Brother Serge were sojourning in Paris after their father's funeral, Mae Murray and Mary McCormick were busying themselves.

Each sued for divorce and separate maintenance, Mae alleging to have discovered Brother David on Pacific Shore's pay roll as director at $500 a month, while Mary is said to have found Brother Serge holding down a similar job at $1,000.

Mae and Mary became allies, and when David and Serge returned to the movie capital they found themselves out of Pacific Shore and off the pay roll, though it was they who had struck the oil back of Mae's bathhouse in Venice.

Said black-haired, brown-eyed, lovely Princess Nina in French accents yesterday:

"We will go to Hollywood. My husband is gran' lawyer. He is the firs' internationcal lawyer. I think he will help."

Will Visit Relatives.

But first Princess Nina and her husband will visit relatives of Mr. Huberich in San Antonio, drift northward possibly for the World's Fair, or linger longer in Washington in the company of friends, which include A. P. Homer, engineer, with whom they lunched yesterday.

Princess Nina loves America, which she has visited but once before, not long after she and Huberich were married eight years ago.

"I love America," she said. "It is so young, so growing. It is not yet bored."

2 Dead Bonus Veterans To Be Honored Today

A sunset memorial service, honoring William J. Huska and Eric Carlson, former service men who died of injuries received during the eviction of the Bonus Army from Washington a year ago today, will be held this evening in Arlington Cemetery.

Four organizations of local veterans and two drum corps will participate. Those attending will be: Military Order of 76, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled American Veterans, the Victory Post Drum Corps, and the Police and Fire Post Drum Corps of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The Rev. Stanley A. Czyz will deliver the memorial address.

Vatican Denies Offer Of Jap Seat in League

Vatican City, July 27 (AP).—Vatican sources today denied reports published abroad that the Holy See would be offered the permanent seat in the League of Nations council vacated by Japan.

The seat would not be accepted even if it were offered, it was said, because Vatican City is an independent state different from other states with secular problems, and it has no wish to intervene between nations unless invited to act as arbitrator.

Code May Halt Oil Retailing Lease System

Compromise Is Likely in Rival Plans of Independents and Majors.

(Associated Press.)

Termination of the violently opposed lease and agency system by which oil distributors bind retailers to handle their products exclusively was understood yesterday to be assured by the trade practice plan for the petroleum industry.

No word came officially about either the results of the marketing code committee's work or what course was being followed by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, industrial administrator, in preparing provisions for regulating production and refining.

The marketing committee, composed of representatives of major companies, independents, retailers and distributors, was pledged to secrecy by governmental agents sitting with them. It was said "progress is being made."

Discussions Restricted.

It was understood that discussion by the marketing committee of the lease and agency system had been restricted in view of a belief that the practice would be prohibited in the petroleum industry code, various sections of which are due to be ready for consideration by Monday night.

The production and refining program, which Gen. Johnson announced Wednesday would be prepared and presented by the industrial administration, was expected to include some provision for price and pipe-line regulation.

It was considered likely that a compromise on production would be offered by the administration between the rival views of one group that formulated a code at Chicago under the auspices of the American Petroleum Institute and a group of independents led by Jack Blalock, of Texas.

Scope of Two Plans.

Mr. Blalock's group urged allocation of production to meet demands on the basis of the number of oil wells and ability to produce. The other plan proposed "equitable" allocation without going into detail as to factors determining what would be "equitable."

There were reports that the Johnson proposal would not ask that drillers get permits in Washington, as suggested in the institute's plan, and that production-distribution bases would be worked out between State and Federal governments according to market-demand estimates by a Federal bureau.

The stripper wells were expected to be adequately protected.

Plane Joins Balbo; Poised for Flight

Awaiting Good Weather to Resume Journey Over Atlantic.

Charenville, Shoal Harbor, Newfoundland, July 27 (U.P.).—The seaplane I-Rovi, last of the 24 craft in Gen. Italo Balbo's air fleet, arrived today from Prince Edward Island, where it was forced down yesterday, and the entire fleet speeded preparations to depart later this week on the transatlantic flight back to Rome.

The I-Rovi, having completed repairs on a broken water pump, alighted here at 10:40 a. m. (Eastern daylight time). Gen. Balbo hopes to leave here Friday or Saturday, probably flying direct to Ireland.

A United States mail plane, the NC-1337, which was bringing letters here to the Italian fliers, landed at Lester Field, St. Johns, late this morning after having been lost for an hour over Newfoundland. The pilot was unable to find the landing field at Harbor Grace.

Mayor, Jailed, Cries "Plot" in Bribe Charge

Racine, Wis., Head Says He Repaid "Loan" When Asked "Favors."

Racine, Wis., July 27 (AP).—Back at his office today under $1,000 bond after spending several hours in a jail cell, Mayor William Swoboda of Racine charged he was the victim of a "frame-up" and threatened to "expose the whole gang of my accusers."

The mayor was arrested on a warrant charging bribery at about 1 a. m. and spent the remainder of the night in jail. Arraigned before Court Commissioner Eugene L. Haley, he pleaded not guilty and was permitted to sign his own bond. A hearing date was not set.

"Certain individuals and interests have been attempting to run the city over the heads of duly constituted city officials and are out to get met," the mayor said.

"I believe I know the persons and interests who are parties to this conspiracy and I intend to expose the whole gang."

Four warrants were issued as the result of a John Doe investigation into charges of corruption in city government, but only one was served on the mayor. It charged him with accepting a bribe of $3,000 in January, 1932.

A second warrant charged James Bettinis, Cicero, Ill., with offering the bribe. A third named Oliver Vardy, former secretary to the mayor, as go-between, and the fourth charged the mayor with attempting to bribe Chief of Police Grover C. Lutter.

Bettinis was arrested in Chicago at the request of District Attorney John Brown, of Racine County, but was released on bond. His preliminary hearing was set for August 4. Extradition papers asking his removal to Wisconsin have been sent to Gov. Schmedeman. Vardy has been under arest in Milwaukee on a hold-up charge.

Barrow Gangster Believed Captured

Seminole, Okla., July 27 (AP).—Herbert Blythe, about 22, believed by county authorities to be a member of the notorious Barrow Brothers gang of outlaws, was arrested at Smomac, Seminole County, today and jailed at Seminole.

The suspect's name was mentioned during the hunt for members of the Barrow gang this week, following a gun fight at Dexter, Iowa, in which Marvin (Buck) Barrow was critically wounded.

Essolene
REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.
Guarantees SMOOTHER PERFORMANCE
A MOTOR FUEL SO GOOD
IT IS PROTECTED
BY U. S. PATENT PENDING

The composition of Essolene is unique . . . it is a distinct advance over regular-priced gasoline.

Essolene contains a special solvent oil which cleans, keeps clean and in proper working condition valve stems, piston rings, piston ring grooves. It contains no ordinary lubricating oil.

Its anti-knock value is unsurpassed by any regular-priced gasoline, and it is non-gas-locking. These are the facts about Essolene. The guaranteed facts.

When you buy Essolene you buy a product backed by the name and responsibility of the world's greatest oil organization. This name will never be put behind any product that does not live up to everything said about it.

Just try Essolene in a tank cleared of other fuels. Then write your own advertisement. . . . Essolene is colored orange to prevent substitution.

Write or call at Esso Touring Service, 26 Broadway, New York City, before starting any extended motor trip, for shortest, smoothest, most scenic route and any other information you want. Individual attention, by return mail, free of cost.

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl.

UNCLE SAM usually doesn't go in for the spectacular, but a week from tonight the Coast Guard cutter Tampa steaming up Long Island Sound will transmit a program in commemoration of the formation of the Coast Guard. A concert by the Coast Guard Band aboard the ship will be transmitted by short-wave to New York, whence it will be broadcast to the entire country.

There will be a switchover to Washington for a brief address by the Coast Guard's only admiral, its commandant, Harry G. Hamlet.

George Burns and Gracie Allen, the "nitwits of the networks," will headline the stage bill at Loew's Fox Theater starting today.

These two stars of the radio program presented on Wednesday evenings will make their regular broadcast from the studios of WJSV in Washington this week.

Evidently one of the announcers at the Washington police radio station, WPDW, has been told not to slur his "r's" because in broadcasting a happening on South Carolina avenue, he pronounced it "South Carolin-er."

A REQUEST that he play the Haitian "meringue," a typical dance, "Gelico," was received by Capt. Taylor Branson, leader of the Marine Band. It came from a former Marine, a shut-in. This Marine once served in Haiti and longed to hear the tune he once knew so well. It isn't easy to get Haitian music, but Capt. Branson thought of another Marine, Capt. John H. Craige, who was an officer of the Haitian constabulary for three years and has written a book, "Black Bagdad," telling of his experiences there.

Capt. Craige dug up "Gelico" and half a dozen other "meringues." Luiz A. Guzman, one of the talented musicians of the Marine Band, has arranged four of them in a suite, which will be played by the Marine Band during the "Shut-In" Hour over WMAL at 10 o'clock this morning. Craige will speak during the broadcast, giving more details about the "meringues."

When I was in Haiti a number of years ago, as a newspaper correspondent traveling with the late Philander C. Knox, then Secretary of State, the playing of the "meringues" was forbidden because their "tom-tom" motifs inspired the natives to dance, and when they danced there was frequently trouble.

However, the band at the president's palace at Port-au-Prince played a "meringue" just so Secretary Knox could hear what it was like. The memory of the performance stands out because, while the band was playing the forbidden music, there was a demonstration outside by the revolutionists.

A huge quantity of ammunition had been stored in the palace in anticipitation of the attack. Nothing happened while we were there, but the night following our departure a revolutionist slipped in and touched off the ammunition, blowing up the palace, the president and everyone in the place. At least, so we were told afterward.

Another in the series of programs planned for short wave broadcast to South America will be heard at 7 o'clock this evening over WJSV. Simultaneously with its reception in the United States it will be heard by listeners in Brazil. The Columbians will provide the entertainment.

A BANQUET in honor of Secretary of War Dern and members of the governors' conference now meeting in Los Angeles will be heard over WRC tonight at 11:15 o'clock. Will Rogers will be master of ceremonies.

Grace Moore will offer a Puccini aria, rarely heard on the air, when she sings the "Addio," Mimi's farewell song to her lover in "La Boheme," over WJSV, at 9 o'clock tonight.

The Norweigian stamp showing a picture of St. Olaf dressed as a knight supplies the story dramatized in this evening's episode of Stamp Adventurers Club, over WJSV, at 6 o'clock.

EDGAR ALLAN POE'S story, "The Gold Bug," will be presented in an adaptation tonight in Tales of the Titans over WMAL. "The Gold Bug" will be broadcast at 7 o'clock. When he wrote this story, Poe indulged in one of his favorite diversions, cryptography. To mention the treasure cipher was not enough for ardent Poe. He was at some pains to devise a genuine code, write out the message, and take the reader through all the processes of solving the secret parchment.

Throughout his life, Poe had a flair for deduction which astounded all who met him. When Dickens published the first serial installment of one of his lengthy novels, Poe deduced with the greatest accuracy the entire plot, wrote it to Dickens, who replied, "You must be the devil."

A discussion of the "Successful Search for the Holy Grail" will be heard over WMAL this afternoon at 2:15 o'clock. On the program will be F. T. Glasscock, of Tingtagel, Wales, founder and head of the Round Table, which has as its meeting place Tintagel Castle, which historians agree was the home of King Arthur.

However, Castle Tintagel is noted for other legends. Tradition tells us that the castle was the original home of Sir Huon, knightly King of the Fairies, and his beauteous lady. At the head of his evanescent legions, Huon would sally forth from Tintagel in the teeth of a raging gale to do battle with unseen foes.

The opening session of the meeting of the national committee of Young Democrats of America will be broadcast at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon over the network of the National Broadcasting Co. Postmaster General James A. Farley, Col. Louis McHenry Howe, secretary to President Roosevelt, and Ambrose O'Connell, special Assistant to the Postmaster General, will speak.

New Yorker Day by Day

By Mark Barron.

New York—Personal notes off a New Yorker's cuff:

That summer social colony at Watch Hill, Rhode Island, turns out each morning to watch Libby Holman and Clifton Webb riding bicycles.

Miriam Hopkins writes that she is coming back to Broadway in the fall.

Mrs. Don Marquis is managing a summer stock troupe on Long Island.

Vincent Sheean, novelist and war correspondent, has turned actor. But just for one drama, in which he plays the role of a newspaperman. That's what you call type casting.

It was the tough luck of a blues singer, just before she was let out of that new revue, to be rehearsing a number called "You Can't Get Rid of Me."

City Within City.

New York's DeWitt Clinton High School is claimed to be the largest in the world. With an enrollment of more than 10,000, it is equipped with swimming pool, rifle range, bank, laundry, radio studio, little theater, music hall and general store.

Gene Fowler, who has "covered" dozens of executions for newspapers, says he will never attend another. At the last one he attended, the Ruth Snyder electrocution, he broke down and wept.

Central Park is cluttered with almost as many debutantes riding bicycles as those roller skating.

The craze for penthouses has reached Eighth avenue. There is one atop a two-story building there. And on the roof of the diminutive penthouse is a pigeon roost.

Ethel Barrymore at last has been lured into appearing in a movie house presentation act. Her youngest son, John Drew Colt, is overwhelmed with offers from producers since his striking performance in "Little Ol' Boy."

Maurice Fatio, architect, prefers Wisconsin because, despite the fact that there are no mountains, it reminds him so much of his native Switzerland.

William DuBois is Lenore Ulric's favorite playwright. He is regularly employed as librarian on one of New York's most dignified newspapers, but his dramas all concern wild and wicked women.

William Robinson says most South Sea Islanders think all Americans live on grapefruit, nuts and chewing gum.

A Widow's Return?

There is a movement on to bring the revival of "The Merry Widow" to Broadway after it has played its engagement at Central City, Col.

In little more than a year Vilma and Buddy Ebsen, youthful brother and sister from Florida, have become one of the rialto's most sensational dance teams. Both were recently married: Vilma to Bobbie Dolan, a pianist, and Buddy to Ruth Cambridge, a newspaperwoman.

Flight Into Stratosphere Awaits Better Weather

Chicago, July 27 (AP).—Lieut. Comdr. T. G. W. Settle visited the shrine of the weather man tonight and said several days might elapse before he would attempt his balloon ascension into the stratosphere.

All the man-made details for the flight have been completed. The ground crew is in readiness to start the commander into the skies at a few moments' notice, but Commander Settle said he must await more favorable weather conditions.

Walt Mason, Himself

The World's Most Famous Rhymester

The Comforter.

GIVE me a book that's good to read, and straightway I forget the things that made my bosom bleed, the worry and the fret. I walk with Thoreau by the ponds where he was wont to dwell, and I forget defaulted bonds and stocks that will not sell. I roam with Dickens' London streets, where sad, strange creatures mix, and I forget the low-life beats who sold me gilded bricks. With Scott I swing a battle-ax, or give some knight a poke, and I forget the income tax that lately left me broke. With Dumas and his musketeers I seek adventures droll, and I forget the barren years which have destroyed my roll. With Omar in his desert tent I study quatrains true, and I forget about the rent that's long been overdue. There's much to make a mortal sick, the skies seem bleak and gray; but one who early learned the trick can read his cares away. It is a kindly anodyne, the book with covers pink, which shoos away that grief of mine, o'er which I'd brood and think. The woes of a fictitious gent make me forget my own, and so I shed my discontent, and cease to sigh and moan. Give me a book in place of pills or analgesic salve; it's better for all mortal ills, for all the griefs we have.

Reserve Banks Daily Credit Is Up $4,000,000

Average Advances During Week Is Placed at $2,200,000,000.

(Associated Press.)

The daily average volume of Federal Reserve credit outstanding during the week ended July 26, as reported yesterday by the Federal Reserve Banks, was $2,200,000,000, an increase of $4,000,000, compared with the preceding week and a decrease of $234,000,000, compared with the corresponding week in 1932.

On July 26 total reserve bank credit amounted to $2,201,000,000, an increase of $4,000,000 for the week. This corresponds with an increase of $16,000,000 in member bank reserve balances and a decrease of $31,000,000 in Treasury currency adjusted, offset in part by decreases of $34,000,000 in money in circulation and $9,000,000 in unexpended capital funds, nonmember deposits, &c.

Bills discounted increased $4,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco and decreased $3,000,000 at Kansas City and $2,000,000 at all Federal Reserve Banks.

The system's holdings of bills bought in open market showed no change for the week, while holdings of Treasury notes increased $12,000,000 and Treasury certificates and bills declined $2,000,000.

Steel Prices Unchanged.

New York, July 27 (A.P.).—Steel unchanged.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Wool goods—Trade circles say that new business on worsted yarns is small, but that shipments on running contracts continue at peak rates.

Casein—Activity in this product is a feature for the market for paint materials. The price trend has been upward for some time because of small supplies. Current quotations are said to be only slightly under the 1929 levels.

Zinc—Despite a slow demand the price of prime Western slab zinc is being firmly held at 5 cents a pound. Producers are said to have substantial advance orders on their books.

Alcohol—Antifreeze interests have been buying on a substantial scale to cover requirements before the establishment of higher prices for formula 5.

Silk—Some expansion in sales of greige goods is expected with the completion of differentials under the industrial recovery act. The increase in prices is said to average 6 cents a yard.

Chemicals—Trade in fertilizer materials has been on a declining scale for the past few weeks, but despite the reduced buying movement prices remain firm as a result of the small quantities offered in the open market.

Market Groups To Get Federal Cooperation

Raleigh, N. C., July 27 (AP).—Assurance that farmers' cooperative marketing associations will be recognized by the agricultural adjustment administration in the formulation of its marketing agreements covering the handling of various agricultural commodities was given today by Gen. William I. Westervelt, director of the processing and marketing division of the adjustment administration.

Gen. Westervelt spoke at the American Institute of Cooperation, held at North Carolina State College here.

"It is up to the cooperatives to make themselves prominent as the authorized representatievs of the farmers in a multitude of things which the agricultural act contemplates having done," he said.

The speaker said administrators of the adjustment act have conferred with scores of agricultural and industrial groups regarding possible trade agreements. Plans are under consideration, he said, for a Nation-wide marketing agreement covering eggs and poultry, and for agreements affecting citrus fruits, paper shell pecans, canned peaches, walnuts, pretzels, macaroni, the Northwest fruit industries and peanuts.

Rail Salary Fight Progress Is Made

New York, July 27 (AP).—Progress has been made by the coordinating committee for the Eastern railroads in its study of methods to effect a reduction in executive costs, it was learned today.

Joseph B. Eastman, Federal coordinator, recently suggested that that railway management give serious consideration to the advisability of reducing salaries in the higher brackets. Any formula which is arrived at must receive his approval before it is put into effect.

The committee has also been studying plans by which different phases of coordinating work can be assigned to appropriate standing organizations for more rapid action.

Bonds Remain Unchanged in Mixed Trading

Strength of Rails Provides Market Feature; Sales, $11,522,000.

New York, July 27 (AP).—Strength of secondary railway issues, based on the highly optimistic earnings reports of leading carriers, was the feature today of an otherwise rather irregular bond market.

Sales for the abbreviated session totaled $11,522,000, par value, against $8,959,000 yesterday, and the average for 60 domestic corporate loans closed unchanged at 81.6.

Transportation maturities, up 1 to 2 or more points, included some of Allegheny Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Central of Georgia, Chesapeake Corporation, Chicago Great Western, St. Paul, Chicago & North Western, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Frisco, Southern and Wabash.

The utilities and industrials failed to show much enthusiasm for the advance, although a number of specialties improved in response to better business prospects. Among gainers of a point or more in these divisions were loans of Goodrich, International Paper, Postal Telegraph, Paramount Publix, Shell Pipe Line and St. Joseph Lead.

United States Government listed securities turned somewhat heavy owing, apparently, to uncertainties surrounding the Treasury's August financing. Both Liberty and Treasury issues were off one thirty-second to seven thirty-seconds of a point.

Foreign obligations were mixed British 5½s, which recently soared on announcement of the conversion plan, were heavily sold for a loss of 2½ points. French and German issues were down a point or more. A few of the Argentines rallied around a point, but this list continued to exhibit a heavy tone. Italian and Japanese loans were easier.

Stocks Capture Gains On Steel and Rail Lead

Average Advances of Seven-tenths Result From Spotty Trading; Sales Increase to 2,489,170 Shares.

New York, July 27 (AP).—Broad advances in grain prices overshadowed the efforts of stocks today, although shares managed to splurge in certain sections, notably the steel and rail groups.

Equities underwent a mild flurry of selling early in the last hour when gold mining issues reacted, but the list came back at the close as industrials again stiffened. Utilities traded quietly and wet stocks subsided after a forenoon rise. Sales for the three hours from 11 a. m. to 2 p. m. totaled 2,489,170 shares, around half a million more than yesterday.

Rail stocks at one time got up 1 to 3 points or so, but finished mostly under their highs. The strikingly favorable June earnings plus assurance that last week's loadings had maintained the large percentage gains over a year ago shown in recent weeks, even though the total would probably be under the immediate preceding period, gave strength to the carriers. Steels came forward at the finish in anticipation of an improved earnings statement by Bethlehem as well as the prospect of new business from the Government's naval construction.

United States Steel rose 2¼ net and Bethlehem 5½; for Youngstown, Republic and National the gain was 1½ to 2½. General Motors encountered good support and rallied 1. Westinghouse, American Telephone, Chrysler, Sears-Roebuck, International Harvester, United States Rubber, Western Union, Consolidated Gas and a good representation of rails were up fractions to more than a point. New York Shipbuilding jumped 2. Case reflected the boom in grains with a rise of 3½. United States Smelting slumped more than 7. The net gain in the averages was fractional.

The strong rally in dollar exchange attracted considerable attention, especially because dealers thought speculative short covering had exerted little influence on the movement, the inference being that transactions for legitimate business purposes had been partly responsible. It was also reported that London was a buyer of dollars as part of the plan for converting the British dollar bonds.

Gold mining issues had their reaction when it was learned that this Government has ruled against exportation of any gold ore which has been through a smelting process, provided it was to be shipped only for its metallic content. The London market value of gold is currently about $10 an ounce above the fixed price here. Alaska Juneau, Dome and McIntyre Porcupine slumped around 1 to 4, but reduced these losses. Homestake broke 36, closing 22 lower.

Wool Market.

Boston, July 27 (AP).—(U. S. Dept. Agric.).—A rather small business is being transacted in wool. In fleeces, sales have been closed on strictly combing 48s, 50⅛s blood at 35 and 35½ cents in the grease, and on strictly combing 64s and finer Ohio fleeces, or fine Ohio delaine, at 30-32 cents in the grease. Most of the trade in Western-grown lines is on average to short French combing 64s and finer territory wools at 73-75 cents scoured basis, on strictly combing 56s, at 70-72 cents, and on 48s, 50s at 64-66 cents.

Stocks.

Spotty trading and splurges in groups enabled stocks to capture an average gain of seven-tenths of a point. Steel and rails led in strength. Sales volume increased to 2,489,170 shares.

Bonds.

Irregular trading failed to cut prices and the market closed unchanged at Wednesday's levels. Strength of secondary rails was the session's feature. Sales totaled $11,522,000.

Curb.

Prices closed generally higher after an early reaction. Distillery issues narrowed still further. Mining shares continued heavy. Sales increased to 431,000 shares.

Wheat.

Wild skyrocketing again whirled wheat prices to higher ground. A maximum gain of 8 cents was made. Public buying and speculation stirred the market. All grains advanced. July wheat sold at 1.04; May, at 1.14⅞.

Cotton.

An advance of $1.50 per bale was attributed to commission house and trade demands. The general market was up 26 to 30 points. December sold at 11.25; October at 11.02. Liverpool reported prices 12 points higher.

Rubber.

Crude futures closed steady. July sold at 8.20; September, 8.40.

Sugar.

Raw sugar was quiet. It sold at 3.50. Refined sold at 4.70.

Coffee.

Spot coffee was quiet. Rio No. 7 sold at 7¾; Santos No. 4, at 9.

Silver.

Bar silver was steady, ⅜ higher at 37⅛ cents per ounce.

Gold.

Bar gold sold in the United States at $20.67 cents per ounce; in London at 124 shillings and 6 pence.

Dollar.

The United States dollar rallied sharply on foreign exchanges. It stood in New York, with reference to other currencies, $4.51 to the English pound; 5.31 cents to the French franc, and 32.30 cents to the German mark.

U. S. Treasury Receipts.

(Associated Press.)

Treasury receipts for July 25 were $3,676,974.46; expenditures, $4,738,001.76—which were more than wiped out by repayment of $19,469,824.46 of emergency expenditure previously made and now returned to the Treasury by the Farm Credit Administration; balance, $845,157,356.64.

Customs duties for July 25 were $18,918.-3.10.18.

Under the new plan of bookkeeping announced by the Treasury at the start of the fiscal year July 1, general expenditures, emergency expenditures, trust fund and public debt expenditures are all listed separately.

When one of the emergency organizations of the Government returns money that has been advanced from the return is shown under the emergency expenditure item but marked as a credit against the expenditures.

In the case today all of the expenditures of the Government for July 25 amounted to 14,738,001.76, while there was a credit of $19,469,824.46 under emergency expenditures due to the Farm Credit Adjustment Administration returning that much money which it previously had used.

Goods Markets.

New York, July 27 (A.P.).—Cotton goods sales continued light today as buyers were not ready to pay advanced prices and many mills had not finally decided on prices for later deliveries. Wool goods were very quiet. Silk goods continued quiet with prices softer following some decline in raw silk. Rayon viscose prices are now on a basis of 65 cents for 150 denier, and new and higher prices will be established after the code of the NRA is accepted at Washington. Burlaps were quiet.

Bank of France.

Paris, July 27 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of France shows the following changes in francs: Gold increased 180,000,000; sight balances abroad decreased 2,000,000; bills discounted at home decreased 98,000,000; bills bought abroad unchanged; advances decreased 6,000,000; circulation decreased 963,000,000; current accounts increased 1,153,000,000.

Rate of discount, 2½ per cent.

Flour Markets.

New York, July 27 (A.P.).—Flour firm; spring patents, 7.30@7.40; soft winter straights, 6.55@6.80; hard winter straights, 6.60@7.05.

Rye flour firm; fancy patents, 5.35@5.60.

Minneapolis, July 27 (A.P.).—Flour 25 cents higher. Carload lots family patents, 7.60@7.70 a barrel in 98-pound cotton sacks. Shipments, 17,594.

Rome, July 27 (AP).—The king announced his approval today of Count Louis de Chambrun as French ambassador at Rome, succeeding Henry de Jouvenel.

Gas Revenues Decline Below Period of 1932

Capital and Georgetown Companies Lose on June Incomes.

By Thomas M. Cahill.

June statements of operations were filed yesterday with the Public Utilities Commission by Washington and Georgetown Gas Light companies. Operating revenues of Washington Gas Light Co. in that month amounted to $415,607 against $446,587 in June, 1932(or a decrease of $30,980.

Operating expenses, including taxes and uncollectible bills, totaled $299,906 in comparison with $315,-441 in June, 1932, leaving net operating revenues of $115,701, against $131,146 last year.

Nonoperating Income.

Nonoperating income increased from $5,107 to $10,298 this year, producing a gross corporate income in June of $126,000, compared with $136,254 in the same month last year. After interest deductions, the company reported total net income for the month, before dividends, of $56,705, compared with $67,526 in June, 1932, a decline of $10,821.

The company also reported earnings for the first six months of the present year showing operating revenues of $3,142,111 against $3,-270,057 a year ago. Operating expenses, taxes and uncollectible bills amounted to $2,045,670, compared with $2,091,000 last year, leaving net operating revenues of $1,096,441, against $1,179,057 in 1932.

Nonoperating income declined $22,305, resulting in a gross corporate income of $1,107,567, compared with $1,212,488 for last year. After interest deductions, net income totaled $818,473 against $794,493 for the same period last year, or a drop of $176,020.

Georgetown Net Down.

Operating revenues of Georgetown Gas Light Co. last month were $81,232, against $87,381 in June last year, or a decrease of $6,149. Operating expenses, including taxes and uncollectible bills, were $79,570, in comparison with $75,021 in June, 1932, leaving net operating revenues of $1,662, against $12,360 for the previous year.

Nonoperating income increased from $1,440 to $1,630 this year, producing a gross corporate income in June, 1933, of $3,292, compared with $13,800 in the same month last year. After interest deductions, the company announced a net loss for the month of $1,735, against a net income of $9,284 in June, 1932, a loss of $11,019.

Earnings for 6 Months.

The company reported its earnings for the first six months of the present year showing operating revenues of $680,948, against $686,-723 a year ago. Operating expenses, taxes and uncollectible bills amounted to $646,939, against $577,-955 last year, leaving net operating revenues of $34,009, compared with $108,768 in 1932.

Nonoperating income amounted to $10,158, an increase of $956 resulting in a gross corporate income of $44,167 in comparison with $117,-970 for last year. After deducting interest charges, the net income totaled $16,592, against $90,780 for the same period last year, or a recession of $74,188.

District of Columbia life insurance policyholders and beneficiaries were paid $24,000,000 in 1932, according to the special "Life Payment Localized" number issued by the National Underwriter, weekly insurance newspaper. This was an increase of $6,300,000, or 35 per cent more than the 1931 total of $17,700,000. District of Columbia ranked thirty-fourth in payments among the States, while it is forty-first in population, the per capita being $49.40, the second largest, New York State being first.

Largest Death Payment.

The largest individual life insurance death payment in the District of Columbia in 1932 was $54,500 on the life of Anton T. Auth, of Washington. Other large payments were Herbert A. Pointer, Washington, $50,579, and Walter W. Warwick, Washington, $43,000.

F. V. McNair, of the American Security Building, local representative of the Lincoln National Life Insurance Co., has just been notified that he placed fourth among all the representatives of his company in total paid business during the first six months of 1932.

Arthur F. Hall, president of the company, only recently announced that his firm's new annuity premiums for the first six months of 1933 were 40 per cent higher than for the corresponding period of 1932.

B. & O. Official Hits Proposed Merger

Baltimore, July 27 (AP).—George M. Shriver, senior vice president of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, indicated today that the reported merger negotiations of the Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania railroads would not find favor with the former carrier.

"Under present circumstances and under existing laws," he said, "the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad believes that the four-system plan for the Eastern district, as recommended by the executives of the four principal systems and as approved by the Interstate Commerce Commission, offers the best solution of the railroad transportation problem in this territory."

Policy Holders Get 4 Billions Of Insurance

Companies in 1932 Write 5 Checks of Million Dollars Each.

Chicago, July 27 (AP).—More than $4,000,000,000 in insurance money was paid to American policy holders and beneficiaries in 1932. The insurance companies wrote five checks for more than $1,000,000 each.

Figures compiled by the National Underwriters, insurance organ, today showed the year's biggest payments were on policies held by Frederick S. Ruth, of New York; Arthur Beir, of New York, and William Wrigley, jr., of Chicago. Ruth's policy paid $2,425,000; Bier's, $2,125,000; and Wrigley's, $1,327,000.

Two other $1,000,000 payments were on a policy held by Caleb T. Cromwell, of Los Angeles, for $1,-306,415, and on one held by Peter A. Waller, of Kewanee, Ill., for $1,088,-500.

Largest Claim Paid.

Largest claim paid on the life of a woman was $116,400, the total of insurance held by Mrs. Lucille Kroger Berne, of Cincinnati. Other large payments reported by the survey include $31,000 each on policies held by Mrs. Ida K. Schmidt, of Hannibal, Mo., and by Mrs. Anna M. Arnes, of Indianapolis. The companies paid $30,000 on policies held by Mrs. Floyd A. Van Wagoner, of Pontiac, Mich.

The flow of insurance millions was swelled by nine payments of from a half to one million dollars. The report showed 491 payments of $30,000 or more, and 110 ranging from one to five hundred thousand dollars.

In all, the year's insurance payments totaled $4,010,817,751, up 12.7 per cent over 1931.

Other Millions in Loans.

Other millions went out in the form of loans against insurance. Policy holders borrowed $453,069,-870 more in 1932 than they did the year before, and the companies had loans totaling $4,026,197,361.

Figures likewise almost astronomical gave the size of the country's life insurance companies. Assets—which had gained two million over 1929, but were 700 million less than in 1931—were given as $20,969,-152,010.

The companies, 295 legal reserve concerns, had in force $108,290,757,-814 in insurance. For it, policy holders paid $3,604,772,158, but this was an even three hundred million under the 1931 collections.

The national total of premiums was not computed. Per capita, however, New Yorkers paid $49.80, policy holders of the District of Columbia, $49.40; those in Oregon, $49; for Delaware the figure was $42.80; for Rhode Island, $37.50; for Connecticut, $37.20; Massachusetts, $37.10.

Of the four billion paid out, death claims, matured endowments, annuities and additional accidental death benefits amounted to $1,469,-421,038.

Foreign Markets.

(Associated Press.)

London—Trading on the stock exchange was quiet today with the chief interest centered around kaffirs and home rails, which improved. Transatlantic issues were dull. Argentine rails and bonds continued weak. Speculative stocks also drooped and the market closed irregular.

Paris—Business on the bourse was dull today and prices moved indecisively as traders readjusted their positions preliminary to month-end liquidation. The closing was steady.

Berlin—Prices on the boerse held steady today.

Dried Fruits Steady.

New York, July 27 (A.P.).—Dried fruits steady, unchanged.

Curb Market Closes Higher After Losses

Distillery Issues Narrow; Sales Volume Rises to 431,000 Shares.

New York, July 27 (AP).—The curb market closed generally higher today after turning up smartly in the final minutes of dealings, to erase most of a reaction that set in shortly after the turn of the last hour. Trading in the initial dealings was quiet, with the tendency toward higher pices.

Distillery issues narrowed still further from their recent wide gyrations. Early advances of around a point or so in Canadian Industrial Alcohol A, Distillers Corporation-Seagrams and Hiram Walker were turned into equivalent losses in the late reaction, but most of the group turned up with the general list at the finish, and final quotations were steady to slightly improved.

Mining shares continued a trifle heavy to the last, Newmont and Lake Shore closing major fractions lower. Utilities and oils were narrow over most of the route and finished at slight variations from previous closings.

Elsewhere in the list Aluminum Co. of America, Axton Fisher, Parker Rust Proof, Sherwin Williams and Swift & Co. ended the day 1 to 2 points higher, while Pittsburgh Plate Glass and New York Shipbuilding gained 3 or more. Pittsburgh & Lake Erie rose 4⅛ on a small turnover.

Sales approximated 431,000 shares, compared with 380,000 Wednesday.

Kansas City Curbs Wheat Fluctuations

Kansas City, July 27 (AP).—The Kansas City Board of Trade took the lead among the Nation's grain exchanges in ruling late today that price fluctuations in wheat futures dealings hereafter shall be limited to 5 cents a bushel up and down from the previous day's close. The limit on corn will be 4 cents.

Action by the directors of the Board of Trade was taken after a trading session which saw wheat prices spurt up the full 8 cents permitted in a single day since the reopening of the exchanges following last week's price crash.

The new limitations are in line with recommendations made at a conference in Washington early this week between leaders of the grain trade and Federal farm administrators.

Baton Rouge Bank Frees $3,466,167

Baton Rouge, La., July 27 (AP).—The City National Bank, a new financial institution for the State capital, opened today, releasing $3,-466,167.23 for deposits which had been "frozen" for five months in the Union Bank & Trust Co. and the Bank of Baton Rouge.

The City National Bank supplants the Union Bank and the Bank of Baton Rouge, which restricted operations following the banking holiday last March and subsequently were placed in liquidation.

Baton Rouge has had only one bank, the Louisiana National, operating on a normal basis since the March banking holiday.

Bank of England.

London, July 27 (A.P.).—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes in pounds: Total reserve increased 554,000; circulation decreased 154,000; bullion increased 399,000; other securities decreased 1,646,000; public deposits decreased 4,915,000; other deposits increased 4,806,000; notes reserve increased 512,000; government securities increased 1,065,000.

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 43.54 per cent, compared with 43.19 last week. Rate of discount, 2 per cent.

Wheat Soars Eight Cents on Public Buying

Market Is Stirred Again by Speculation; Other Grains Advance.

Chicago, July 27 (AP).—Wild skyrocketing of prices whirled the wheat market up 8 cents a bushel toward the zenith today, the extreme rise that emergency rules would allow.

Renewed big speculative buying on the part of the general public took place and despite immense profit-taking left the market at the end of the day tugging excitedly around the topmost peak attained.

Increasingly sensational bad crop reports from Canada and the American Northwest aroused buyers to a fever point, with late weakness of the New York stock market powerless to turn grain values back except for a brief transient interval.

Wheat Closes Flurried.

Wheat closed flurried, 7⅞ to 8 cents above yesterday's finish, corn, 3¼ to 4⅛ up; oats, 3½ to 4 cents advanced, and provisions varying from 40 cents decline to a rise of 10 cents.

From the outset, the purchasing movement in wheat was impetuous to an uncommon degree. Authoritative reports were current that there seemed no possibility of escaping further big deterioration of the Canadian wheat crop both in quantity and quality.

The immediate result was a soaring of wheat prices to 6⅝ cents above yesterday's close, with all future deliveries far above $1 a bushel and May as high as $1.14, later $1.15, up 17¾ cents from last week's low point.

Fluctuations Are Wide.

Tumultuous fluctuations ensued, covering a range of nearly 5 cents, the result mainly of strenuous profit-taking on advances and of incessant influx of new speculative buying on a big scale. The strongest tide of purchasing came in the last half hour of trading, and after the stock market weakness had been shown ineffectual as a curb on grain values. Reports of acute drought and scorching temperatures Northwest, especially in Canada, put all other market factors into virtual complete eclipse.

Corn, oats and other grains were affected by the action of wheat and by apparent likelihood that the heat wave Northwest would overspread the corn belt. The corn crop in particular is at a critical stage owing to prolonged dearth of moisture.

Provisions advanced with grains, but later were more influenced by reactions in hog values and in cotton.

St. P. & K. C. Bonds Deposit Is Sought

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, July 27.—The protective committee for St. Paul and Kansas City Short Line Railroad Co. first mortgage bonds, due 1941, and Rock Island, Arkansas & Louisiana Railroad Co. first mortgage 4½ per cent bonds, due 1934, which are guaranteed by the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Co., has issued a call for the immediate deposit of the bonds. Depositaries are the Bankers Trust Co., New York, and the First National Bank of Chicago.

The committee has notified bondholders that the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Co. failed to pay the interest due July 1 on its general mortgage 4 per cent bonds and that it is advised that payment of interest on the bonds of the St. Paul & Kansas City Short Line Railroad, due on August 1, will be deferred.

Members of the committee are James G. Blaine (chairman), president, Marine Midland Trust Co., New York; Frank M. Gordon, vice president, the First National Bank of Chicago; William V. Griffin, president, Brady Security and Realty Corporation, New York; R. G. Page, vice president, Bankers Trust Co., New York, and James R. Trowbridge, president, the Franklin Savings Bank, in the City of New York: Archer W. Bachman is secretary of the committee and White & Case are counsel.

Standard Oil Announces Cut in Price of Gasoline

Cleveland, July 27 (AP).—The Standard Oil Co. of Ohio today announced that, effective tomorrow, the price differential between its first grade of gasoline and its regular grade would be reduced from 2½ cents to 2 cents a gallon.

No changes are to be made in the prices of the company's other grades of gasoline.

453,541 Cars Held On Roads' Idle List

Class I railroads on June 30 had 453,541 surplus freight cars in good repair and immediately available for service, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced yesterday. This was a decrease of 69,244 cars, compared with June 14, at which time there were 522,785 surplus freight cars.

Surplus coal cars on June 30 totaled 147,652, a decrease of 41,254 cars below the previous period, while surplus box cars totaled 242,326, a decrease of 26,322 cars, compared with June 14.

Reports also showed 29,425 surplus stock cars, a decrease of 1,092, compared with June 14, while surplus refrigerator cars totaled 11,727, an increase of 736 for the same period.

Chain Stores Increase Cigarette Prices 1 Cent

New York, July 27 (AP).—Some of the leading chain store companies in New York today announced an increase of 1 cent a package on leading brands of cigarette prices, effective next Monday in the city. The new price will be 12 cents, or two packages for 23 cents.

New York, July 27 (A.P.).—The New York Federal Reserve Bank today announced no change in its 2½ per cent rediscount rate.

North German Lloyd President Quits Post

Bremen, Germany, July 27 (AP).—Philip Heineken resigned today as president of the North German Lloyd Steamship Line.

A stockholders meeting of the line elected a board of directors identical in personnel with the new board of the Hamburg American Line. Stockholders of the latter line yesterday eliminated all Jews from the directorate because of an understanding that the government is determined on a policy of anti-Semitism.

Buick Motor Company Employes Get Wage Lift

Detroit, July 27 (AP).—The Buick Motor Co. has announced a straight 15 per cent increase in wages to hourly rate employes, effective August 1. The increase follows one of 5 per cent announced last May. I. J. Reuter, general manager of the Buick Co., said the increase will add approximately $1,000,000 to the annual payroll.

Mr. Reuter said the company will also increase the income of salaried employes in the lower brackets.

Gold Export Ban Is Eased; Hoarders to Be Prosecuted

(Associated Press.)

Relaxing slightly the stringent regulations against exporting gold from the United States, the Treasury decided yesterday that gold ore and gold concentrates could be sent abroad.

Earlier, Attorney General Cummings told newspapermen that gold hoarders who refused to return their metal to the Government in response to a Presidential order would be prosecuted within three weeks.

In answering questions from gold producers, the Treasury agreed to the relaxation, but held that smelted and imperfectly refined gold could not be shipped abroad without violating the President's embargo order.

In an opinion submitted to the Treasury, Attorney General Cummings defined as gold the metal which has been smelted or imperfectly refined. Gold concentrates are the result of crushing and washing gold ore.

Agents Check Holders.

Cummings said publication of the names of those who refused to comply with the President's order to turn their gold over to Federal Reserve Banks would be started as soon as his agents finish checking a list of those who withdrew gold during the banking emergency.

After the publication, he added, he plans to start prosecution of those who still defied the Government.

The ruling was given the Treasury at the request of the President after that department had been deluged with requests that export of American mined gold be permitted so the producers could take advantage of the higher prices abroad.

The President's executive order prohibited the exportation of gold coin, gold certificates and gold bullion except that earmarked in this country for a foreign nation or a foreign central bank to fulfill contracts entered into before the order was issued, and for commercial purposes which the President believed would benefit this country.

$1,231,086 Still Out.

Cummings said 207 persons have persisted in their refusal to comply with the President's order to return their gold. These hold $1,231,086 of the metal.

Since the President issued his order, $862,000,000 has been returned.

1,000 Workers Made Idle as Weavers Quit

Greenville, S. C., July 27 (AP).—Weavers at the F. W. Poe Manufacturing Co. here struck today in protest over wages specified under the new code and the mill was closed, making approximately 1,000 workers idle.

The dissenting faction was composed of skilled labor, spokesmen of which contended the new wage scale provided no better rates for skilled than unskilled labor and, in some instances, the strikers claimed, wages had been reduced.

There was no disorder as the operatives walked from their posts and returned to their homes.

Bache & Co. to Accept Accounts in Midwest

New York, July 27 (AP).—The New York Stock Exchange firm of J. S. Bache & Co. today announced that it has arranged with Ettinger & Brand to accept accounts of the latter's customers.

"Ettinger & Brand," the statement added, "will maintain their offices in Akron, Ohio; Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Detroit, Milwaukee and Racine, Wis., and will receive and transmit orders from customers whose accounts have been accepted by J. S. Bache & Co."

White Motor Company Orders Wage Increase

Cleveland, July 27 (AP).—The White Motor Co. will increase wages for 2,500 employes by 10 per cent, both for piece and hourly work next Tuesday, it was announced today by A. G. Bean, president. The increase will be a restoration of a previous cut.

Cotton Climbs $1.50 Per Bale On Trade Calls

December Sells at 11.25 as General Market Rises 26 to 30 Points.

New York, July 27 (AP).—An advance of approximately $1.50 per bale in cotton today was attributed chiefly to an increased commission house and trade demand, promoted by strength in the wheat and stock market and an unfavorable view of weather conditions in the South.

December, after selling up to 11.20 in the morning, eased off to 10.97 under realizing, but in the late trading sold at 11.25, or 30 points net higher. It finished at 11.24 and the general market closed firm at net advances of 26 to 30 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 5 to 9 points in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables. After some little irregularity, active months rose 20 to 25 points. Profit taking caused sharp reactions, but the market firmed up again later.

Over night reports from Washington that the agricultural adjustment administration was buying futures as cotton held against crop production loan was released for sale by its original holders may have been a contributing factor in the advance.

Exports today 24,730, making 8,476,431 so far this season. Port receipts, 11,673. U. S. port stocks, 3,120,472.

Farmers Paid $388,000,000 On June Sales

Receipts for Produce Gain 37 Per Cent Over Period in 1932.

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, July 27.—The farm population of the country, largely dependent on prices that can not be foreseen at the time of planting, received about $388,000,000 in cash for farm products during June, a 37 per cent improvement over June of last year, according to current estimates.

The Government, concerned with crop years and annual estimates, issues no monthly data on the farmer's cash income, but current studies made by the State Street Research and Management Corporation in conjunction with the Corn Industries Research Foundation, indicate that this June, after adjustments are made for the varying importance of different months, is well above the highest point reached in the whole of 1932.

"Estimates based on movement to market of the major cash crops and livestock," say these research organizations, "point to a June cash income that is the highest in 8 months."

Incomes Above 1932.

November, December, January and May normally should be better months than June, but, while the June figures are subject to revision and may show some slight change next month, there appears to be no doubt that the upward trend since last March has brought the farmer's cash income to levels well above those of last year.

The present strength, if sustained for the remainder of the year, should result in an encouraging improvement in the economic condition of the farmer.

"Incomes from hogs, cattle and calves, corn, wheat, cotton and eggs for the second consecutive month have shown improvement over the corresponding month of last year. Dairy products, the most important of the items the farmer depends upon for cash, showed a slight improvement in June over June of last year, the first gain over the corresponding month of a previous year in this item since 1929.

Corn Leads List.

"In the accumulated totals for the first half year, several items show betterment over the first half of 1932, corn leading the list with a gain of 103 per cent.

"Sales of wheat since the first of the year have brought the farmer $63,000,000 as compared with $51,000,000 in the same period last year and hogs and eggs have also produced more cash than in 1932.

"While the present levels of farm cash income indicate that conditions are definitely improving, the spring and summer months of the year are always less important than later months when the heavy marketing of fall crops takes place, and the welfare of the farm population of 32,000,000 people at the end of the year will depend largely on price trends during the remaining months as well as the size of the crops."

Postal Telegraph Gives Workers Pay Increase

New York, July 27 (AP).—A wage and salary increase of 6 per cent has been granted to 11,000 employes of the Postal Telegraph & Cable Corporation, it was announced today. The advance which became effective as of July 1, does not apply to executives.

Beginning in August, 1930, the company reduced wages 20 to 30 per cent, depending upon location. The company is maintaining a five-day week in its small offices throughout the country but a longer week is in effect in the large centers and offices.

White eggs unchanged; browns, Western standards, 17¼@19; other browns unchanged.

DRESSED POULTRY—Weak, unchanged.

LIVE POULTRY—Weak; broilers, express, 10@20; fowls, freight, 9@14; ducks, express, 15; other freight and express unchanged.

BUTTER—Receipts, 15,260; weak; creamery, higher than extra, 23¼@24; extra (92 score), 23; first (87-91 scores), 22@22¾; centralized (90 score), 22¾.

CHEESE—Receipts, 210,528; firm, unchanged.

SUGAR—Raw was quiet early today and as no sales were reported prices were unchanged at 3.50 for spots.

Futures market was quiet. Midday prices ruled unchanged. Uncertainty over the outcome of the allotment plan seemed to restrict offerings, as did also the steadiness of the spot market, while the only demand in evidence was covering or a little buying through trade interests against recent sales in the spot market.

Refined was also unchanged at 4.70.

COFFEE—Spot, quiet: Rio No. 7, 7@7¾; Santos No. 4, 9; Rio futures closed barely steady; sales, 6,000 bags. September, *5.96; December, 6.18; March, 6.31; May, 6.33@6.35; July, *6.37; Santos futures barely steady; sales, 18,000 bags: September, *8.11; December, 8.32; March, *8.40; May, 8.45; July, *8.47.

*Nominal.

Guam Visitor Has Seen Only Roosevelts in White House

Senor Perez Has Served as Secretary to All Governors.

By John J. Daly.

"Si, si, senor!"

Two Marine officers were "seeing" a guest from Guam, down in the Navy Building.

Senor Atanasio T. Perez, private secretary to every Governor General of Guam, is making his first visit to America since the reign of Theodore Roosevelt.

Flanked by Marine officers who were yessing him, the visitor recounted the glories of Guam; but he and his fellow natives have one grievance. In Guam the natives are not citizens of the United States though they live under the American flag.

No Citizenship.

When Commander E. D. Taussig got off a gunboat, back in '98, accepting Guam from the Spanish government, Uncle Sam forgot to confer citizenship on the inhabitants.

Consequently, when Senor Atanasio Perez comes visiting the homeland, though he considers himself a good American, he has no more official status than a Zealander. He must bow to American law, but he can not vote. He has no vote, nor can he enjoy the rights of a Government employee, though he is a Government employee and has been since back in '98.

Ah, '98! What a year! What a war!

When the first governor general was appointed, Senor Perez, then an ambitious lad, applied for the job of private secretary to the late Commander Richard P. Leary, the first governor.

Recalls All Governors.

A boy no longer, the senor recalls the string of 18 governors—all Navy men—who held that post; men like Admiral Seaton Schroeder, naval gun expert, and Admiral R. E. Coontz, Chief of Naval Operations.

As the senor exploited the United States Navy the Marine officers sat tight. Cruelly, a reporter said:

"It's true, then, that a Marine could never be Governor of Guam?"

The sally drew fire from the Fighting Marines. The major himself answered:

"I'd rather be a Marine sergeant at Quantico!"

The senor arose. "You can't mean that?" he said.

"You know me, senor," the major said, extending his hand. There was nothing personal in the remark. "I'm a Marine, and I've also been in Guam."

"I understand!" the senor smiled.

Whistling Prohibited.

Some one recalled the Governor of Guam, W. W. Gillmer, who issued an order against whistling on the island, a strip of land 225 miles square—30 miles long and 8 miles wide. The penalty was a year in the hoosegow—for whistling.

"That reminds me," said Capt. Jack Craige, "and this probably explains why Gov. Gillmer forbade whistling in Guam. I am stationed at Haiti. Broadway song writers, popularizing some of their tunes, sent down sheet music. Our band was glad to get this, free, and play the music for the natives—all black—including the president.

"The President of Haiti was going away on an official visit. The Marines serenaded him. Just as he stepped aboard the lugger the band struck up a song hit from Broadway, 'Bye, Bye, Black Bird!'"

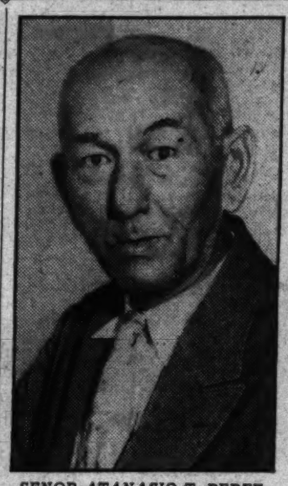
"Yes," said the major, Joseph C. Fagan, clipping the end of a cigar with his bolo knife, "that is probably why Gov. Gillmer put up the 'No Whistling' signs in Guam."

When Senor Perez shakes the hand of President Roosevelt, the senor wants to tell the President how the new deal is getting along in Guam.

For some time the copra business has been on the rocks—in Guam. No market for copra, the chief export of Guam, business is flat on its back.

Capra is dried-out juice of the cocoanut. It finds its way eventually into perfumes, soaps and shampoos.

Soon as he sees President Roosevelt, to tell him all this, Senor Atanasio Perez is going back over that long stretch of land and water—to Guam—and he will not return until another Roosevelt occupies the White House, an old Spanish custom.



SENOR ATANASIO T. PEREZ, who has been secretary to every Governor General of Gaum since American occupation of the island in '98, is visting Washington for the first time since Teddy Roosevelt was in the White House.

15,000 See Bolton's Pinch Single in 10th Defeat Yankees, 3 to 2

Combatants and Noncombatants at Griffith Stadium as the Nats Tripped the Yankees in Crucial Series

Louis Johrden, Post Staff Photographer.

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

THE shifting tides of big-league baseball have borne Joe Judge to Boston, his port of entry into the majors 19 years ago.

One never did associate Joe Judge with a Red Sox uniform. His 18 years' service with the Nats made Judge synonymous only with Washington. But it was Boston that brought the peer of all first basemen up to the big league originally—one day in May, 1914.

The Red Sox plucked Judge off the sandlots on the New York river front and farmed him to Lewiston, of the New England League, for seasoning. The following year he was back with the Red Sox, but they failed to see the promise of greatness in the young player. He was too small, among other things. You had to be tall and rangy to be a first baseman those days.

Judge was allowed to drift to Washington. Manager Clark Griffith let him out to Buffalo in 1915 and it was there that he displayed the slugging and grace that landed him back at first base in Griffith Stadium, where he held forth for 18 seasons that he made rich with feats of his prowess.

Was No Surprise Here.

Yesterday Boston fans were greeted with the announcement that the Red Sox had signed Judge to plug the gap at first base. But here in Washington it was no surprise. The Post exclusively announced the fact yesterday that Judge had entrained to join up with an American League club. Boston was believed to be his destination.

A message from The Post to a Boston newspaper Wednesday night asked the latter to check on The Post's report that Judge would sign with the Red Sox. The reply was immediate, negative and curt: "Manager McManus knows nothing of the signing of Judge." That was that, apparently.

Early yesterday afternon the same Boston newspaper telegraphed The Post: "Judge signed by Red Sox." The story could be had at a price. The Post, however, submits no bill for services rendered. And, incidentally, McManus must have found out something.

Runs, Hits and Errors.

The Yanks need good pitching . . . with a guy like Ruth in right field . . . but remarks like that are dangerous . . . every time a fellow tries to give the Babe a decent interment he ups and makes you look silly . . but he bounced off the fence yesterday with all the grace of an overweight hippo . . . Buddy Myer tried to bunt in the first inning yesterday but failed . . . he tripled instead . . . and now has ten triples to tie Heinie Manush, Pete Fox, of the Tigers, and Earl Combs, of the Yanks, for the lead in three-baggers . . . The Babe doesn't command the same profound respect he used to . . . Catcher Bill Dickey gave him a very dirty look indeed when Ruth's throw to the plate to catch Schulte was 15 feet wide and not very fast . . . what is this thing called brotherly love? . . . Joe Sewell robbed Brother Luke of an extra base hit with his catch of Luke's line drive in the sixth . . . and Walter Stewart crossed Sewell up in the eighth . . . Sewell stepped wide of the plate for the fourth ball that Cronin had ordered for Ruth but Stewart apparently muffed the sign . . . his pitch inside the pan almost got away from the catcher . . . with the winning runs likely to score.

Unplayed Mashie Shot Nets Robber Suspect

Los Angeles, July 27 (AP).—"Fore!" yelled Ralph Bramble, mashie in hand, at a burglar suspect he found on his roof early today.

"Don't shoot," cried the suspect, a golf enthusiast himself, "I'm in the rough."

"Come down or I'll tee you off," shouted Bramble.

Down came D. L. Skinner. Police placed him in jail for suspicion of burglary after Bramble tied his hands with a handkerchief while Mrs. Bramble guarded him with the golf club.

Britain, France Open Cup Net Play Today

Merlin to Meet Austin and Cochet to Face Perry in Singles Matches.

PARIS, July 27 (A.P.).—The British Davis Cup Team, surprise victor over the United States in the interzone final, tonight was primed to break the six-year reign of France over international tennis in the challenge round opening tomorrow on the red court of Roland Garros Stadium.

Profiting by the example of the United States players, who came up to the interzone final apparently worn out by their arduous proctice sessions, the British players took a complete vacation from tennis during the week and spent the time playing golf, sightseeing and wandering about Paris.

Feel Confident.

The British, finalists against the French two years ago, believe they have the ability this time to break through the thin French line which has held against the world since 1927.

They have an experienced team in Fred Perry, H. W. (Bunny) Austin, George Patrick Hughes and H. G. N. Lee, reserve players. They doubt that Henri Cochet, main reliance of the French, can defeat both Perry and Austin, even conceding that France will win the doubles.

The French youngster, Andre Merlin, named to the team for the first time, will open the defense tomorrow against Austin, with Cochet and Perry following them on the courts.

The doubles will follow on Saturday, with Jean Borotra and Jacques Brugnon playing for France, probably against Perry and Hughes, although the English doubles pair has not been definitely selected. The competition closes Sunday with the final two singles matches.

Looking to Future.

In naming Merlin to the team, Capt. Rene Lacoste admittedly was looking to the fufure, feeling confident that Cochet would rise to his old heights and that the veteran Brugnon-Borotra combination would be too strong for any doubles pair the British could muster. Both teams expressed confidence in the result, but French experts were prone to qualify their predictions with the phrase "If Cochet is right."

Like the Britons, Cochet and his mates also loafed through the week, establishing headquarters at Versailles, where their most arduous exercise consisted of reading books in the shade of the Louis XIV Marble Palace.

Here is France's challenge round record:

1925—United States, 5; France, 0.
1926—United States, 4; France, 1.
1927—France, 3; United States, 2.
1928—France, 4; United States, 1.
1929—France, 3; United States, 2.
1930—France, 4; United States, 1.
1931—France, 3; England, 2.
1932—France, 3; United States, 2.

1,500 Watch Von Reedon Win Bout

Outroughs Dougan and Gains Decision in Feature of Laurel Show.

By Lewis F. Atchison.

THE flying fists of Charley von Reedon silenced Leroy Dougan's claims of superiority last night at Twin City Arena, where the Jacksonville, Fla., lad punched the wee Scotchman groggy in a 10-round bout. It was a rough-and-tumble affair, more suited for the mirrored backdrops and sawdust floor of a saloon, or a street corner, rather than the ring.

Interesting as the feature was, Roy Manley and Ray Bowen stole the spotlight in an 8-round semi-final that saw first one and then the other on the verge of a knock-out. Bowen won the decision by a comfortable margin. Fifteen hundred fans saw the bouts.

Von Reedon met Dougan at his own game, roughing, and outroughed him. Once he nearly threw the little fellow through the ropes when Dougan heeled and butted in a clinch. They mauled and wrestled their way through each round, and were so absorbed in the business at hand that they failed to hear the clang of the last bell, but stood toe to toe along the ropes flailing away with both fists.

Dougan Down Twice.

Dougan slipped continually and was knocked down twice for no count. He came up fighting each time. Von Reedon stood off and pounded both hands to the body and head so frequently that it seemed Dougan would surely fall under the punishment. The flat-nosed Scotchman staggered, but always rushed back into the fracas.

Dougan's best round was the eighth when he swarmed all over his rival and connected with punishing blows to the face and kidneys, but his rally subsided in the ninth and tenth rounds when he tired perceptibly.

Manley Knocked Down.

Ray Bowen withstood Roy Manley's withering fire in the fifth round of their bout to win a unanimous decision. The Mohawk Club battler more than avenged the one-round knockout Manley scored over him at Portner's Arena, jabbing and punching his way to a well-earned victory. He opened up a cut over Manley's right eye in the fourth round, and knocked him down for a count of nine in the fourth.

Despite a cut under his eye that gushed like an oil well, Bob Lowery rallied to win the nod over Mike Sipio, of Baltimore. Lowery was groggy in the fourth round, but came out for the fifth with renewed courage and stamina to attract the judge's attention.

Johnny Larkin southpawed his way to victory over Young Wise, of Baltimore, in the four-round opening preliminary.

Mrs. Moody Leads Wightman Cuppers

New York, July 27 (AP).—For the second time in her glamorous international tennis career Helen Wills Moody today was selected to lead the Team against Great Britain at United States Wightman Cup Forest Hills August 4-5.

She led the successful American invasion of England last year and has played in all except one of the ten contests between the two countries since 1923, being kept out of the 1926 matches in England by an appendicitis operation.

Judge Is Signed to Play for Red Sox

BOSTON, July 27 (U.P.).—The Boston Red Sox, looking for some temporary defensive ability to add to their recently acquired offensive punch, today signed Joe Judge, veteran first baseman, who began his impressive big league career with the Sox in 1914.

The injured Dale Alexander is not so noted for his deft play around the first sack as for his thumping propensities, but in any event the left side of the Boston line, with Johnny Hodapp at second and Bob Seeds filling in at first, has been a defensive oasis ever since Dale hurt his leg in a slide at Shibe Park more than a month ago.

Judge Packs Punch.

With Judge, no light sticker himself, at first, Manager Marty McManus hopes to offset the loss of Alexander's batting punch with improved fielding for the time being. Alex, who led the American League stickers last year, went in as a pinch hitter in yesterday's double-header with the Yankees, but is in no shape to resume his regular station.

Alexander's trouble is a leg bruise which has failed to heal.

Al Crowder and Allen Oppose

6,500 Ladies' Day Tax Tickets All Sold for Game Today.

By Frank H. Young.

ANOTHER red-hot battle is promised at Griffith Stadium this afternoon, when the Nats and Yankees again clash. Rivalry between the two teams is at fever heat, almost as much because of rows, which have occurred during the past two seasons, as due to the fact that the two are racing neck and neck in the pennant chase. Possibly because President Will Harridge, league head, was present, and also due to the fact that the two were so busy trying to win the game, there were no personal flare-ups of any kind yesterday, but they may be looked for most any time.

In the hope that his Nats can increase their lead to three games, Manager Joe Cronin plans to start General Al Crowder, his ace, on the hill against the Yankees this afternoon, while MacCarthy is expected to use Johnny Allen.

It is ladies' day, but this time the Washington club knows how many of the fair ones will show up, for a limit of 6,500 was set last Saturday and all of these tickets were taken up by Tuesday noon. The ladies will be admitted only at the upper Georgia avenue gate and will be seated from the fifth row back in the upper stands.

Russell Van Atta, Yankee southpaw pitcher, who has been rank poison to the Nats this season, likely will face them here tomorrow. He was hit on his salary wing by a line drive off "Bad News" Hale's bat more than a week ago, and has not pitched since. His start tomorrow will be more or less of an experiment.

Babe Ruth gave the early comers a treat when he clouted one all the way over the houses behind the right-field wall in stick practice.

Earl Combs, who for weeks had given way to Dixie Walker in center for the Yanks, is doing business at the old stand again. He won back his job in the second game of the double-header with the Red Sox Wednesday. Manager McCarthy has intimated that the veteran will finish out the season as the regular in the middle garden.

Ruth surely was no bargain for the Yankees in the first. With the count three and two and Combs winging for second, he struck out and a double-play resulted. Then his clumsy fielding efforts let Myer's drive head high to the right-field wall go as a triple opening the home half.

Scores Kuhel With Bases Loaded

Nats Lead by 2 Games; New York Ties Score With Rally in 9th.

By Shirley L. Povich
(Sports Editor of The Post).

BENCH-HARDENED Cliff Bolton dragged his .167 batting average to the plate in the tenth inning yesterday and, just as suddenly and effectively as if his pinch hit had ben a bolt from the blue, he broke up a beautiful ball game, whose beauty had not been ascertained to the satisfaction of 15,000 Washingtonians until that point in the proceedings.

Limp and loggy, and leery of the dynamite in the Yankee's batting order, the 15,000 customers saw the Yanks rise in their might to carry the battle into extra innings, threaten to win it in the tenth, and then go down to a 3-to-2 defeat behind three bases on balls and Bolton's blow. It was that kind of a ball game.

Lead Now by Two Games.

The Nats, meeting their first test in the critical series with the Yanks, drew first blood and inflated their league lead to two games.

Bolton was the man to get in his licks at the kill, but it was two other gentlemen who preserved the Yankees for the finishing blow. First in point of honor was Lefty Walter Stewart, who silenced the Yanks with one hit for six innings and turned the ball game over to Jack Russell in the ninth with a 2-to-1 lead.

For seven innings Stewart had been hacking away at that Yankee boast of having suffered no shut-outs since August, 1931, when Wilcey Moore engineered the feat, but the Yanks broke through in the eighth and preserved their record of scoring in 304 games.

Stewart had outpitched Red Ruffing over the eight-inning distance, after which the Yankee right-

Advising Anna, at Odds-On, Stages Spectacular Finish to Score at Arlington

Miss Bunting Nipped at Finish

Jockey Sullivan, D. C. Boy, Wins on Scout Chief at 30 to 1.

ARLINGTON PARK, Ill., July 27 (AP).—Advising Anna, racing in colors of Mrs. Jack Howard, of Louisville, Ky., triumphed in the top race at Arlington Park today, in a spectacular stretch finish with John Marsh's Miss Bunting.

Miss Bunting, in with the light weight of 97 pounds and ridden by Jockey S. Coucci, shot to the front and it appeared as though Advising Anna, odds-on, might be defeated. Jockey C. Corbett, however, booted and whipped his mount and caught up with the leader and beat her rival in the final jumps by three quarters of a length. Teralice finished third.

Jockey Willie Fronk, who rode Col. E. R. Bradley's Boilermaker, which finished last, hung on the mane of the horse, because his left stirrup broke and the saddle slipped to one side.

Advising Anna ran the six furlongs in 1:11 2-5 and paid $2.68 to win in the $2 straight mutuels.

Malimou Empire Winner.

Empire City Race Track, New York, July 27 (AP).—Mrs. Marshall Field's honest plater, Malimou, a son of Stimulus, gathered in his second straight purse at the current meeting when he captured first money in the Scarborough Purse, most interesting event of a featureless card here this afternoon.

Apprentice J. Sullivan, Washington, D. C., boy, and the hitherto unpromising 2-year-old Scout Chief provided a big upset in the opening event. This combination, quoted at 30 to 1, came from last place in the field of 12 to win by a neck in a whirlwind finish.

ANNE, Duchess of Brittany, born in 1477, succeeded her father as Duchess of Brittany when she was 12 years old. A year later she was married by proxy to Maximilian of Austria. This marriage was annulled by the terms of peace between Maximilian and Charles VIII of France, whose wife Anne became queen by the terms of the same treaty.

Upon the death of Charles in 1498, Anne became the wife of his successor, Louis XII, becoming for the second time the queen of France.

Although the plumb line is assumed to form a perfectly straight line to the center of the earth, a free falling ball does not trace such a line. If a ball were dropped 500 feet down a mine shaft it would land about an inch east of the starting point. Reason: rotation of the earth.

with Bill Bennings.

DEAR AL: ARLINGTON PARK, JULY 27.

That was a tough break today. I mean Peedeeque, our best bet. Probably the best-meant horse on the track today. Started slow as usual and Schutte rode him around the outside fence. When the end came, Peedeeque was a thundering second, beaten a length and a half for all the dough. And we were going to cash at better than 11 to 1. However, the day wasn't a total loss. Advising Anna and Tarnish stepped down for Mrs. Benning's lovely boy. Well, friend, there's always tomorrow in this racing game. BILL.

First race—I'm having as much trouble with this Ytfin as I have had with that Even Play. Both have been knocking around enough to do something productive, but neither has yet made the grade However, Ytfin goes again for the Bennings onions. No likee, no playee. Barkentine and Long Bit for the rest.

Second race—Kummel gets another chance here. Didn't do much in the way of running the other day. I'm depending on the handlers to bear down this time. Timorous ran well for me here. Le-Bruyere for the show end.

Third race—Brown Wisdom goes back to sprinting in this race and with only a steadying impost. Led a good field for part of a distance race the other day. Voltamaid for the place. Gunfire for the rest.

Fourth race — Three closely matched horses should fill out the money picture in this sprint. Don Manuel, Cloud D'Or and Our Sailor is the order in which they are down in the Bennings book.

Fifth race—Louie Dear is a plenty sharp horse at present and figures to make it two straight in this test. If there is a major upset, I look for Good and Hot to run the trick. Scratched today with this race in mind. All Hail for third money.

Sixth race—Count Rae seems well suited by conditions here and is the logical juvenile to play. Spy Hill and Risky Miss to complete the cash circle.

Seventh race—Actuarius was out there winging in front of a fair field early this week, but failed to make the grade. That may have been the tonic needed for a maiden race of this kind. Surety was hardly allowed to run the other day. Dark Law appears best of the others.

Eighth race—Northgalis has been prepared for an opening of this caliber. Don't be surprised if he steps home at fancy figures. Below Cost looks like the one to beat. All Rowes to show.

White Sox Lose 8th in Row as Tribe Wins

Pearson, Rookie Hurler, Allows But 5 Hits in 9-1 Triumph.

CHICAGO, July 27 (AP).—With Monte Pearson, young right-hander, allowing only five hits, Cleveland trounced Chicago, 9 to 1, today, sweeping the 3-game series, and extending the crumbling White Sox's losing streak to eight.

Pearson gave up a run in the first inning on a walk, an infield out and a single by Al Simmons, but from there on he didn't permit a White Sox runner to pass second base.

Meanwhile, Cleveland, led by Earl Averill and Bill Knickerbocker, worked up a 14-hit attack at the expense of Milt Gaston, Hal Haid, who made his first appearance since coming back from the Pacific Coast League, and Chad Kimsey.

Mrs. Haynes Wins Upset in Asheville

Asheville, N. C., July 27 (AP).—A trio of upsets, in which the defending champion and comedalist met unexpected defeat, marked the quarter-final round of the Biltmore Forest Invitation Tournament for women today.

In one of the upsets Dean Van Landingham, the defending title holder from Charlotte, fell before the more accurate stroking of Jane Cathran, star Greenville (S. C.) player, 2 up, and Mary Rogers, of Jacksonville, Fla., comedalist with Katheryn Hemphill, was eliminated by Mrs. Marvin J. Haynes, stellar Washington (D. C.) performer, 4 and 3.

Mrs. Haynes provided some of the best golf of the day in eliminating the Jacksonville girl, who was a finalist in the tourney last year. The District of Columbian was 2 up at the turn and gradually increased her lead on the second nine.

Phillies Quit Cellar; Win Pair From Braves

Philadelphia, July 27 (A.P.).—The Phillies batted their way out of the National League cellar today by virtue of a pair of triumphs over the Boston Braves in a double-header contest, winning the first game by a 4-to-3 count and taking the nightcap, 2 to 1,

Each contest was won by home runs at crucial moments. In the first contest, Pinchhitter Harry McCurdy blasted a four-bagger in the seventh with one on to bring in the runs that sent the Phils out in front.

In the nightcap, Ben Cantwell pitched hitless ball for six innings, but in the seventh, Wes. Schulmerich, recently received from the Braves, connected for a round-trip blow with Don Hurst on base.

Welsh Surprises by Easily Beating Hunt in Public Parks Net Play

Seeded Aces Advance to Semifinals

Shore, Latona, Herman Others Remaining in Title Race.

GILBERT HUNT yesterday became the first of the five outstanding contenders to bow out of the Public Parks Tennis championship tournament by dropping a straight set match, played on a semidry clay court, to Barney Welsh. The match was not as interesting as expected, because of Hunt's very lackadaisical playing.

Frank Shore took his deceptive chop-stroke to a cement court and was almost nosed out of a place in the semifinals by the unseeded Charles ("June") Blanchard.

Yesterday's results bring the first four seeded players, Latona, Shore, Welsh and Hermann, into the semifinals, which will be played Saturday.

The doubles team of Frances Stone and Frances Walker advanced to the finals by a straight set win over the Dorette Miller-Kay Johnson duo.

Army Officers Play.

A five-inning speed ball game between a team composed of field and staff officers, with Col. Markey as playing manager, and a team composed of line captains, with Capt. Brooks as playing manager, will be played this afternoon at 4 o'clock, on the athletic field.

Lieut. Col. Woodcock will be umpire in chief.

Nat-Yankee Rivalry Engulfs Scribes in Crucial Golf Series

RESIDENTS of Anacostia are reported stuffing up cracks in their windows and making other preparations for a severe sandstorm expected tomorrow morning when a group of New York sports writers meet a contingent of local scribes in a match at the Anacostia Golf Course. The Anacostians, who live serene existences until such major catastrophes as newspaper golf matches are foisted upon them, know from experience that such contests are usually waged in sandtraps, with dire results to property, crops and peace of mind.

The N'Yawk sand blasters will be headed by Daniel M. Daniel, who will be supported, no matter how feebly, by Bill Slocum, Richards Vidmer, Buck O'Neill, Marshall Hunt, Frank Graham, John Drebinger, Gerald Sylvester and Charley Seger.

The local course remodelers will pin their hopes on Walter MacCallum, Shirley Povich, Maury Fitzgerald and Kirk Miller, who will be further handicaped by the knowledge that such drawbacks as Walter Haight, George Clark, Dick Hollander, Bob Considine, George Simpson and Jack Keller are lurking in the background ready to carry on for dear old Siwash if the proceedings threaten at any time to ascend from the ridiculous to the sublime.

Winfree Johnson, of the Welfare and Recreation Association of Public Buildings and Grounds, is declared to have perpetrated the whole affair.

3 District Pros Are Late Golf Entrants

Shorey, Thorn, Speneer to Seek Mid-Atlantic P.G.A. Tourney Berths Today.

PIKESVILLE, Md., July 27.—Big guns from the Middle Atlantic section mobilized here today in preparation for the 36-hole P. G. A. sectional qualifying test scheduled tomorrow over the Suburban Country Club course.

Four additional entries were received by Ralph Beach, host pro, boosting the field to approximately 22. Three District golfers were among the late entries. They were Mel Shorey, of East Potomac; A. B. Thorn, former Woodmont pro, and Cliff Spencer, of Beaver Dam.

The fourth was Bobby Cruickshank, the wee Scot from the Country Club of Virginia, Richmond, who breezed in early this morning and indulged in an eighteen-hole practice round, hitting several balls oh each hole.

With only four places open, the battle promises to be warmly contested. The qualifiers will vie at Milwaukee for the P. G. A. title beginning August 8.

Boxers Each Win Two Bouts at Alexandria

Somewhat of a novelty was introduced to spectators at the intercity amateur boxing matches held in Baggett's Field, Alexandria, last night, when three different boxers met and defeated two opponents each. Tommy Miles, Philadelphia high school boy, decisioned Young Kid Norfolk and Baby Joe Walcott in the 135-pound class.

In the 147-pound class, Charley Wills won his start against Charley Anderson by the knockout route in the second round. Wills also decisioned Kid Carter. Sammy Williams, also fighting in the 147-pound class, duplicated Wills' feat, stopping Clem Ross and decisioning Jackie Lewis. In other bouts, Johnny Miller, a 135-pounder, won from Jerry Reed, and Jimmy Ray beat Flashy Lucas in the 115-pound class.

Bout Delayed by Rain.

Pittsburgh, July 27 (AP).—A ten-round battle between Jack King, former Little Rock, Ark., middleweight, and Sammy Slaughter, Terre Haute, Ind., Negro, was called off tonight because of threatening weather.

Legion Diamonders Get Prizes August 9

Boys who participated in the American Legion baseball series, which ended last Sunday, will be awarded prizes at the fifteenth annual convention of the District of Columbia Department, to be held August 9, at Central High School. Spengler Post, managed by Jim Hayre, won the 1933 championship, its fourth in a row. Local jewelry firms donated the trophies.

Rippy Is Victor In Rock Creek Golf Final

Defeats Baer by 3 and 2; Faces Downey or Will for Loeffler Trophy.

DEADLY approach shots that saved him a lot of work on the greens enabled Claude Rippy, former Shelby, N. C., golfer, to defeat John Baer, jr., son of a former North Dakota member of Congress, by 3 and 2 yesterday in the finals of the Rock Creek division of the District public links tournament.

Rippy's victory won him the right to meet the winner of the match between John Downey and Harlan Will, finalists at East Potomac. Downey triumphed in his semifinals battle yesterday, beating P. L. Sweeney, 3 and 2.

The champions of both courses will fight for the Loeffler Trophy next Tuesday in a 36-hole match, 18 at East Potomac and 18 at Rock Creek.

Bob Marks won the second flight at Rock Creek by trimming Larry Day, 3 and 2, after losing the first three holes. A. M. Holmes captured the third flight by beating A. B. Williams, 1 up.

Nats Nip Yanks and Hike Lead To 2 Games

Bolton's Single in Tenth Brings in Kuhel With Winning Marker.

hander was forced into a losing battle with the rare fortitude and skill of Jack Russell, who had to contend with imminent and damaging attacks of Bronxitis in both the ninth and tenth.

The Yanks had tied the score against Russell in the ninth and had the winning run on third with one out in the tenth, only to see the top of their batting order fizzle, whereupon the Nats went out and won the ball game, lifting the 15,000 customers from the throes of near-despair to joy that was boundless.

Ruffing dug his own pitfall. He walked Joe Cronin to start that fateful tenth, and Fred Schulte, a poor bunter, laid down the conventional sacrifice bunt that was perfect. Then Manager McCarthy began pulling the strategical strings. He ordered Joe Kuhel passed to provide double-play possibilities.

Cronin Forced at Plate.

Whereat, Cronin installed Dave Harris to pinch hit for Bluege. Ruffing found himself in a hole and walked Harris. Cronin's strategy then called for the squeeze play with Luke Sewell at bat. But matters went awry. Sewell's attempted bunt was a sharp rap to Gehrig and Cronin was forced at the plate for the second out.

Cronin picked himself up at the plate, waved for Bolton, gave him a reassuring pat on the back and sent the third-string catcher to the plate to bat for Russell. Bolton had been to bat but 12 times this year, made two hits, and the crowd settled back to await the start of the eleventh.

Kuhel Scores Run.

But it was to be a ten-inning ball game. Bolton swung at Ruffing's first pitch. It was a slice, hardly a solid wallop, but it sailed fair between Joe Sewell and third base and Kuhel cake-walked home from third with the run that won the ball game.

Those eighth, ninth and tenth innings inculcated serious doubts of the Nats' success in the minds of the 15,000. Stewart turned in a neat job in limiting the Yanks to a run in the eighth, and Russell brought to bear some masterful work in the ninth and tenth to hold the Yanks to a lone tally when it appeared they would score in groups.

2 Hits in Seven Innings.

Two hits, both singles by Gehrig and Ruth, were the extent of the Yanks' damage against Stewart in the first seven innings, but Dickey and Ruffing singled in the eighth to put runners on third and first with one out. Goslin had made the out with a heart-disease catch of Farrell's liner. Combs scored Dickey with a single to left center and advanced Ruffing to second, but Stewart made a clever stop of Sewell's bounce to the box to avert further immediate trouble.

He walked Ruth, however, to put the potential winning run on base and then wound up matters for the time being when Gehrig, the laddie known as Lou, hit a harmless hop to Myer.

Russell was in trouble immediately in the ninth when Chapman rapped his first pitch to right for a double. Then Joe Kuhel made a brilliant scoop-up of Lazzeri's hot shot with the infield drawn in and trapped Chapman between bases with a toss to Bluege. The latter ran Chapman back to second and heaved to Cronin, who put the ball on the runner. Umpire Geisel called Chapman out, then safe, concluding either that Cronin didn't tag him or dropped the ball. Lazzeri had made first safely.

Is Trapped Again.

A moment later Chapman again was trapped off second by Sewell's throw. The heave, however, was a bit low. Chapman scrambled back to the bag and was safe when he knocked the ball from Cronin's glove. Dickey then sacrificed Chapman to third and he scored on Pinch Hitter Walker's prodigious fly to Goslin. Ruffing popped to Bluege.

The tenth opened discouragingly for Russell. Combs' grounder took a weird hop away from Myer's glove for two bases and he was on third after Sewell's sacrifice. Ruth was walked intentionally to provide a double-play chance and then Gehrig, the laddie known as Lou, skied a short fly to Manush, whose throw to the plate held Combs at third. Russell made good his escape by forcing Chapman to ground to Cronin, who tossed to second for a force play.

You know what happened after that.

Myer's Triple Unavailing.

But before that, the Nats had helped themselves to a 2-to-0 lead. Buddy Myer got a triple to lead off the first inning when Babe Ruth played his blow to the right field fence like a babe in the woods, but Buddy perished on the sack.

Bases on balls, which figured in all of the Nats' runs, started them on their winning way in the second. Schulte walked, went to third on Kuhel's single and scored on Sewell's short fly to Ruth. They boosted it to 2-to-0 in the sixth, when Manush singled, went to second on Cronin's walk, advanced to third when Ruffing made a poor throw of Schulte's bunt, and scored on Kuhel's fly to Chapman.

Matters stood thus until the eighth when the game suddenly became anybody's.

Richmond Nine Is Winner.

Newport News, Va., July 27 (AP). Richmond defeated Newport News, 2 to 1, today in the American Legion Junior State elimination series, behind the masterful pitching of Stone.

English Girl Off To Swim Channel

Boulogne, July 27 (U.P.).—An English girl, Sunny Lowry, started out late tonight from Griz Nez in an attempt to better the record for swimming the English Channel.

Perfect weather conditions prevailed as Miss Lowry entered the water.

Gertrude Ederle set the record on August 6, 1926, when she crossed the treacherous channel in 14 hours 31 minutes, after failing on a previous attempt.

Amateur Golf Trials Draw 580 Field

Somerville, Title Holder, Alone Is Exempt From Sectional Tryouts.

NEW YORK, July 27 (AP).—A total of 580 golfers, only 20 fewer than last year, has been entered for the United States amateur golf championship.

All except C. Ross Somerville, of Canada, the defending title holder, must play in the sectional qualifying competition, to be held simultaneously August 8 in 22 districts. The qualifiers, numbering somewhere between 150 and 165, will start in the championship play at the Kenwood Country Club, Cincinnati, September 11.

The metropolitan New York district, with 83 candidates for 22 qualifying places, tops the sectional list, followed by Chicago with 72, and Cincinnati with 60 entries.

Few Coast Aspirants.

While the East and Midwest is more strongly represented than usual, the Pacific Coast's three qualifying centers have posted only 24 entries to contest for six places. Forty-seven entries will compete for twelve places at the Columbia Country Club, near Washington, D. C.

Forty-seven golfers from Baltimore, Virginia and the District will compete in the sectional qualifying test at Columbia Country Club for the 12 places allotted the Middle Atlantic sector.

In the 1932 trials at Chevy Chase there were 88 contestants, and 19 places were open. The District had 9 qualifiers; Baltimore, 6; Virginia, 3, and Pennsylvania, 1.

Billy Howell and Chandler Harper will be the foremost Virginia contestants. Baltimore is banking on such stars as Dave Crook, Ernie Caldwell and B. Warren Corkran, while the District will offer the versatile Roger Peacock, Harry Pitt, Maury Nee, Miller B. Stevenson, John Shorey and a host of other sharpshooters.

Muncaster Trophy To Mrs. Wootton

Mrs. Peggy Wootton, District public links women's champion, added to her laurels yesterday by winning the Muncaster Trophy in the 36-hole medal handicap tournament for women members of Washington Golf and Country Club. Her score was 97—101—198—36—162.

Mrs. Wootton nosed out Mrs. Douglas Tschiffely, golf chairman, by one stroke. With the championship almost in her grasp, Mrs. Tschiffely floundered on the tricky eighteenth hole, where she used up 8 strokes. Mrs. Tschiffely, who won a golf bag for her efforts, finished with 96—95—191—28—163. This prize was donated by M. C. List.

Third prize, a silver platter, given by F. W. Bradbury, went to Mrs. G. C. Roney, who had 220—48—172. Mrs. C. B. Stewart, handicap and prize committee chairman, won fourth prize, a silver compote, with her 212—36—172. The consolation honor went to Mrs. J. Whitteen.

It was announced that a mixed Scotch foursome would be held for members at the club Sunday. Those wishing to enter should call Lincoln 3369. Next Tuesday "Ladies Day" will be observed at the club, a Scotch foursome being the feature, beginning at 9 o'clock.

Mangin Defeats Parker in Surprise

Joins Shields in Finals by Winning 6—3, 7—5, at Seabright.

By B. Gregory Hewlett.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 27 (AP). a couple of stars—seasoned campaigners in widely varied tennis wars—Gregory S. Mangin, of Newark, and Frank Shields, of New York, entrenched themselves in the final round of the renowned invitation grass court tournament of the Seabright Cricket and Tennis Club today, while the brightest newcomer among the aristocrats of the game and the conqueror of the 1932 winner were relegated to the galleries.

Mangin reached peak form to outmaneuver 17-year-old Frankie Parker in straight sets in one semifinal and thereby eliminated from the forty-sixth renewal of this classic event the strokemaker who was seeded second only to Sidney Wood, winner of the men's bowl a year ago.

Shields met a more stubborn opponent in Bryan "Bitsy" Grant, of Atlanta, Ga., who yesterday catapulted into prominence by his defeat of Wood. It took Shields, former Davis Cup player and seeded third here, three hard sets to overcome the hard-driving Southern champion who ranks five places beneath him on the national list.

Straight-Set Victory.

Mangin won by scores of 6—3, 7—5, and Shields' triumph resulted from scores of 6—8, 6—4, 6—3.

Finalists in the women's division and the men's doubles also were decided today. Helen Jacobs, the national champion who is in pursuit of her fourth Seabright bowl, defeated a fellow-Californian, Josephine Cruickshank, ranked fifth in the United States, 6—3, 6—1, and little Sarah Palfrey, of Brookline, Mass., ended Baroness Maud Levi's string of surprise conquests by winning, 6—4, 6—0.

Parker and Shields combined in men's doubles to administer a 6—3, 6—4 trimming to Samuel Lee and Hal Surface, and the team of Mangin and Wood eked out a 6—2, 3—6, 6—3 triumph over the collegiate pair of Karl Kamrath and Wilmer Hines.

Men's Singles.

Semifinal round—Frank Shields, New York, defeated Bryan Grant, Atlanta, Ga., 6—3, 6—4, 6—3; Gregory S. Mangin, Newark, N. J., defeated Frank Parker, Milwaukee, Wis., 6—3, 7—5.

Women's Singles.

Semifinal round—Helen Jacobs, Berkeley, Calif., defeated Miss Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana, Calif., 6—3, 6—7.

Women's Singles.

Semifinal round—Sarah Palfrey, Brookline, Mass., defeated Baroness Maud Levi, New York, 6—4, 6—0.

Men's Doubles.

Semifinal round—Frank Shields, New York, and Frank Parker, Milwaukee, Wis., defeated Samuel Lee, Berkeley, Calif., and Hal Surface, Kansas City, 6—3, 6—4; Sidney B. Wood, jr., New York, and Gregory S. Mangin, Newark, defeated Karl Kamrath, Fort Worth, Tex., and Wilmer Hines, Columbia, S. C., 6—2, 3—6, 6—3.

MILLER
GEARED-TO-THE-ROAD TIRES

Claims about bigger and better tires are sometimes misleading.

Don't be mislead by claims and counter claims about bigger and better tires. The one tire that has to be better than all the rest—is the one that carries a written guarantee that it will outwear any other tire in the same price field.

Citizens' Group Awaits Bridge Battle Today

Scores Engineer's 'Hostile' Attitude in Calvert Span Dispute.

Aroused by "the hostile attitude of the Engineer Commissioner," a committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations will be on hand today when the Fine Arts and National Capital Park and Planning Commissions meet jointly to discuss the design of the new Calvert Street Bridge.

The federation wants a multiple-arch masonry bridge over Rock Creek. A design calling for single-arch steel structure has been submitted to the District Commissioners by Modjeski, Masters & Chase, Philadelphia bridge engineers.

In a letter sent yesterday to the Arts and Planning Commissions, the federation's subcommittee attacked the Engineer Commissioner's action in approving a "restudy and reinvestigation" by the Philadelphia firm.

Case Is Plain, Says Protest.

"It should be plain to every thinking mind," the group of five protested, "that Congress never contemplated either a delegation of the restudy and reinvestigation to a firm of engineers which had previously made up their minds, nor the conduct of such restudy and reinvestigation by an outgoing Board of District Commissioners, the members of which had previously made up their minds."

Refusal to allow the subcommittee chairman access to records pertaining to Calvert Street Bridge yesterday also was charged to the Engineer Commissioner, John C. Gotwals, who was not mentioned by name in the letter.

Before the joint meeting, the Fine Arts Commission will hold a session by itself to discuss a pedestal for a bust of Goethe to be set up in Meridian Hill Park.

Other Matters Up.

In addition to the Calvert street bridge, other matters to be discussed are:

The proposal to widen E street back of the Sherman statue west of Fifteenth street northwest.

Repaving Fourteenth street through the Mall.

Plans of development for the Fort Drive, a boulevard connecting the Civil War forts around the city.

The widening of East Capitol street to 72 feet.

The regional bypass, a boulevard diverting traffic from the city proper, leading it from the Baltimore roads around the city to Chain Bridge.

Minor matters of street widening and street closing.

Geologists Are Told Of Lost Continents

Two ancient continents, Gondwanaland in the Northern Hemisphere; and Laurasia in the Southern, were described yesterday to the International Geological Congress by Dr. T. Tokuda, of Japan.

He told of three great forces which have thrust up the world's mountains. They are, he said, the "drifting of continents, upheavals of old oceans and the sliding of portions of continents into the sea."

The great mountain chain of North and South America—the Rockies and the Andes—have been folded up because the two continents are drifting to the westward, with the mass of the Pacific resisting and causing the rocks to pile up.

The mountains of the eastern part of Asia, he declared, were pushed up by a great landslide which is sliding down to the middle of the Pacific. The force of this landslide caused the upheaval of land in eastern Asia, he said.

India's and Europe's ranges originated in the Tethys Sea, an ocean which separated Gondwanaland and Laurasia, Dr. Tokuda said.

Man Beaten by Robbers In Serious Condition

Coonie Goldstein, 75-year-old proprietor of a delicatessen at 908 Fifth street northwest, was in a serious condition at Casualty Hospital as the result of a brutal beating by two colored men who attempted to rob him in the store late yesterday.

Goldstein was beaten unconscious. He later told police the men attacked him after he refused to give them his money. They fled without obtaining any loot.

Father Sues in Death Of 4-Year-Old Musician

Because of the death of his 4-year-old son, whom he proclaimed to be an accomplished musician, Samuel C. Jaspen, 714 Seventeenth street northwest, yesterday filed suit in the District Supreme Court against Thomas J. Fisher & Co., for $10,000.

Jaspen declared the Fisher company walled up a passageway at the Seventeenth street place and instructed tenants to use the fire escape to reach the courtyard. He complained that his son fell and suffered fatal injuries while using this means of entry. The suit alleged the fire escape was not safeguarded properly.

Man's Skull Cracked By Falling Hammer

George R. Nally, 32, of 5414 Kansas avenue northwest, is suffering from a possible fracture of the skull received yesterday when a hammer dropped on his head while he was working on the second floor of the Library of Congress Building.

The hammer fell from a board on the third story of the building.

Hechinger Co. Sued.

The Hechinger Co., Fifteenth and H streets northeast, yesterday was named defendant in a suit for $10,000. The suit, filed by Attorneys A. L. Newmyer and R. I. Miller in the District Supreme Court, alleged that a Hechinger truck struck Leah H. Campbell, of Brooklyn, N. Y., last April and injured her severely.

Dogs, Dogs—Pedigreed and Mongrel

Youth's Death Called Suicide; Lacks Motive

Testimony of Caretaker Convinces Coroner He Shot Self.

The "simple and honest" testimony of a middle-aged cemetery caretaker aided police to establish a suicide verdict yesterday in the shooting of Thomas Crane, 23-year-old cemetery employee, Wednesday night.

A certificate of suicide was issued by acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald.

Crane was found wounded in his room, 3215 Fifteenth place southeast.

Alvin T. Curtis, 43, Adas Israel Cemetery caretaker, with whom Crane lived as a cemetery employee, claims to be the only witness to the fatal shooting. He told police that Crane killed himself with a .22-caliber single-action rifle.

Several Shells Found.

Police found an exploded shell in the gun, a spent bullet and second empty shell lay on the floor beside Crane. Curtis said only one shot was fired.

On several occasions the youth had threatened suicide, Curtis said.

Crane stood in a small hallway on the first floor of the Curtis house, held the rifle at arm's length and the barrel against his chest. Curtis stepped from an adjoining room, rushed to the young man's side and attempted to grab the gun. Crane pulled the trigger and slumped to the floor against a chest of drawers, Curtis testified.

Body's Position Puzzle.

Crane's position led police to believe he had been dragged to the spot. Curtis said he picked up the gun, set it in a corner and called the Eleventh Precinct Station.

A grief-stricken father, W. F. Crane, of Lignum, Va., appeared at police headquarters last night protesting that his son had not killed himself. Police convinced him that the youth had committed suicide. No motive could be learned.

Sues for $10,000 Damages.

Thomas and Mamie Burr, 2100 Nineteenth street northwest, yesterday were sued for $10,000 damages by Lawrence Dorgan.

He charged that Burr, while driving a car, in which the latter's wife was riding, struck him as he was crossing Connecticut avenue at L street.

Gin Blamed

Too Much of It, Says Employee Who Fired Buildings of Newspapers.

"Too much gin" was the reason Frank H. Bielaski, 21, of 61 I street northwest, gave for his penchant for setting fire to buildings, in a confession at police headquarters yesterday.

Bielaski, an employee of the Daily News, was arrested early yesterday after he had set fire to the Daily News Building, causing small damage. He confessed he had previously set fire to the News Building on June 24, and the Times-Herald Building on the same date. The fires were extinguished before they gained headway.

He was arrested at his home a few hours after the fire by Precinct Detective Burt Shelton and turned over to Detective Sergts. Hubert E. Brodie and Leo Murray. The case was also investigated by Fire Inspectors R. A. Monteith and J. R. Gray.

Policeman Beaten In Fight With Six

Policeman S. W. Howland, of the First Precinct, lost his shirt, and received an eye injury and bruises last night in a fight with two men at North Capitol and K streets northwest.

Responding to a disturbance report, the policeman told the men to "pipe down." He was immediately attacked by the men. Others joined in, and at one time six men were engaged in the rough and tumble fight.

When police reserves arrived all the combatants had escaped except the policeman and one man, who identified himself as John Casey, 32, 4525 Seventh street northwest. He was held on a charge of drunk and disorderly.

Thief Breaks Into Van; $21 in Cigarettes Lost

While James Harlow, 318 G street northeast, a truckman for the A. & P. Grocery Co., was making a delivery yesterday at 800 Channing street northeast, a cigarette-smoking thief broke open the truck door and helped himself.

Harlow told police that 19 cartons of cigarettes were stolen. They were valued at $21.

District Relief Fund Increase Is Indicated

Johnstone Says Allowance of $20 for Four Is Inadequate.

The District government's weekly expenditure for relief, now $48,000 a week, will probably be increased rather than decreased, it was indicated yesterday afternoon following a conference between the emergency relief committee and Alan Johnstone, field representative of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

The matter will be discussed further at a conference today between Johnstone and the District Commissioners, after which some schedule for additional aid is expected to be established.

The Board of Public Welfare yesterday received a recommendation from the Washington Council of Social Agencies that the District ask the Federal Relief Administration for an additional $60,000 to take care of transients, now handled entirely by private charitable agencies.

George S. Wilson, welfare director, said that the board had not had time to consider the proposal, though it had been discussed in general terms over a long period. He indicated that its acceptance would depend entirely on whether the additional grant could be obtained.

The council offered to pay the salaries of certain of the welfare workers who would be transferred from the Travelers Aid Society and the Salvation Army to the welfare board.

Johnstone expressed his approval of the unemployment relief work done so far by the Board of Public Welfare. He stated, however, that the District rate of relief, with but $20 a month for a family of four on an average and with most single men barred, is entirely inadequate.

He indicated that the District could expect additional grants from the Federal Relief Administration besides the $173,000 which was recently requested on the basis of a third of expenditures by the District for relief during April, May and June. The latter, he said, would be approved within the next few days.

Some changes in the set-up of the emergency relief division, headed by Leroy A. Halbert, and in the manner of distributing unemployment relief were also discussed with the welfare committee. Johnstone said that the Federal Relief Administration desired a uniformity among the 48 States and the District in the operation of relief agencies.

He also stated that Federal relief grants must be expended entirely by public agencies or the District government in this instance. This may mean the elimination of the District committee on employment, which was established about two years ago by the Community Chest and which now assists in the assigning of applicants for relief to made-work jobs.

Home Loan Bank's Strength Is Shown

Russell Tells Kiwanians It Will Aid Growth of Family Life.

The Federal Home Loan Bank system, although only a few months old, has capital approaching the Federal Reserve system, Horace Russell, general counsel for the Home Loan Bank Board, told the Washington Kiwanis Club at a luncheon yesterday.

"The undue cost of home ownership, which has retarded the development of family life in this country, will be immeasurably reduced by the operation of the bank," Russell said.

A resolution proposing enlistment of all members of the club in unified support of the President's national recovery program was adopted unanimously by the club.

Construction Worker Hurt in 5-Story Fall

Max Harrington, 18, of 3208 Brothers place southeast, an employee of the B & W. Construction Co., was injured seriously yesterday when he fell from the fifth story of a building at St. Elizabeths Hospital.

Harrington, a time-keeper, lost his footing while on a scaffold. He was treated by a Casualty Hospital ambulance staff and confined to St. Elizabeths. He is believed suffering from internal injuries.

Bets Off

Two Nabbed at Ball Park on Charge of Laying Wagers on Plays.

Two alleged "betcha 'e don't" gamblers were arrested yesterday by members of the vice squad at the Washington-New York baseball game. Booked at the Second Precinct, they identified themselves as Peter Kisling, 34, New York, and William J. Freeman, 38, Chastleton Hotel.

Lieut. N. O. Holmes, of the vice squad, stated last night he was determined to break up that form of gambling. He said the men circulated through the crowds and at a tense moment, when a hit is needed, they offered to bet the hitter "don't get a hit," or that he "don't go to first," with the odds being overwhelmingly in their favor.

Chamber Requests Talk by Hammond

Reemployment Campaign Chief Asked to Tell of Work Today.

With a view to expediting general acceptance of the blanket code by local industries, the committee on manufactures of the Washington Chamber of Commerce has invited Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, executive director of the President's emergency reemployment program, to discuss the development at the chamber headquarters in the Homer Building at noon today.

Heads of a number of local industrial plants have been invited to present their problems to Gen. Hammond. Others will be welcome insofar as seating facilities permit, it was announced. Copies of the President's reemployment agreement will be available.

Washington business is working steadily on a program to fit the objectives of the code. Department store heads met again yesterday to study the details of their program. The furniture store division of the Washington Merchants and Manufacturers Association will meet today. The restaurant and jewelers division will meet Monday.

Dogs' Doubts

White House Pets Take No Chances Passing New Lion Rugs.

Meggie, the Scotch terrier belonging to Mrs. Roosevelt, and Major, the White House police dog, do not believe that the huge lion skins guarding the corridor outside the door of the President of the United States "are stuffed." When either dog has occasion to pass along the corridor they carefully avoid stepping on the rugs. Meggie skirts them disdainfully and Major strides majestically around them.

These rugs, which were much admired by Mrs. Roosevelt when she viewed them for the first time on her return from her motor trip Wednesday, were sent to President and Mrs. Roosevelt and to Mr. James Rosevelt by "The Conquering Lion of Judah," the Emperor of Ethiopia, Haile Selassie, and presented by his special envoy and son-in-law, Ras Desta Demetu, on a recent visit to the White House. One is bound with a very wide flange of green felt and the other with a wide flange of red felt.

District Amateur Fliers to Compete

Trials for National Air Pageant Will Be Held in Capital Soon.

Washington's amateur aviators who want to participate in the National Air Pageant at Roosevelt Field, N. Y., October 7 and 8, will be qualified before an inspector soon to be appointed by Chester H. Warrington, governor of the local district for the United States Amateur Air Pilots' Association.

The New York pageant, the first major gathering of amateur pilots, will be held in the interests of charity, with Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt as honorary chairman. It will consist of races and other aerial events, with cash prizes aggregating $10,000.

Elimination contests are to be held in each region of the association.

Park Savings Stockholders Assessed Fully

Comptroller of Currency's Suit to Test Legality of Practice.

A 100 per cent assessment on stock has been levied against stockholders of Park Savings Bank by the office of the Comptroller of the Currency. It was learned yesterday the office soon will file suit against two prominent stockholders of the institution to test its right to make such an assessment.

The suit is necessitated because this institution, now in a Treasury Department receivership, was chartered under the laws of the State of Alabama, which do not provide for double liability on bank stock.

Some doubt is expressed regarding the right to collect a 100 per cent stock assessment from the stockholders because of a court decision bearing on this point in connection with the insolvent Departmental Bank.

The Treasury Department soon will file an answer to a suit of a depositors' committee of Park Savings Bank attempting to replace the Treasury Department receiver for that bank by a receiver appointed by the court.

Prisoner Tries to Hang Self.

Willard S. Wooden, 66, South Washington, Va., who was being held on an open charge of investigation, attempted to hang himself with his shoe laces yesterday in a cell at the Third Precinct Station. He was removed to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation.

King Warns Milk Men on Price Fixing

Monopoly Agreements to Meet Prosecution, Senator Says.

Warning that any milk-marketing agreement of a monopolistic nature will be met with instant prosecution was given yesterday to Washington distributors and producers by Senator William H. King, chairman of the Senate District Committee.

The warning came when Representatives of the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association asked Senator King if he objected to a call for public hearings on a proposed marketing agreement for the Washington area.

"They can have any hearings they want, but if they make any monopolistic agreements, I'll see that they are brought to task for violation of the Sherman antitrust law," said Senator King.

Ask Contract Approval.

Washington distributors and producers have asked the Agricultural Adjustment Administration to approve a contract between them. The contract would fix a price to the farmer of 26 cents a gallon for milk to be sold in bottle form. Milk used for cream-making purposes would bring 20 cents a gallon to the producer.

For milk used by distributors for making manufactured products, such as cottage cheese, the farmer would receive 10 cents a gallon. In addition, the farmer would receive a premium of from 1 cent to 4 cents a gallon for high ratings by the health department. The premiums would apply only on the milk sold in bottle form.

Retail Price Not Told.

The wholesale and retail price of milk under the proposed marketing agreement has not been determined. In the proposed contract there was no indication whether the retail price of milk will be higher or lower. The prices to the purchaser are virtually the same as they received for their July shipments.

The representatives of the producers who called on Senator King yesterday were I. W. Heeps, president of the Eastern States Marketing Association; John Magill, secretary of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association, and John S. Barbour, attorney for the producers.

Woman's Charge Jails Former Theater Man

Julius Frese, 1648 Gales street northeast, said to be a former theater manager, was being held at the Sixth Precinct station house last night on a statutory charge in connection with an alleged assault on Mrs. Helen Calludis, 24, 6233 Georgia avenue northwest.

The alleged attack occurred last Saturday in the shoe repair shop operated by Frese in the rear of the tailor shop owned by Mrs. Calludis and her husband, William, at the Georgia avenue address. Frese was arrested early yesterday.

Jesuit Retreat Party Leaves Here Tonight

The Rev. Ferdinand Schoberg of the Jesuit Order will conduct the spiritual exercises for the annual retreat for men of the Curley Club, which will be held at Manresa-on-the-Severn, overlooking the Naval Academy at Annapolis, beginning this evening at 7 o'clock.

The retreatants will leave the Continental Hotel at 5:15 p. m., reaching Manresa in time for dinner. Francis A. McCann is handling arrangements.
